—Gen. Daniel E. Sickles was confirmed by the Senate on the 12th, by one majority.

—The London Times accords the palm in sculpture at the World's Exhibition to Story, an American.

—Gen. Curtis has formally set free twenty eight captured slaves of Judge Martin, a noted rebel.

—The casualties resulting from the bombardment of Fort Pillow, up to the 9th inst., were ten killed and wounded.

—On the 9th the Senate rejected a long list of naval nominations restoring the officers who resigned before the war to their former relative positions.

—Lieut. Colonel Douglass McBride, chief of Gen. McBride's staff, and aide-de camp of Gen. Frost at the battle of Pea Ridge, was killed by our skirmishers on the 3d or 4th instant.

—Judge Catron opened the United States District Court for the Middle District of Tennessee, at Nashville, April 22d. Ten months before the venerable Judge and his sick wife were driven from Nashville, by the rebel leaders.

—A mile and a half below Memphis, four thousand bales of cotton are piled ready for the torch, as soon as the fall of Fort Pillow is ascertained; there are also several thousand hogsheads of sugar and molasses ready to be rolled into the river.

—At the charter election in Rochester, Olmstead county, on the 6th, the following officers (Republican) were chosen: Mayor, L. B. Bliss; Recorder, N. C. Younglove; City Justice, R. Reynolds; Assessor, J. V. Daniels.

—In the list of sick and wounded sent from Pittsburg Landing to hospitals in the North, which we find in a late Louisville Journal, are the names of Sebe F. Jumper, of Wright county; Wm. Parker, Monticello; David Gates, Minneapolis; and Geo. Lazimers, Taylor's Falls—all of the First Battery.

—Lieut. Dempsey and Captain Forest, of New York Regiments, were exchanged and came from Richmond, into McDowell's lines on the 9th. They report that preparations had been made by the rebels to attack McDowell with a strong force, and troops had lately been sent from Richmond for that purpose.

—In describing the new flag lately adopted by the rebels, some one says: "Imagine a red handkerchief with a broad white bar stretching diagonally across it from one corner to the other, and similar bars crossing the first from the opposite corners, with a blue shield at the point of intersection, on which a yellow spot represents the sun, and you have the flag."

—The papers in Colorado Territory complain of the superseding of Governor Gilpin of that Territory, and aver that it was brought about by Chicago influence in order to secure a Northern route for the proposed Pacific Railroad, and give Chicago instead of St. Louis the advantages to be secured by its construction. It is deemed that the interests of Denver will be injuriously affected by the Chicago influence.

—Late Southern papers received give the following order from Beauregard, which was telegraphed by his direction to the leading newspapers in the rebel States on the Mississippi, on the 27th of April:

To Planters South:

The casualties of war have opened the Mississippi to our enemies. The time has therefore come to test the earnestness of all classes, and I call on all patriotic planters owing cotton in the possible reach of our enemies, to apply the torch to it without delay or hesitation. G. T. BEAUREGARD.

—The Mankato Record says there is a call for a Democratic State Convention to be held in this city in July, to nominate members of Congress if it be deemed advisable, and in connection therewith that paper recommends to the Southern district the name of Col. James George, of the Minnesota Second Regiment. We think we are well enough acquainted with Colonel George to say that he will not lend his name to assist the schemes of men of such questionable motives as are known to actuate those who are inaugurating the "Democratic" movement at this time, and who will inevitably rule such a Convention. He is too much in earnest in fighting the rebels on their own ground to allow himself to be used to further the schemes of their sympathisers in his rear.

—The Cairo correspondent of the Chicago Tribune says: "Since the reconnoissance of the country on the Obion by the Federal cavalry from Hickman, the Confederates have crossed the river and inflicted the grossest outrages upon the parties who sympathized with and greeted as so cordially. Davis, the proprietor of the mill where we halted, is taken prisoner and reported hung. 'Squire Latham, a lawyer in Dresden, obnoxious on account of his loyal proclivities, is also reported hung. Benj. Schaffer, who was in command of the cavalry which recently left Fort Henry in search of the Clay King guerillas, was killed by a Confederate Captain named Venable. The circumstances were briefly these: Major Shaffer being surrounded, was ordered to surrender, he refused and dared the Captain to mortal combat. At it they went, and the Major was in a fair way to disable his antagonist, when a private in the Confederate ranks drew his revolver and shot him dead.

THE STAMPEDE TO CARIBOO.

We have on frequent occasions alluded to the tide of emigration setting in this spring for the gold regions of the Northwest. Every few days a company starts from here on the long and wearisome journey to that far off country. These companies are principally from this State and Canada, but there is much scattering emigration, that with mules or ox teams pass through toward that destination without a note being made of it. The emigration, however, from this direction is but a tithe of the great moving mass which has now turned in that channel. A telegraphic dispatch of the 10th inst., from San Francisco, speaks thus:

The steamers Brother Jonathan, Oregon and Panama, have arrived from Oregon and British Columbia, within two days, bringing $22,000 in treasure, and dates to the seventh and fifth. Portland and Victoria were crowded with strangers just arrived from California on their way to the mines. The best informed men believed half the adult population of Oregon would spend the summer in Salmon and contiguous mining regions—2,500 men had already reached these diggings. Flour and all kinds of provisions brought enormous prices. Gold was believed to be abundant over a great extent of the country. The British Columbia mining season was opened unusually early, and sanguine people were anticipating for that country a repetition of the 1849 times in California. Miners were rushing to Caribou faster than needed supplies could be furnished. Seven hundred and fifty people have left San Francisco this week by the only steamers that have sailed for Oregon and Columbia. Emigration in that direction fully equals the means of transportation, and will doubtless increase for weeks to come.

These facts we think may justly cause serious apprehensions. The scenes in the early discovery of the California placers; those that attended the great rush to Pike's Peak, and also to Frazer river, bid fair to be re-enacted, perhaps in an aggravated form, this season in the Cariboo district. The rush of so many to a wild, out-of-the-way portion of country, many of them scantily provided for, will, as a consequence, cause destitution and suffering. We wish these facts to be fairly understood, and trust that all who contemplate going from this region will provide themselves with an ample outfit, and be prepared, as far as possible, for any emergency.

M'CLELLAN'S STRATEGY.

We belong to no class of man-worshipers. Our readers will bear us out in saying that while we have not engaged in fulsome praise of our leading General—a praise which events only could demonstrate that he merits—we have never given place to the impatience, injurious criticism and lack of faith in the young commander, which has been so prevalent all through the country. Certain features of the strategy which has caused so much impatience may now be more clearly shown and appreciated than at the time when "when all was quiet on the Potomac." The Cincinnati Commercial, in a late article expresses so many of our own reflections upon this subject that we give it entire. We are entirely willing that all sides of the subject shall be candidly examined, though, we wish to say, before the policy of Secretary Stanton is to be condemned, it is necessary for him to be heard in the case. Facts which he might bring to light, of which the public are not now in possession, with those that are already known, may, and we think will, throw considerable additional light upon the question upon which, it is alleged, there is an issue between the Secretary and the General, and materially modify the strictures of the Commercial upon the policy of the former:

There need be no delicacy any further as to the fact that Secretary Stanton and General McClellan are no longer friends. Each was helped to the high place which he occupies by the other, but neither was willing to play the second fiddle—McClellan was a quiet, silent man, and Stanton a demonstrative individual—and so they disagreed. The plans of Gen. McClellan for the campaign in Virginia are being made known by events, and it must be confessed by all persons of intelligence and candor that they seem to have been admirable. He was anxious the enemy should remain in force at Manassas, and opposed all movements calculated to scare them away from that point. He proposed not so much to take Manassas in good time, as to cut off the retreat of the enemy from Virginia. Hence he was unwilling, among other things, to give way to the impetuous counsels of Lander, for he feared the occupation of Winchester would be the signal for a stampede from Manassas. There is reason to believe he was constrained to move his right wing inopportunely, and hence the runaway "triumph" of the rebels on the Potomac. The celebrated blockade of the Potomac was submitted to through the winter, in order to divert the attention of the enemy from their right wing. It was well known that the blockading batteries could be taken at any time, but those who were so anxious on that point simply failed to see, like most spectators of games of chess or war, two or three moves ahead.

McClellan's purpose was, as soon as the roads became good, to suddenly concentrate all available transports to Annapolis, or at Alexandria, if the Potomac could be summarily cleared, and simultaneously move a division of his grand army to flank Manassas by way of Winchester, and the main body to Fortress Monroe or West Point, and advance upon Richmond. It is plain enough that if the enemy could have been kept at Manassas until transports were concentrated, as they might have been without giving warning, at Annapolis; and if, as there was reason to believe before the Merrimac development, our gunboats could be regarded as competent, upon short notice, to command the York and James rivers, McClellan could have beaten Jo Johnston to Richmond, and Virginia would have become an enormous trap for rebels. They could not have turned upon and taken Washington, because it was too well fortified, and within too easy reach of the North. But the game was flushed from Manassas by the eagerness of amateur military men before the hunter was ready bag it. As soon as the army began to move "forward to Richmond" the people discovered that the difficulty in getting through the Virginia roads was a reality and not a figment of McClellan's imagination. An attempt was made by McDowell to push a column South from Manasssas; but it could not be done. McClellan's plan was necessarily changed. He determined, in spite of the Merrimac, to make his advance upon Richmond from Fortress Monroe, and transported his army to that point. He could not, however, expect to surprise the rebels and reach Richmond before they could retire from the Gordonsville lines. His object seems to have been to lure the enemy into the Peninsula. They certainly appeared there, and he found them in great force and formidably fortified at Yorktown. His orders on leaving Washington were that Gen. McDowell, and his splendid army, should proceed to Urbana on the Rappahannock. Urbana is twenty miles by a good road from West Point, which is thirty-one miles from Richmond.

McDowell could have been moved to Urbana as readily as to Acquia Creek, and could have reached West Point as quickly as he did reach Fredericksburg. And given, McDowell with his whole army at West Point instead of at Fredericksburg, and the rebel host on the Peninsula would be helpless. But after McClellan's departure from Washington, Mr. Stanton got up his Department of the Rappahannock. The intention on his part may have been good, but there is no question that the effect was bad. It seemed for a time to the public that Gen. McClellan had put himself in a way to be bagged. But state the facts and all is clear as light. History will record as a most strange and ominous blunder that might have had the most disastrous consequences, the interference of the Secretary of War with the plans of the General commanding the Department of the Potomac. A number of demonstrative gentlemen in Washington, some of them holding high official positions, concluded because Gen. McClellan did not confide in them, that he was part traitor and part fool. The first fruit of their wisdom is the department the Rappahannock, the effect of which is to keep thirty thousand of the best troops in the army in a position where they are perfectly useless while the great struggle is going on. McClellan wanted McDowell at West Point, on the York river. If he were there to day the rebel army would be ours. But we have no advices that he has left the Upper Rappahannock, where the sublime strategy of Secretary Stanton has placed him: and in that position he exercises no more influence on the fate of the rebel army in the Peninsula than if he were in the moon. It is well known that Gen. McClellan made urgent representations of the injustice done him by the change of programme which followed his departure from Washington. The President was so impressed with the statement of the case that he ordered Franklin's division from McDowell's department to that of McClellan; and this against the decided protest of Secretary Stanton, and amidst a terrible noise made by the foolish, collected at Washington, whom the bar has made mad. It was Franklin's division which was on steamers, and hurried up to West Point to cut off the retreating enemy if possible. It may be that the great rebel army will yet be caught, but we hardly have a right, under the circumstances, to expect so large a measure of success.

LETTER FROM SURGEON ETHERIDGE.

FORT SNELLING, Minn., May 12, 1862.

To the Editor of the St. Paul Press:

It is with great pleasure that I am able to acknowledge the receipt of many favors from ladies of various parts of the State, designed for the benefit of the sick among the soldiers in this garrison. In addition to former acknowledgments made through the papers, I would now like to mention a box received from ladies of Mantorville, containing delicacies in the way of fruits, jellies and wines, and I think some articles of clothing. A box of clothing from Wabashaw has articles of value, that we intend to take with us to a place where we expect much use for them. This evening at dress parade was distributed two hundred and forty three needle books to the men, given by the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul, whence we have received many favors, and from whence we still expect a large box, filled with shirts, drawers, dressing gowns, bandages and lint, on our way down, to be delivered at the levee. We also expect a box to be delivered as we go, at Hastings, from ladies of that place.

No doubt we have omitted the acknowledgment of many favors, and those I have mentioned through the papers have not been as particular and circumstantial as I would have been glad to have made them. But the calls upon my time have been so numerous and my duties so pressing that I have been obliged to omit many things that I would gladly have performed. I hope our friends will excuse us, and still remember us whenever they can do us good, for we are needy.

With many thanks for their kindness, we remain as ever their friend,

F. B. ETHERIDGE,
Surgeon Fifth Reg't, Min. Vol.

MINNESOTA FRUIT TREES.

To the Editor of the St. Paul Press.

Will the PRESS allow me to tell the experience of George Post, of Wacouta, Goodhue county, in raising apples.

His trees were brought in from Iowa, four years since, and set in clay-sand soil, descending towards the northeast, and open to the head of Lake Pepin. Of one hundred trees set out, sixty remain. They have had no protection till this spring. They are now mulched for the first time, and for the first time all of his trees have come through the winter in good condition. Some of them bore last year, and many others will blossom this season.

Red Astrican, Rambo, and Red June, prove to be too tender for this climate. Romanite, Beuoni and Famuse have generally lived and look well. Wine Sap and Yellow Belle Flower have all lived, grow rapidly, look well, and have borne some. The Wine Sap and Yellow Belle Flower have proved themselves in his experiments to be hardy, rapid growers, and early bearers.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 8, 1862.

—Gen. Sigel and staff, with additional troops joined Gen. Halleck at Pittsburg Landing, on the 11th. His name is worth a few Regiments to our army.

ARMY CORRESPONDENCE.

CAMP NEAR MURFREESBORO, TENN., Tuesday Morning, May 9.

To the Editor of the St. Paul Press:

Col. Duffield returned last night, bringing the news of an engagement and defeat of Morgan's band. Our cavalry drove them into Lebanon yesterday, and after a desperate fight, killed between 60 and 100, and captured 200 prisoners, horses and arms, and ran Morgan, with fifteen of his followers, to the Cumberland, where he escaped. Our loss is twenty or twenty-five.

THE GUNBOAT BATTLE ON THE MISSISSIPPI.

The correspondent of the Chicago Tribune give the following graphic account the late engagement between the Federal and rebel gunboats near Fort Pillow:

At 6 o'clock, while it was scarcely light, on account of the humidity of the atmosphere, one of the rebel gunboats, thought by my informant to be the Louisiana, carrying two heavy guns amidships, came cautiously around the Point, hugging the shore so closely that she was unseen by those on board. The Louisiana (rebel) came within point blank range of the Cincinnati before she was discovered. The latter immediately cast loose from the shore and moved into the stream, where she opened a broadside, when the rebel, instead of replying, turned her prow towards the Cincinnati and ran into her with great force, striking her twice amidships on her starboard side, with tremendous force and injuring her very materially. A shot was fired from a boat below, at her rudder, which fell short of the mark and did no great damage. The Cincinnati poured in her most terrible broadsides. As the rebel Ram came up with the evident intent of causing her to sink, she was pierced through by the Cincinnati's shot. Unassisted she held the rebel fleet at bay for about fifteen minutes, when one of our gunboats came to her assistance and others were preparing to do so. Seeing this the rebels held off and fought at longer range.

The Cincinnati, at the time the Ram run into her, and while the attempt was made to board her, threw hot water from her boilers and scalded the rebels terribly.

After continuing the battle for an hour or more, the rebels drew off under cover of the smoke, which was so dense that it could almost be cleft with a knife. The enemy's boats were terribly cut up. Two were blown up and sunk. Subsequently three Confederate gunboats made a spirited dash at the Benton, but got a broadside for their pains, which sent them kicking backwards as if the evil one was after them.

Capt. Stembel was badly wounded in the neck. As the enemy approached, the Captain could not resist the opportunity to shoot the pilot. His comrade seeing him fall, retaliated, with the effect above stated. The first waiter of the Cincinnati was wounded in the arm, and two or three others. There were no other casualities so far as I am informed. The enemy's loss is not ascertained, but they must have suffered terribly.

The Ram has proved itself no match for the terribly destructive hail of our gunboats. Capt. Hollins was on board of one of the rebel gunboats, and was recognized by one of the officers of the Cincinnati, who knew him when he was fighting the battles of an united country.

The Ram, when she struck the Cincinnati, attempted to throw boiling water upon our boys, but the boiler burst, and that trick was foiled. The Cincinnati returned the compliment with interest.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

A RARE CHANCE.—Mr. A. T. Hale, of Minneapolis, is about to leave the country, and offers for sale a fine span of horses, with harness, carriage, &c., at a very low price. See advertisement.

THOSE wishing to get sewing promptly and cheaply done, and those desiring to purchase sewing machines are directed to the advertisement of G. W. Babcock in this morning's paper.

WE have received a letter of thanks to the ladies of Wabashaw for supplies to the Fifth Regiment, from Capt. O. Eddy. The lateness of its reception and the insertion of similar testimonials, prevents us from giving place to it.

PAYMASTER SMITH, with Assistant Early, leaves this morning for forts Ripley, Ridgely, Abercrombie and Garry, to pay off the troops stationed there. They will be warmly welcomed by our troops, many of whom are entitled to considerable back pay. They will probably be gone some three weeks.

MINNEAPOLIS ITEMS.—Our levee is noisy with business. The large quantites of flour and grain have done what "Mercantile Committees" and "Preambles and Resolutions" have failed to do—brought first class boats almost daily to this point.

On Sunday the Northern Light took from the Minneapolis levee alone two thousand barrels of flour, and on Monday the Itasca took eleven hundred barrels of flour and thirteen hundred sacks of wheat, besides other kinds of produce.

The practicability of boats coming to this point will never be questioned when there is business to warrant their coming.

Business of all kinds is "looking up." The excavation for Harrison's block, on the corner of Washington Avenue and Nicollet street, is nearly completed, and the stone catters with mallet and chisel are noiselessly preparing the material for the building, which, when completed, will be the largest and best block at stores ever built in Minneapolis.

RIVER ITEMS.—The river yesterday receded about one inch. The Minnesota and Upper Mississippi are reported stationary.

The arrivals yesterday were the Northern Belle, La Crosse; Key City, from Dunlieth and Prairie du Chien; Favorite, from Mankato; Clara Hine, from Henderson, and Antelope from Carver.

The Key City went up to Minneapolis yesterday morning and took on board 1,500 barrels of flour, and 1,000 sacks of wheat, and arrived again at the levee at 6 o'clock. She is the regular railroad packet this morning, at 8 o'clock.

The splendid passenger packet Northener, Captain Laughton, Clerk, Charles Hind, is the La Crosse packet at 8 o'clock. She will make her railroad connection without fail.

The Pomeroy, on account of making some repairs, did not leave yesterday. She will leave for Mankato at 10 o'clock this morning.

The Eolian came down from the Falls yesterday noon with 2,400 sacks of wheat and 300 barrels of flour, which was reshipped on the Northern Belle, destined for Milwaukee. She left for the Falls again last night.

The Favorite left for Mankato at two o'clock yesterday, and will be in port to leave again on Friday at 12 M.

The Clara Hine is now making regular tri-weekly trips to Henderson. She leaves to morrow at 2 P. M.

The Enterprise, Capt. Young, will leave St. Anthony for St. Cloud at 4 o'clock this afternoon, or as soon as the stages arrive from St. Paul.

The Jeannette Roberts and Albany will both arrive from Mankato to-night, The Jeannette will make her next trip to Red Wood.

Advance of McClellan.

FORTRESS MONROE, May 14.

All is quiet. Gen. McClelland's troops are at Cumberland.

HALLECK'S MOVEMENTS—FORCE OF REBELS, &c.

CHICAGO, May 14.

The Tribune's special Cairo correspondent says a dispatch from Fort Wright, yesterday, says: A rebel tug this moment rounded the point, reconnoitering, and seems to indicate renewed activity. Both sides were expecting an attack momentarily.

A deserter who came on board the flag boat Benton yesterday, states that the rebel ram, in the engagement Saturday, was not sunk as reported, but was terribly shattered. Our gunners undoubtedly fired most of their shots above the water line. They struck where the ram was heavily plated. Experienced naval men are of the opinion that had the same number of shots been fired at her water line, or below, they would have sent the rebel craft to the bottom.

A deserter reported the rebel fleet laying off Fort Baily, engaged repairing damages; promising faithfully to return exactly in forty-eight hours.

From Pittsburgh, it is not expected that an attack will be made on the enemy's position for several days; our siege guns are not yet in position. Gen. Halleck is still advancing cautiously and carefully, and fortifying as he advances. All his movements are predicated on the supposition that the enemy is in large force at Corinth, and that he intends making a stand there.

Grand Junction is being fortified by Beauregard, with the evident intention of falling back there if beaten at Corinth.

The number of rebel troops at Corinth is now estimated at Halleck's headquarters at from 120,000 to 170,000.

Memphis papers of the 11th received a dispatch from Natchez, stating the Federal fleet had returned to New Orleans.

The Appeal, commenting on the growing dispostion on part of the citizens in refusing Confederate notes, characterizes the parties as traitors.

The same journal says the only condition on which the South will accept peace is the recognition of independence, not only of the cotton States, but of every border State whose people desire alliance with the Confederacy.

The following dispatches are taken from the Appeal: The Provost Marshal of Memphis ordered arrested all persons refusing to take Confederate money in payment of goods.

The Appeal of the 11th, says we have certain intelligence, that Halleck's army lost over 5,000 men by desertion, the country between the Tennessee river, and Kentucky being full of them. The whole of the 40th Ohio deserted, disbanded after the battle of the 7th. A number of Kentuckians, and Missourians followed their example, in consequence of disaffection produced by late anti-Slavery movements in Congress.

Report brought from Little Rock that Gen. Curtiss' division of the federal army has commenced its march upon the capital of Arkansas.

Gen Steele was marching upon the same point from Pocahantas.

The following official dispatch published Des Arcs, Arkansas, 11th:

Enemy are reported to have been at Augusta, Clason county.

They took possession of all the cotton in the neighborhood.

They are reported in considerable force at Jacksonport and Batesville. Their destination is unknown. They are reported to be 8,000 or 10,000 strong.

One-thousand seven hundred bales of cotton were burned here to-day.

REBELS RETREAT.

MONTEREY, May 14.

A reconnoissance yesterday under Brigadier General A. J. Smith, had a skirmish with the rebel pickets on our right, killing two, wounding three and capturing five rebels. Our loss was two.

A party went within half a mile of a rebel battery, which was supported by a brigade of infantry, just outside of the entrenchments.

The commanding General moves his camp to day four miles from here, to the front of our forces, and to about two and a half or three miles from the rebel entrenchments.

The army is advancing slowly because of the nature of the ground, necessitating the building of corduroy roads and bridges.

It is generally understood that the engagement will come off in the course of a week.

Gen. Fremont has reached Schenck and Milroy, and the enemy have decamped and now are retreating.

McClellan's pickets are reported within 13 miles of Richmond.

The Monitor and Naugatuck are rumored to have passed City Point on their way to Richmond, and the Galena following.

Further Rebel Accounts.

JEFF. THOMPSON'S DISPATCHES.

CORINTH, May 10.

Since the terrible thrashing administered to General Pope's command yesterday by Generals Price and Van Dorn, we have no further demonstrations. Matters are accordingly quiet.

The following characteristic message from Jeff. Thompson is published:

FORT WRIGHT, May 10.

We Missourians concluded to celebrate to-day—the anniversary of the Camp Jackson massacre.

We have shown the enemy we still own the Mississippi; can run the blockade whenever we choose. We gave them a few bullets this morning to show them our power. After a handsome scrimmage of thirty minutes we backed down the river with two killed and eight slightly wounded—officers all safe and gunboats uninjured. Every one, from the Commodore down to powder boy, behaved like soldiers.

The Appeal publishes this dispatch without comment.

Vote of Thanks to McClellan.

KANSAS DEPARTMENT.

WASHINGTON, May 14.

Robert Morris, Esq., Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives, left here to-day for the headquarters of Gen. McClellan bearing with him a handsomely engrossed copy of the resolution of thanks passed by the House on Friday last. Mr. Morris, by direction of the Clerk of the House will deliver them in person.

The military department of Kansas, as recently restored, includes the State of Kansas, the Indian Territory west of Arkansas, and the Territories of Nebraska, Colorado, and Nevada, with the headquarters at Fort Leavenworth.

MOVEMENTS OF MORGAN'S REBEL CAVALRY.

LOUISVILLE, May 11.—One hundred and forty three of Morgan's cavalry at noon today captured forty eight freight and four passenger cars and a locomotive at Cave City, Ky.

Morgan supposed the train would contain 280 cavalry prisoners, bound northward. The operator at Cave City, however, gave notice of these facts to Bowling Green, and stopped the upward train. Among the captured Federals were Majors Helveti and Caffo, both of Woolford's cavalry, and one other Federal officer and three or four soldiers. The rebels burned all the cars except two and a locomotive which brought the passengers to Louisville.

A PLAN THAT DID NOT WORK.

MEMPHIS, April 28.—The following orders were issued at New Orleans, which are published in the Picayune:

NEW ORLEANS, April 24.—Major James is authorized and directed to take possession of any steamboats now at the Levee, not loading with Government stores, and to place on board of them volunteers who will pledge themselves to board and take the vessels of the enemy now approaching the city; also, he may take any sail vessel that may be necessary for his purpose.

M. LOVELL.
Major General Commanding.

The above order has been given to me by Major General Lovell, and I feel satisfied that the men requisite for the purpose are in New Orleans, ready and willing to embark in this expedition, in order to save our homes and families from destruction, and tyrannical rule of Northern vandals, now about to attack our city. I want one thousand men for this purpose, and if successful the parties engaged will be rewarded not only by the thanks and gratitude of their fellow citizens, but will also receive the pecuniary reward offered by the committee of safety. Place of rendezvous, Canal street, neutral ground, opposite Gov. Moore's headquarters.

S. L. JAMES.

A MISSOURI BRIDGE BURNER ON TRIAL.

ST. LOUIS, May 10.—Absalom Hicks, prisoner of war, some time since captured in the vicinity of Sturgeon, on the line of the North Missouri Railroad, was yesterday arraigned before the Military Commission on the charge of bridge-burning. When taken there was found in his possession a written commission from Sterling Price's Adjutant General, assuming to authorize the said Absalom to burn or otherwise destroy any bridge or bridges on the North Missouri Railroad. Hicks plead guilty to the charges preferred, but, in justification, urged that in burning bridges he acted in accordance with the explicit instructions of his superior officer. The Commission has not yet passed sentence in the case.

IMPORTANT FROM NASHVILLE—A GOOD WORK BEGUN BY GOV. JOHNSON.

NASHVILLE, May 10.—Governor Johnson has issued a proclamation, ordering that in every instance in which Union men are arrested or maltreated by marauding bands, five or more rebels from the most prominent in the immediate neighborhood shall be imprisoned or otherwise dealt with as the case may require.

In cases where the property of loyal citizens is taken or destroyed full remuneration shall be made off the property of such rebels in the vicinity as have sympathized or given aid, comfort, information or encouragement to the parties committing depredations. The order will be executed in the letter and the spirit. Citizens are warned, under heavy penalties, from entertaining, receiving or encouraging such persons.

PRIZE MONEY.—The share of prize money which accrues to the Navy Department from the prizes taken during the war, amounts already to a very large sum, sufficient to cover a large part of the outlay of the Department in purchasing vessels for the blockading fleet.

Our ships have been very fortunate of late in making captures; and as the vessels attempting to run the blockade are generally laden with extremely valuable cargoes, every prize adds largely to the fund.

Of course, our seamen and officers must be making very handsome profits. Many of the seamen and ordinary seamen make several hundred dollars each, by a cruise of a few weeks or months.—Albany Journal.

—The Albany Journal, speaking of the recent Union movement in New York, says, "it is neither expected nor desired that the Republican party should abandon their organization. So far from it, that organization is relied upon as the efficient agent of the patriotic movement; and the more thorough the more efficient.

FROM NEW ORLEANS.

The Chicago Tribune gives the following interesting particulars in regard to the possession of that city, derived from a gentleman who left the city since its surrender, arriving at Cairo on the 11th:

The Federals took possession on Thursday at 2 P. M. On that morning at half past three the frigates Hereford, Brooklyn, Richmond, and five gunboats passed Forts St. Philip and Jackson, and steamed to the city without being fired at, except at a point called Chalmette. At the time of the passage there were eight or ten Confederate steamers above the fort without steam up, and the crews asleep. When the Federal boats hove in sight, the Confederates set fire to these and blew up the splendid gunboat Louisiana, without firing a shot. During the bombardment, several of our vessels were badly damaged. When they passed the forts three were lashed together, so that if one was disabled the others could cut loose and proceed on their way. In this manner they succeeded in passing.

As soon as the rumor of the passage of the forts reached New Orleans, there was a tremendous consternation in the city. The authorities immediately set fire to the transports and the two gunboats lying at the levee. A few steamers belonging to the tributaries of the Mississippi, fled, crowded with citizens, up the Arkansas, Red, White, Ouachita and Yazoo Rivers. Every dray and vehicle suitable for the purpose, was impressed by the authorities to carry cotton, sugar and molasses to the levee, where they were piled and burned. All military stores were removed to the depot of the New Orleans and Jackson Railroad, except the powder, which was thrown into the river. The conflagration was tremendous, and the sky for several miles was lurid with flame. The smoke was so thick as to completely darken the atmosphere.

Disorganized Confederate troops in companies and parts of companies fled in wild disorder to the depot to seek a passage to Ponchatulas, fifty miles in the interior, where the military rendezvous was located. The negroes stole molasses and sugar from the levee, and women and children could be seen in great numbers rolling barrels of sweets over the pavements to their huts in the suburbs. The streets were so slippery with the drippings that the cab horses could hardly stand upright.

While affairs were in this confusion, the eight Federal frigates and gunboats in fighting trim, topmasts, guns shotted and run out of the port holes, and the stars and stripes flying from every masthead, anchored one at the foot of each principal street leading to the river; the Hartford, with Commodore Farragut's blue pennant flying from her foretop, taking her position at the foot of Canal street. After the ships were in position, Capt. Bayless, second in command of the gulf squadron, in a pinance, unattended and alone, landed on the levee. Just before him a man stood at the levee with a loaded pistol, and threatened to shoot him if he stepped his foot upon the shore without a flag of truce. Capt. B. pulled out a white handkerchief and waving it stepped upon the levee and proceeded directly to the City Hall, through a crowd of full twenty-five th usand men, women and children. This act of bravery elicited a shout of admiration from the vast assemblage. He called upon the Mayor, presented a dispatch from Commodore Farragut, and demanded the surrender of the city. He required the Louisiana flag to be lowered, and the stars and stripes to be hoisted upon the Mint, Custom House, and all public buildings. The Mayor informed him that the city was under martial law, that Major General Lovell was in command, and that he, the Mayor, had no authority to act in the premises. At this juncture General Lovell appeared, refused to surrender the city, but offered to withdraw his forces and surrender his authority to the city authorities. The Mayor then told Captain Bayless that he would convene a session of the Common Council that evening, and send an answer to the Commodore's dispatch in the morning. The answer, as promised, was returned the next day.

On Tuesday the 28th, 500 marines landed with small brass pieces and marched to the City Hall, demanded to be shown to the top of the building, hauled down the State flag, which a marine rolled up and carried under his arm, and then proceeded to the Custom House, where the remains of two hundred gun carriages were still burning, hoisted the National emblem, left a guard to protect it, and returned to the gunboat.

The day previous Forts St. Phillip and Jackson had surrendered, their own men spiking the guns and refusing to serve longer. In consequence of this mutiny, Gen. Duncan was compelled to raise the white flag and surrender the fort. Gen. Duncan and all his officers were released upon their parole and allowed to retain their side arms. The former came up to the City Hall and made a speech in which he counseled the people not to despair, everything would come out right yet.

The fort having surrendered, the way was clear for transports, which at the time our informant left were hourly expected. Order was re-established in the city, shops were being opened, but the St. Charles and principal hotels were closed, more in consequence of the currency and scarcity of provisions, than from any fear of the Federal soldiers.

Considerable apprehension was felt that the lower classes, Spanish, French, Germans, and foreigners generally, taking advantage of the disorganized condition of the city, might commit excess, and plunder the citizens. The inhabitants were more fearful of these than of the Federals. Confederate scrip was still current, but prices of provisions were enormously high.

The day after the gunboats arrived, two of them steamed up the river to Baton Rouge, hoisted the U. S. flag on the capital building and the arsenal, and captured two steamers—for transport service. Thousands of people were constantly on the levee, gazing at the gunboats and soldiers, towards whom they manifested no ill will or bitterness of feeling.

Our informant passed through General Lovell's camp at a point called Songapoa, about 125 miles North of New Orleans, on the New Orleans and Jackson Railroad. Munitions of war, troops, provisions, &c., were lying about in the utmost confusion. They were intending to join General Beauregard at Corinth. People by thousands were leaving Vicksburg and Natchez for Jackson, which place was crowded to overflowing. There was an alarming scarcity of provisions. Our informant reached Memphis the 2d inst., and left on the evening of the 5th, for a point on the Memphis and Ohio Railroad, 14 miles south of Humboldt. Just before dispatches were received confirming reports that six thousand troops had landed at New Orleans. The citizens of Memphis were satisfied that upon the first determined attack on Fort Pillow it would surrender. On the Hatchee river, below Fort Pillow and twenty five miles from its mouth, an Aid de Camp of General Beauregard is superintending the construction of a pontoon bridge, to facilitate the retreat of troops from the fort, in case an evacuation becomes necessary. Our informant thinks that if on the consummation of that event, a gunboat will run up the Hatchee river it will be able to destroy the bridge and cut off their retreat.

The New York Times' correspondent gives a further statement in regard to the naval battle at New Orleans, derived from the heroic Boggs, the commander of the vessel Varuna, which was sunk during the engagement:

He stated that, before the Varuna sank, she destroyed alone six of the rebel steamers, of which he learned the names, of four, viz: The William H. Webb, Palmetto, Phenix and Jackson. As he passed the forts, Capt. Boggs, as well as all the other vessels, received their fire The Richmond, and one or two more of the large steam sloops, moved down and poured three or four broadsides each into the enemy. The Varuna did not wait after delivering two broadsides, but pressed directly into a hornet's nest of rebel gunboats which were a mile or two above. She was assailed by them two or three at a time, ram fashion, butting at her with their iron-cased prows, and several large holes were made in her. As long as his vessel floated Capt. Boggs fought gallantly with his guns, and drove the enemy's steamers ashore where they were fired by their own crews. One of the Varuna's shot disabled still another steamer by making a hole in her boiler, and this vessel surrendered to the Oneida, who took her officers and crew prisoners. The Varuna's last guns were fired when her decks were under water, and no clothing or other property was saved by a soul on board. There were three of the Varuna's crew killed in the action, and seven wounded, two of whom are not expected to survive their injuries. Including the ram, there were eleven of the rebel steamers destroyed, and the Captain of the ram is a prisoner on board the Mississippi.

Our naval loss at the battle on the Lower Mississippi was but two boats, the Varuna and Maria J. Carlton.

The Varuna was a new vessel, mounting twelve 23-pounders and two rifled pivot guns. She was built at the Westervelt Yard, in New York City, and is commanded by Commander J. L. Boggs, a native of New Jersey, and formerly in command of the mail steamship Illinois. The Varuna had a crew of 148 men.

The Maria J. Carlton was a schooner of 178 tons, built of white oak and chestnut, in 1856, in East Haddam, Connecticut, and run formerly as a packet between Boston and New York. She was purchased by the Government last fall, and altered into a mortar-boat, C. E. Jack, Acting Master Commanding. Before entering the navy, Capt. Jack was engaged in the ship brokerage business in New York.

GRAPHIC ACCOUNT OF HANCOCK'S FAMOUS BAYONET CHARGE.

The Desperate Infantry Charge of the Rebels.

WILLIAMSBURG, May 8.—One of the most brilliant actions of the war was the fight between Gen. Hancock's brigade and an equal force of the rebels near Williamsburg, Virginia.

The combat is thus described by an eye witness:

Under cover of the wood, and directly through it, the enemy advanced from the neighborhood of Fort Magruder, doubtless tempted, as we have said, by the bait of a battery of beautiful field pieces. From the sharp fire of the skirmishers in the woods on our right came the first intimation of a movement in that direction, and this put all on the alert. By the field pieces, the great central point of interest, every man was in his place, and many eyes turned with deep interest on the handsome and intellectual face of their commander, the amiable gentleman and gallant soldier, Capt. Wheeler, of the New York volunteer artillery. He was not only in his place, but it was eminently the right place, and he was the right man in it. Down the lines, too, of the infantry regiments all was steady, and the jaded men, who had bivouacked the night before in mud and rain, and were drabbled from head to foot with the one and wet to the skin with the other, stood up in their places like heroes, though they did not look exactly as if they were on parade. They did not have the parade dress, nor had they either the parade faces.

SPLENDID ADVANCE OF THE ENEMY.

Still the fire grew hotter in the woods, and in a few minutes, at a point fully half a mile away from the battery, the enemy's men began to file out of the cover and form in the open field. It was a bold and proved an expensive way to handle men Wheeler opened his guns on the instant, and the swath of dead that subsequently marked the course of the brigade across the open field began at that spot. At the same moment also the skirmishers in the field began their fire. Still the enemy formed across the opening with admirable rapidity and precision, and as coolly as if the fire had been directed elsewhere, and then came on at the double quick step, in three distinct lines, firing as they came. All sounds were lost for a few moments in the short roar of the field pieces, and in the scattered rattle and rapid repetition of the musketry. Naturally their fire could do us, under the circumstances, but little harm, and thus we had them at a fair advantage, and every nerve was strained to make the most of it. Still they came on. They were dangerously near. Already the skirmishers to the left had fallen back to their line, and the skirmishers to the right had taken cover behind the rail fence that ran from the house to the woods, but from thence they blazed away as earnestly as ever. Yet the guns are out there, and they are what these fellows want; and in the next instant the guns are silent. For a moment, in the confusion and the smoke, one might almost suppose that the enemy had them; but in a few moments more the guns emerge from the safe side of the smoke cloud, and away they go across the field to a point near the upper redoubt. There again they are unlimbered, and again they play away. Farther back also go the skirmishers. And now for a few moments the rebels had the partial cover of the farm and outbuildings, but they saw that they had all their work to do over and so they came on again. Once more they are in a fair open field, exposed both to artillery and musketry; but this time the distance they have got to go is not so great. They move rapidly; there, however, is another dangerous line of infantry; they are near to us; but we also are near them. Scarcely a hundred yards were between them and the guns when our skirmish fire became silent; the lines of the Fifth Wisconsin and the Forty-third New York formed up in close order to the right of the battery, the long range of musket barrels came to one level, and one terrible volley tore through the rebel line. In a moment more the same long range of muskets came to another level—the order to charge with the bayonet was given, and away went the two regiments with one glad cheer. Gallant as our foes undoubtedly were, they couldn't meet that. But few brigades mentioned in history have done better than that brigade did. For a space which was generally estimated at three quarters of a mile, they had advanced under the fire of a splendidly served battery, and with a crowd of skirmishers stretched across their front, whose fire was very destructive; and if, after that, they had not the courage to meet a line of bayonets that came toward them like the spirit of destruction incarnate, it need not be wondered at. They broke and fled in complete panic. One hundred and forty five were taken prisoners. Nearly five hundred were killed and wounded.

GRRAT FIRE IN TROY, N. Y.

Half the City Burned Over.

ALBANY, May 10.—About 12 o'clock the railroad bridge at Troy caught fire, it is supposed, by a spark from a locomotive. The eastern part of the bridge, and broken portions of it, now line the banks of the river down to the iron works. When it fell it was ablaze, and to prevent it floating among the lumber, it was towed down to the iron works docks. The flames spread in a southeastern direction along the railrord track to the Union depot, and from thence to Ida Hill. The Union depot, Union House, Sixth street Presbyterian Church, Dr. Sheldon's (Baptist) Church, and many other buildings are totally destroyed. At half past one o'clock Fourth street to Fulton, down Fifth to State, and on Sixth street to Eighth, nearly to Ida Hill, the flames are making terrible havoc among the wooden buildings, and the prospects are that the whole hill will be laid in ashes. The Mayor sent over to the arsenal for powder, which if properly used, will doubtless have the effect to stay the progress of the fire.

The flames are raging with unabated fury, and unless blown up the whole town will be burned down. On River and First streets the flames have been nearly stayed. The whole town is packed up ready to leave their dwellings at a moment's warning.

At 3:45 P. M., the fire was approaching the old Museum buildings. Engines were on the ground from Cohoes, Albany, Lansinburg and Waterford.

The above is taken from the Evening Journal. A later dispatch informs us that the powder is being used with good effect.

TROY, May 10.—A large fire has been raging here since 11 o'clock this morning, destroying the bridge over the Hudson river, the Fulton, Union and American hotels, Washington Hall, four churches, and numerous other public buildings. The Albany fire department has been brought here to assist in stopping the conflagration, but the fire rages at this hour—3 P. M.—with a high gale blowing. The loss will be immense.

TROY, May 11.—The fire commenced Saturday noon and raged until sundown. It caught in the covered bridge over the Hudson belonging to the Rensselear and Saratoga Railroad. One thousand feet of the bridge were destroyed. The wind was blowing furiously and carried burning brands in various parts of the city, setting fire to a number of places. In consequence of so many fires in different directions, the firemen could not do much to stop the conflagration. After the fire had burned half a block of both sides of River street, it was arrested. Meantime it made fearful progress in the Fourth, Third and partly in the Second Wards, most of these being private residences and among the best in the city. The whole number of buildings destroyed is between five and six hundred. The loss approximates three millions of dollars. Total insurance about fourteen hundred thousand dollars. The business portion of the city suffered comparatively little. Among the buildings destroyed are the Troy Union Bridge, Sixth street Presbyterian Church, Scotch Presbyterian, Methodist Free Chapel, Orphan Asylum, Children's Asylum, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy Academy, Mrs. Warren's Female Charity School, Union Hotel, Washington Hall Hotel, Fulton House and Troy City Bank. Among the sufferers are Gurleys, Mathematical Instrument makers, and Sheldo F. Green, stove founder. The area burnt is about fifty acres. A great number of persons are thrown out of employment. Several lives were lost.

THE NEW BALLAD OF LORD LOVELL.

From the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

Lord Lovell he sat in St. Charles Hotel,
In St. Charles Hotel sat he,
As fine a case of a Southern swell
As ever you'd wish to see—see—see,
As ever you'd wish to see.

Lord Lovell the town had vowed to defend,
A-waving his sword on high,
He swore that the last ounce of his powder he'd spend,
And in the last ditch he'd die.

He swore by black and he swore by blue,
He swore by the stars and bars,
That he'd never fly from a Yankee crew
While he was a son of Mars.

He had fifty thousand gallant men,
Fifty thousand men had he,
Who had all sworn with him that they'd never surrender to any tarnation Yankee.

He had forts that no Yankee alive could take,
He had iron-clad boats a score,
And batteries all around the Lake
And along the river shore.

Sir Farragut came with a mighty fleet,
With a mighty fleet came he,
And Lord Lovell instanter began to retreat
Before the first boat he could see.

His fifty thousand gallant men
Dwindled down to thousands six;
They heard a distant cannon and then
Commenced a-cutting their sticks.

"Oh tarry, Lord Lovell!" Sir Farragut cried,
"Oh tarry, Lord Lovell!" said he;
"I rather think not," Lord Lovell replied,
"For I'm in a great hurry."

"I like the drinks at St. Charles' Hotel,
But I never could bear strong Porter,
Especially when it's served on the shell,
Or mixed in an iron mortar."

"I reckon you're right," Sir Farragut said,
"I reckon you're right" said he,
"For if my Porter should fly at your head,
A terrible smash there'd be."

Oh! a wonder it was to see them run,
A wonderful thing to see,
And the Yankees sailed up without firing a gun,
And captured their great citie.

Lord Lovell kept running all day and night,
Lord Lovell a-running kept he,
For he swore he couldn't abide the sight
Of the gun of a live Yankee.

When Lord Lovell's life was brought to a close,
By a sharp-a-shooting Yankee gunner,
From his head there sprouted a red red nose,
From his feet—a Scarlet Runner.

MAY.—DYSPEPSIA.—This is a very distressing complaint, and gives the patient more suffering than almost any other disease. In fact, it is a combination of many complaints in one. The symptoms are numerous, and of the nature of almost all other complaints combined. From this fact arise the very many cases where this disease is mistaken for some other and so improperly treated. The first symptoms, indigestion, flatulency, loss of appetite, heartburn, headache, etc., if neglected, almost always awaken some dormant disease, and send the poor sufferer to a premature grave. What you must first do is to cleanse the blood and regulate the bowels—do this with the "Mountain Herb Pills," and you can bid defiance to dyspepsia.

EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY.

OF NEW YORK.

CASH CAPITAL.....$100,000
NETT SURPLUS..... 129,000

DIVIDENDS ON CAPITAL LIMITED BY ITS CHARTER TO 7 PER CENT PER CENT PER ANNUM —THE ENTIRE PROFITS GO TO THE POLICY HOLDERS.

This Society was organized in the year 1859, with a cash capital of $100,000 deposited irrevocably with the Insurance Department of the State of New York, in U. S. bonds, on which it allows but 7 per cent. per annum to the stockholders, and the entire profits of the business is shared by the policy holders. The nett profits in two years amounts to $129,000, which shows an unparalelled success in the history of Life Insurance. Its operations are managed by a Board of Directors composed of the ablest business men of the country and its business is conducted entirely on the cash plan. Dividends to the policy holders will be made every five years, and no Company in the country offers equal advantages to its dealers.

The Old Established

CROCKERY HOUSE

OF

SENDS GREETING TO HIS CUSTOMERS IN MINNESOTA, IN DAKOTA TERRITORY, AND BEYOND THE BRITISH LINE.

That being one of the Oldest Business Houses in the State, (the present being the eleventh year of its existence,) R. MARVIN feels confident that he need not urge its claims on the public patronage. The extent of country over which its business has spread is the best proof that its claims are not unrecognized. The unwavering determination which he has felt since the crisis, and in the hardest times, to maintain his business and place it on a par with similar establishments in the largest cities of the West, have been so fully appreciated by the merchants of the State, that he feels bound to redouble his efforts, not only for the benefit of his business, but for the pride he feels in his adopted city.

Mr. R. would call on the citizens of St. Paul, and especially the old residents who remember "the day of small things," not to forget that he still has a

GEN. PRENTISS.

We have had several rebel versions of what Gen. Prentiss has said since he was taken a prisoner. We give herewith what certain Union men, lately escaping from Memphis, aver that he did say in that city, and how he was received there:

The people of Memphis received Gen Prentiss with open arms. The ladies especially were unremitting in their services and attentions. They fairly loaded the General down with little nick nacks.

In return for this kindness, Gen. Prentiss made a speech, which was received with great applause by the larger part of the crowd. A few blackguards, however, endeavored to create an excitement, when Gen. Prentiss exclaimed: "I am a prisoner of war, it is true, but if I speak at all I will speak my mind." (Great applause and some hisses.)

"Hiss on you vipers! It is your time now, but mine will soon come. We have, with 75,000 men whipped your army of 125 000 under your best General. And in less than one month the stars and stripes will float over this city." (Cheers.) "Union men and women of Memphis, take courage! Get your American flags ready, you will soon need them all."

Here the Provost Marshal of Memphis interrupted him, and said "General, I cannot permit you to talk so." General P. replied, "Sir, you must excuse me, but you see I am among friends." Yes, thank God, to the immortal honor of my command be it known they were the first to haul down the greasy, filthy old rag. I glory in that act. You promised to whip us five to one. Now I am part Yankee, and I say I guess we have whipped you two to one, and can do it all the while. Here he was again interrupted, when he remarked: "You called on me for a speech; I am giving you one—the only words of truth you have heard for months. Look how cowardly your General ran at No. 10, and left three or four hundred prisoners there entirely uncared for. What do your leaders care for you? They have basely deceived you." [Loud cries of "that's so."] Here he was told he "could speak no longer, and as he jumped down from the box on which he stood, some one cried out, "Three cheers for General Prentiss." They then gave him three rousing cheers and accompanied him in crowds all the way to the cars.

NORTHERN PARTISANSHIP AND SECESH IMPUDENCE.

The fact that the secessionists of Kentucky are becoming more impudent, and that rebel marauders are in the field in both Eastern and Western Kentucky, is one that calls for the most serious consideration. There is certainly nothing in the drift of the war to encourage the enemies of the Government. Almost every day we hear of the splendid successes of the fleets and armies of the Union. Why is it, then, that the secesh on the banks of the Ohio are insolent and demonstrative? The plain truth is, the rebels are feeling confident of the speedy division of Northern public sentiment. The traitors on the border find encouragement not in the South but in the North. They look upon the demonstrativeness of the Democratic partisans, in persistently organizing an opposition to the war, with hope and something of confidence. They are deceived by the tory journals that are poisoning our atmosphere. Do men who are permitting themselves to be moved by the old party cries, that are again heard, realize that they are taking a course which, if not arrested in good time, will endanger the peace of the Northern States? Some of those who are engaged in the odious partizan operations of the day, know what they are doing, but many must be unaware of the terrible consequences that would inevitably result from their conduct, if the schemes of the leaders should prove successful. It is impossible to restore peace to the country, save by the prosecution of the war to a conclusion triumphant for the Government. Peace must be conquered and the war policy sustained, or we shall have anarchy in our midst. Every man who values peace at his own door, must sustain the Government and push the war to its legitimate conclusion. If we permit ourselves to become partisans and factionists, the war will have been in vain, and we shall all be plunged in the bloody cauldron of revolution.—Cincinnati Gazette.

—The late unprecedented increase in the wheat trade of Milwaukee, has caused that city to become somewhat elated. The Sentinel of the 10th speaks thus jubilantly of it, accompanied with a nudge at Chicago:

The receipts of wheat at this city, which for the last three weeks have been steadily increasing, yesterday reached the enormous total of one hundred and eighteen thousand bushels, against 44,178 on the corresponding date last year. This amount is equal to the largest day's receipts of last fall, and considerably above the average of September or October. In receipts of wheat, Chicago now stands in the back ground. The total amount received there on Saturday was only 17,000 bushels, against 103,000 bushels here; and yesterday, 44,000 against 118,000 at this city. The receipts at the two cities have been relatively about the same since the opening of navigation. We understand that some of the leading wheat dealers of Chicago talk seriously of moving up this way.

—An army correspondent in closing a description of the battle of Williamsburg thus speaks of Gen. McClellan: "At exactly five P. M Gen. McClellan came up. In a few minutes he had gathered around him all the general officers then accessible, and seemed to see at one just how matters stood. Scarcely ten minutes had elapsed after his arrival upon the field before he gave the order to support Gen. Hancock and to press the advantage already gained in that direction; and in five minutes more seven thousand men were on the march for that point. Night fell before they reached it, and no more was done that day; but there, as subsequent examination proved, was the enemy's weakest point and the General saw at once what, alas! a whole army had blundered over all day."

—The destruction of the Merrimac releases the formidable squadron which has been held at Fortress Monroe to guard against her depredations. She is no longer the skeleton in our national closet. The Monitor and other iron-clad gunboats are now at liberty to finish the work of repossessing the United States forts on the coast. It would not be surprising to hear of her in a few days at Wilmington, N. C., clearing the way for the destruction of railroad communication between Virginia and the Southern coast. Or she may appear under the walls of Sumter, or at the Charleston docks. There is much that she could do, and she should not remain inactive for a single day.

COLONEL FORNEY ON SLAVERY.

I must confess to a remarkable change of sentiment on this subject. Our most conservative men, who have hitherto believed that our difficulties would all be settled without affecting the institution of slavery, are now freely expressing their solemn conviction that slavery will be swept from the country, not as one of the primary objects, but as one of the inevitable consequences of the war. As the Union army advances, the slave power will dissolve before it as snow before a meridian sun.

We must abandon this daintiness on the negro question. It is simply nonsense. The sentiment of the North rejects it. The secessionists among the masters are not entitled to the service assumed, and the Unionists will not be strengthened or inspired by it.

Let the Fugitive Slave Law secede with its author (Mason), and let us have no more fooling with vested rights in man-flesh. Let the Marshal attend to the spies in Washington, and quit searching Sambo's pockets for his right to his heels.

The London Spectator, commenting upon the Congressional resolve alluded to, says: "The hand moves slowly upon the dial, but it moves." The common sense and the conscience of the world are waiting to hear us strike the time.

Whatever we shall do hereafter, one thing seems clear—that while we neither hang the enemy's pirates nor imprison their spies, we might excuse ourselves from the business of catching their negroes.

How the Men work in Trenches.—It may be a puzzle to many to conceive how our men can throw up fortifications right in the face and in plain sight of the enemy without being seriously disturbed by them. A brief description may be interesting, inasmuch as it cannot be contraband, because the work is done right under the noses of the rebels. A working party is detailed for night duty; with muskets slung on their backs and shovels and picks on their shoulders, they proceed to the selected ground. The white tape marks the line of excavation, the dark lanterns are "faced to the rear;" the muskets are carefully laid aside; the shovels are in hand and each man silently commences to dig. Not a word is spoken; not one spade clicks against another; each man first digs a hole large enough to cover himself; he then turns and digs to his right hand neighbor; then the ditch deepens and widens, and the parapet rises. Yet all is silent; the relief comes and the weary ones retire; the words and jests of the enemy are often plainly heard, while no noise from our men disturbs the stillness save the dull rattle of the earth as each spadeful is thrown to the top; at daylight a long line of eathworks, affording complete protection to our men, greets the astonished eyes of the enemy, while the sharp-shooters' bullets greet their ears. Frequently this work is done in open daylight, the sharpshooters and pickets keeping the enemy from annoying our men. —Yorktown Cor. N. Y. World.

Recruiting.—The United States Adjutant General has issued orders, stating that upon requisitions made by commanders of armies in the field, the War Department will authorize the Governors of States to recruit regiments now in service. That is, Gen. M'Clellan, Gen. Halleck, Gen. McDowell, Gen. Banks, or Gen. Hunter think that the interests of their departments require the ranks of their armies to be filled up as fast as battle or disease thins them out, they have only to notify Secretary Stanton, and he will empower the Governors of States from which the regiments that need replenishing come, to receive recruits enough to fill them up to the proper standard

—Mayor Sherman, of Chicago, the great Democratic Mayor recently elected, and whose election over the "Black Republican" candidate was hailed by the Democratic press as a greater victory than the battle of Fort Donelson, has come out in his inaugural message indorsing the administration of Mr. Lincoln as "patriotic, conservative, and able."

—On the night of the battle of Pittsburg, a rebel Georgia regiment drew up in line near the river to make a terrible charge on our ranks. Unluckily for them, one of our gunboats got in range of the regiment and fired a large shell. The shell struck fairly on the end of the line, and ploughed its way through the living wall until it got to the center, when it exploded, making the most awful havoc and slaughter. The rebels broke into a precipitate flight.—Nashville Union.

The Winona Republican thus alludes to the annoying interruption in our telegraphic communication by the mishap we alluded to a couple of days ago:

In an ordinary stage of water this accident might be repaired in perhaps a single day; but with the river overflowing its banks as at present, neither a pole can be erected upon which to extend the wire, nor a cable submerged, without the greatest inconvenience if the task be not absolutely impracticable. The best that we can hope for, therefore, is that some means may be adopted to obtain the dispatches from the opposite shore, until such time as the accident can be permanently repaired. This expedient, we are assured, will be adopted, just so soon as the requisite instruments can be obtained, which will probably be within the next three days at farthest. Meantime, the proprietors of the line should be admonished, if they wish to retain their business in Minnesota, submerge a cable in the river here, at the earliest practicable day, and thereby prevent the recurrence of such annoying mishaps as that above recorded. Both the business and reading public are just now deeply interested in the maintenance of unioterruped telegraphic communication with the country at large, and everything reasonable should be done to satisfy them.

Another Rebel General Gone.—The death of Gen. Gladden, of South Carolina, in consequence of a wound received in the battle of Shiloh, is announced in a dispatch to the Savannah Republican.

Persons unacquainted with the Melodeon and its history, will bear in mind that we are the pioneers and leading manufacturers, not only in the United States, but in the world. We commenced the manufacture of Melodeons in the fall of the year 1847, and since that time have finished and sold TWENTY-SEVEN THOUSAND. These instruments are now in use mostly in the United States and Canada, but also in Europe, Asia, Africa, South America and the West Indies, and from all these quarters we have the most flattering testimonials of the high estimation in which they are held.

At all Industrial Exhibitions they have invariably been awarded the Highest Premium wherever Exhibited in Competition with Others.

We shall take pleasure in forwarding by mail (at our own expense) our Illustrated Catalogue, in which every instrument we manufacture is fully described, and illustrated by elegant engravings.

All Melodeons of our manufacture, either sold by us or dealers in any part of the United States or Canada, are warranted to be perfect in every respect, and should any repairs be necessary before the expiration of five years from date of sale, we hold ourselves ready and willing to make the same free of charge, provided the injury is not caused by accident or design

Eye & Ear.

DR. UNDERWOOD,

Of Chicago, Ill., the eminent and skilful operator on the Eye and Ear, whose name and fame is so extensively known throughout the United States, for his science, skill and success in performing formidable operations, and in removing difficult and dangerous diseases from those delicate organs, has arrived in St. Paul and may be consulted at the AMERICAN HOUSE for a short time only.

Dr. U., who is a regular Physician and Surgeon of the old school, has had an extensive experience in both hospital and private practice of twenty-eight years, and will be found competent to perform any operation necessary to restore lost sight or hearing, or by other mild and gentle means to remove any disease from those delicate organs within the reach of science and human skill.

CHRONIC DISEASES, of every grade and character, whether requiring medical or surgical treatment, POSITIVELY and PERMANENTLY CURED, when not clearly beyond the reach of science and human skill.

Dr. Underwood treats all diseases on regular and scientific principles, as recognized by the medical profession both in Europe and America, and hence does not use or deal in those pretended new and never failing remedies—pecifics, inhaling vapors, and clairvoyant prescription—which are so ostentatiously paraded before the public by those impudent traveling quacks and money-fleecing empirics, nine-tenths of whom never were inside of a medical college. Patients afflicted or laboring under diseases of long standing, can consult Dr. U. with the most confident hope and expectation of being perfectly cured, or receiving with unerring certainty all the relief that the highest skill, the most judicious and scientific treatment can possibly bestow.

Among the diseases which the Doctor has lately treated with the most signal success, may be mentioned those of the Heart, Lungs, Liver, Stomach and Bowels—and Nervous Affections, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Salt Rheum and Chronic Female Affections. my7-3m

Merrimac Fruit Farm.

TRIOMPHE DE GAND.

We unhesitatingly place this variety at the very head of the list of strawberries. Another year's trial has only confirmed our opinion of its superior worth. Were we confined to one variety, it should be the Triomphe de Gand. No other kind, of which we have any knowledge, possess so many excellencies. Indeed, with us, it approaches so nearly perfection as to leave but little more to be desired.

The plants are thrifty, hardy and vigorous growers, bearing their fruit well up, which renders it easily to be kept clean. They are also wonderfully productive with us, and the fruit is not only usually of large size but UNIFORMLY so, and throughout the season, which is longer with it than with most other varieties. The flavor is everything that could be desired. It is of a very beautiful crimson color, glossy and very attractive. It keeps well after being picked, retaining its beautiful color and firmness, and carries better than any other variety.

We claim that all articles sent out from our establishment are what they profess to be—true to name—and of good quality. Our prices, we think are reasonable—not "below" or "at cost" of production, but such as to afford a fair profit, to which, we think, we are justly entitled. We are not ambitious to give to our establishment the reputation of a low priced nursery, but one where a genuine article of the best quality can be had, and that will give satisfaction to the purchaser.

—It is estimated that sixty thousand barrels of salt have already been shipped from Saginaw river, Michigan, since the opening of navigation.

—Prince Napoleon, in a private letter, congratulates America on the recent victories, and says he is glad he foresaw them, and also now foresees the destruction of slavery to be certain.

—There are at present eight full regiments of East Tennesseeans in the United States service, and about five thousand fugitives from that State, on account of their loyalty.

—The rebels at New Orleans, it is stated, set on fire some fifty ships and steamers, and sent them down the river after they gave up all hope of saving the city.

—The rebel government has seized all the property in Memphis, and sent it to Columbus, Miss. The stores are all closed, and the government has promised to pay merchants for their goods three months after a treaty of peace is made with the United States.

—When the bombardment of Fort Pulaski was about to open, it was found that the battery nearest the fort had no fuse plugs, which were essential to operations. By a lucky thought the Sixth Connecticut was ordered out "to whittle" and did whittle all the plugs used for two days.

—Among the names—about seventy-five in all—of the corporators named in the Pacific Railroad bill lately passed by the House, are those of F. R. E. Cornell, Minneapolis, and D. Blakely, Rochester, for this State.

—An army correspondent at Pittsburg Landing, says that a few days ago an intelligent German engineer, formerly a resident of New York, impressed into the rebel army a year ago, while on a visit to his relatives South, deserted and came into our lines with an exact and comprehensive plan of the enemy's fortifications at Corinth, giving details of their construction and the position of every gun in the works. Gen. Halleck places great confidence in his statements. Our troops were within two miles of Corinth when the Champion left Pittsburg.

—The Glencoe Register learns that "extensive preparations are being made by several of our merchants in and around the big woods to purchase ginseng the ensuing season. We understand that the price will be considerably in advance of that of previous years. We expect that more than ever will be dug out this spring and next fall. The season for obtaining the root will commence during the latter part of this month. It is expected that a good deal of money will be brought into the State for ginseng this year."

—It is said that every Fort of any importance which was seized by the rebels at the outbreak of the rebellion, with the exception of Fort Morgan at the entrance of Mobile, and Sumter, is now in the possession of the Government. This is rather a rapid realization of the promise of the President to "repossess" the property wrested from the Government, notwithstanding so much chafing has been indulged in at the delay in military movements. One righteous retribution, however, must be recorded in the history of this war, before the black record of the rebellion is sealed up. The haughty rebels must feel the iron heel of the Government they have outraged. The people who gloated in raining a horrible tempest of fire and iron hail, rivaling that which fell on Sodom and Gomorrah, upon a little inoffensive and half-famished band, guilty of nothing but being true to their country and the flag they had sworn to uphold, must be made to taste the bitter consequences of their giant crimes. Let the dogs of war carry desolation and dismay into their strongholds; let the brave Anderson be sent down in the Monitor, deputed to rear again the old flag of Sumter, over a vanquished and humiliated enemy, and then the people will be willing to read the history of this war. Though the Government should bring Jeff. Davis, Floyd, and the whole rebel crew to Washington in a bag, to be righteously disposed of, within the next three weeks, the country will not be satisfied till the fortifications in Charleston harbor are battered down about the ears of those rebels, and that haughty and insolent people are put under a guard of Massachusetts soldiers, or black Zouaves recruited from their own slaves.

"THE UNION AS IT WAS."

There are none who understand the influence of catch-words and fine sounding phrases better than certain gentry who are engaged of late in "reconstructing the Democratic party;" and few have profited in times past as they have by the use of high-sounding words by which they have led the masses where a proper understanding of their real objects would not have taken them. The phrase used as a caption of this article seems quite a favorite one at this time with those engaged in that movement, and every one who is known to have a warm side towards the Southern rebels seems to cherish it with as much regard as their crony Breckinridge did the Constitution of the United States just before he joined the rebel army. While we are opposed to committing any violence upon the letter of the Constitution further than necessity may require to maintain its spirit, or to save the life of the nation, we wish to show what is implied in the "restoration of the Union as it was," under the guidance of the leaders alluded to.

Literally, of course, it would restore Jeff. Davis, Wigfall, Toombs, et id omne genus, to their old occupation of cracking their slave whips in the Senate chamber, with other pleasant concomitants. But if the idea is not carried so far it will be admitted that, if it means any thing, it means a Democratic party of the North and South united—in other words it means a hybrid, evasive, but pro-slavery platform, and candidates that will be acceptable to the men who broke up the Charleston Convention; who maligned Douglas till his death, and boldly in their speeches denounced him as more objectionable than Abraham Lincoln. If it means any thing else in their mouths than to embarrass the Government in the vigorous prosecution of the war, a diversion and division of the loyal people, it means as much of a surrender of the principles of free government and the genius of our free institutions to the minions of Jeff Davis, as the adoption of the Montgomery Constitution for the government of the United States would be. If it is the expectation to adopt a platform that will be acceptable to the South, why was it not done at the Charleston Convention? We do not regard any such scheme as having the most remote chance for success, but no one dare place such a stigma upon the memory of Douglas, as such a surrender, at this time, to the slavery propaganda which he spent his last days in fighting, would inevitably cause. He and his friends persisted even to the division of the Democratic party, in resisting the slavery power; does any one seriously believe, now that nearly the whole of two-thirds of the American people have learned to fight that dark power as well as despise its character, it will be permitted to dictate the platform which will command the support of the American people? We can tell Vallandigham & Co., that if they have been asleep the past year, ideas have marched on.

Do these gentlemen intend to thrust back the loyal slaves of rebel masters who have been serving our armies in the field, to their "union as it was" with their masters? Are they going to bring back slavery into the National Capital? These, and many other questions will be asked by the unbought, freedom-loving and patriotic yeomanry of the country, heretofore belonging to the different parties, before they can be led to follow any such catch-phrases. The bitter experience we have had has certainly taught nearly every one but the hard-shell, slavery-loving politicians.

—A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette states that Smith, who was captured by Colonel Wolford's detachment, while in company with the notorious Champ Ferguson, formerly of Clinton county, Kentucky, caught a boy but twelve years of age, not long since, and having tied him to a tree, they ripped out his entrails with a knife. The provocation to this outrage was that the boy's father was a Union man. The slaughter of the male children of loyal men is now a part of the programme of Jeff. Davis' marauding agents in the mountain districts of Tennessee and Kentucky, as one Oliver Hamilton, a State rights desperado of Jackson county, Tennessee, made the announcement in Monroe county, Kentucky, about a month ago, to a mother whose son he had butchered before her eyes, that he intended to kill every Union man that he could find, and when he could not find men he would kill boys. Such men are made in the likeness and image of Jefferson Davis; they are men after his own heart.

—A late dispatch from near Corinth says an innumerable force of negroes are at work felling trees for forming abattis, and strengthening earthworks. It is now known that Gen. Lovell reached Corinth bringing an army of 30,000 men. It can no longer be a matter of doubt that Beauregard is preparing his army for a desperate struggle. Our reconnoitering parties invariably meet the enemy, go where they will, and on the hills, in the woods, and along the roads the rebels seem present in overwhelming strength. Preparations for battle are being made on a grand scale; roads are being cut through the woods to facilitate movements in different directions; siege guns are being mounted in great numbers, and nothing is wanting on our part to win the contest.

—Gen. U. S. Grant, after the battle of Fort Donelson was called by the soldiers "Unconditional Surrender" Grant. Since the battle at Pittsburg Landing, they have changed the import of his initials to "Undoubtedly Surprise" Grant.

—The following is a copy of the resolutions offered by Mr. Lovejoy, and adopted by Congress, alluded to in our dispatches yesterday, as on the way to be presented to General McClellan at his headquarters:

Resolved, That it is with feelings of devout gratitude to Almighty God, that the House of Representatives from time to time hear of the triumphs of the Union army in the great struggle for the supremacy of the Constitution and the integrity of the Union.

Resolved, That we receive with profound satisfaction the intelligence of the recent victories achieved by the armies of the Potomac, associated from their localities with those of the Revolution, and that the sincere thanks of this House are hereby tendered to Major General George B. McClellan for the display of those high military qualities which secure important results with but little loss of human life.

—The rebel tactics, if they have done nothing else, have enriched the English language with the word "skedaddle."—Louisville Journal.

The Journal, with many other newspapers, is at fault in the origin of this rare word. It has been used in localities hereabouts for four or five years. Four years ago we heard a lively Jehu give the word to his "two-forty" nag as some competitor attempted to drive his conveyance by him. The start it gave to the animal, connected with the rattle of the harness and vehicle, at the time, impressed us with the thought that the word was coined by some genius like soon other words in our language, to represent the idea by the sound. There is a Greek word, however, similar in meaning, which it resembles as nearly as many other words in our language do those from which they are derived. The rebels, though, will make it classical if the Greeks have not. They evidently regard it a cussed if not a choice word.

—The Chicago Journal in commending the sentiments of a Washingoon correspondent, a Douglas Democrat, who deprecates the late movement to organize a party in opposition to the Administration at this time, adds:—"We most heartily agree with his views. We deprecate partisan strife at this time. It is out of place and out of decency. We would as soon think of organizing an opposition to the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department while our house is on fire, as to think of organizing an opposition to President Lincoln at the present time, while his Administration is doing its very utmost to suppress the rebellion of the Southern traitors."

—Brigadier General J. D. Blunt has been appointed to command the newly reinstated Department of Kansas. General Denver reports to Halleck; General Sturgis at Washington. The Leavenworth Conservative, which exults over the change, says it is believed that General Blunt will give particular attention to the Indian country, restore the loyal Indians, and blot out every trace of rebellion in that Territory. Gen. Sturgis refused to do this, and delayed obeying the order issued by the War Department. The interests of Kansas and the country demand the "cleaning out" of that vast domain.

—The Mayor and City Marshal of Nashville have determined to compel the rich rebels of that city, who pursuaded poor men to enlist in the Confederate army, promising to take care of the families, to fulfil to the letter these engagements which they have not pretended to keep. Up to the 30th ult., permits for the shipment of nearly 3,000 bales of cotton have been issued by the Collector of Nashville.

MILWAUKEE MARKET.

MILWAUKEE, May 13.

Notwithstanding the heavy receipts of wheat the market opened firm yesterday, and during the forenoon about 70,000 bushels No. 1 spring sold at Sicpin store. After the steamer's news, however, there was a reaction and the market declined fully 2 cents, closing at 75½c for No. 2 and (nominally) 78½c for No. 1 in store. The sales on 'Change, amounting to about 20,000 bushels, were mostly of No. 2 in the La Crosse Elevator at 75½c; the only sale of No. 1 reported was 5,000 bus 79c. There was more offered than taken at this figure, but buyers enough at 78½c, as well as for No. 2 at 75½c.

Flour was inactive and unsettled. We note sales of 700 bbls at $5.75 for fair, and $5.85 for good country spring extra. The views of holders were generally above these figures.

LATEST NEWS.

BY TELEGRAPH TO ST. PAUL.

WINSLOW'S LINE.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 14.

THE FRENCH TOBACCO A DOUBTFUL INVESTMENT.

[Tribune's Dispatch]—The French Minister has received intelligence from his consul at Richmond to the effect that the rebel government had notified him that should it be necessary to evacuate the city, the French tobacco must be destroyed with the rest. At the same time the rebels offer to pay for it—a proposition not much relished by the Frenchman.

The French Minister discredits the rumors of European intervention in our affairs, and it is generally thought here that whatever purposes may have been entertained by England and France, the news from New Orleans will cause their indefinite postponement.

The 853 prisoners recently released from Richmond prisons will arrive here by way of the Potomac to morrow. A few who came through Baltimore arrived to day. They say the rebels are determined as ever, and believe that after the two great impending battles they will, if whipped bad, herd together in small guerilla parties and fight to the very last.

They represent the treatment of our prisoners as barberous in the extreme; that our officers, who alone remain in the prisons—all the privates being set free—will not be released at all.

Col. Corcoran's health is good. He is anxious to be released, and contradicts the statement made sometime since that he said he would prefer remaining where he is, believing he could be of more service, and adds that the only way in which he wishes to serve his country is on the battle field.

Col. Bowman's health failing rapidly and his eye sight nearly lost, he can survive his present treatment but a few weeks. His long confinement has affected his mind so that he is at times looked upon as insane.

The rebels offered every inducement to prisoners to join their army, but only two have done so—namely, John A. Wick, Q. M., and a private of the 7th Ohio named Wilson. As soon as it became known to the prisoners that Wilson intended to desert them, they proceeded to hang him. The guard however entered in time to cut him down before life was extinct. In punishment of this act the prisoners were put upon bread and water for ten days.

The House Committee on foreign affairs having authorized Mr. Gooch to report the Senate bill establishing diplomatic relations with Hayti and Liberia, it will doubtless be pressed to a vote at an early day.

ARRIVAL OF PRISONESS AND WOUNDED.

In addition to the steamers Hero and Kent, which brought hither the released Union prisoners last night, the Kennebec has arrived with upwards of 450 wounded rebels from Williamsburg.

These men are for the greater part slightly wounded and are attended by rebel surgeons and nurses. A strict guard is kept over this boat, and no visitors are permitted.

The steamer State of Maine also arrived with about 380, the J. P. Warner with 400 and Elm City with 450 sick and wounded prisoners from different Union regiments. They are being removed to the hospitals to day.

PASSES TO FORTRESS MONROE.

It is ordered that all applications for passes to visit Fort Monroe, Norfolk, Yorktown, or other places on the waters of the Chesapvake, be hereafter made to Maj. Gen. John A. Dix, of Baltimore.

E. M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

ARRIVAL OF WOUNDED PRISONERS.

[Herald's Dispatch.]—The steamer Kennebec arrived here this P. M., with 213 wounded rebels, and 24 wounded Union soldiers from Williamsburg. Among the latter is Col. Dwight. His wounds are less dangerous than at first supposed.

The rebels receive precisely the same treatment as our wounded, and are sent to the same hospitals.

The rumor that Gen. McCall had resigned command of the Pennsylvania reserve corps, is unfounded. He has no intention to resign until the army of the Union has accomplished its mission to suppress rebellion.

WASHINGTON, May 14.

FURTHER FROM WILLIAMSBURG AND WEST POINT BATTLES—GEN. BURNSIDE AND C. H. FOSTER.

[Times' Dispatch.]—Gov. Sprague says our losses at Williamsburg in killed and wounded and missing will amount to about 2,000, and that the rebel loss was not less. He says the battle at West Point under Franklin, was much more severe than reported; that at least 500 of our men were taken prisoners—the enemy taking advantage of the landing of our troops.

The gunboats came up in good time and saved Franklin from suffering a severe disaster.

Gen. Burnside has very quietly put an extinguisher on J. C. H. Foster, the gentleman who has so long been trying to get recognized as a member of Congress from North Carolina. He advertised to address the citizens of Newbern a few evenings since—a thing which, as Gen. Burnside put it, he thought would be very foolish for him to allow the gentleman a permit. The Military Governor appointed by the President was to shape the policy of the Government in that State, and he could not permit anything to be done which might hereafter prove to be a source of embarrassment.

Mitchell Joins Pope.

MORE MUTINY AMONG REBELS—BRAGG REPUTED DEFUNCT.

CHICAGO, May 15.

A special dispatch to the Tribune, from Cairo, of the 15th. When Gen. Mitchell joined forces with Gen. Pope, he brought with him 2,500 prisoners. They will be sent to Cairo, as soon as transportation can be obtained.

In the battle of Farmington, one rebel General, supposed to be Bragg, was killed.

Fifteen deserters came into our lines from Corinth. They report several more regiments mutinied, among them the 14th Louisiana, 1st Alabama, and 2d Tennessee regiments.

City Election, Providence, R. I.

PROVIDENCE, May 14.

Jabez C. Knight was re-elected Mayor to day, without opposition. The other Republican officers on the ticket with him were also chosen.

Positions of McClellan.

MOVEMENTS OF REBELS.

CUMBERLAND, VA., May 14.

Gen. McClellan's headquarters were established here yesterday, and are now pleasantly located on the banks of Pamunkey river. The main body of the army is rapidly concentrating at the point designated by the Commanding General. A contraband who arrived from Richmond, states that between that city and Chickahominy river, a distance of some 17 miles, the enemy are encamped in large force, where they expect to await the arrival of the army of the Potomac. As the rebels fall back, they drive before them most of the cattle, sheep and hogs, leaving only such things as they cannot move.

Explosions were heard yesterday in the direction of Chickahominy, which are supposed to have been caused by blowing up railroad bridges.

From the Mississippi Flotilla.

CHICAGO, May 15.

A special dispatch to the Chicago Tribune dated at Fort Wright, May 13th, says last evening the enemy commenced shelling the place behind Craig's Head Sound, which, until yesterday, was occupied by our mortar boats. They kept up the fire during the night. Their shells exploded wide of the mark.

They are provided with mortars equal in weight of metal to those used by the Federal fleet.

Captain Winslow was dispatched by the mail steamer yesterday to St. Louis for the purpose of bringing our rams to this place as soon as possible.

The gunboat Louisville, which has been stationed at Hickman, has joined the fleet.

Preparations have been completed on all the gunboats now here, which in the opinion of the ablest engineers will most effectually render useless any rebel contrivances of the ram species.

Rebels Evacuating Richmond.

NEW YORK, May 15.

A Fortress Monroe letter of the 13th says the deserters who are constantly coming agree in their statements that the evacuation of Richmond is rapidly progressing, and that the effort of the retreating rebels is merely to hold back Gen. McClellan so as obtain time to remove all their stores.

They also say the destruction of the city by fire is to be attained, and that it will require the utmost efforts on part of the citizens to prevent its communication; that evacuation is now progressing there is no doubt, and the Government's archives are being conveyed South.

From the Great Exhibition, London.

NEW YORK, May 15.

Per steamer we learn graphic details of the opening ceremonies at the Great Exhibition. The number present was 33,000—all being season ticket holders. The Times pronounces the ceremonies emphatically the grandest and best managed seen in England for years. The musical arrangements were carried out according to programme and were very grand.

The Morning Post in an editorial deplores the sad spectacle presented by American attendance at the Exhibition.

The second day the admission was one guinea, and the number of tickets sold over 32,000.

General Hunter Mustering the Slaves—Death of Hon. C. J. Ingersoll

NEW YORK, May 15.

The Post says advices per the Cahawba state that Gen. Hunter had issued a proclamation, freeing the slaves in his department. He was organizing a negro brigade and had detailed some officers to train the contrabands in the use of arms.

Hon. C. J. Ingersoll died in Philadelphia yesterday, in the 80th year of his age.

Mutiny in Rebel Camp.

CHICAGO, May 15.

A special dispatch to the Times to Cairo by the steamer City of Memphis from Pittsburg Landing, says on Monday two regiments from Kentucky and Tennessee attempted to desert their cause and come over en masse to the Federal army. The enemy held them in check, and a mutiny ensued. A strong force from our advance lines was sent over to interfere, and in a short time returned with about sixty prisoners, mostly from the ranks of the deserting regiments. They give a doleful account of affairs in Beauregard's army, and confirm previous statements that the troops from the border States are anxious to return to their former allegiance.

The story of the enemy's lack of provisions is denied by these deserters, who say there is plenty of subsistence at Corinth.

Depredations of Rebel Cavalry.

CAIRO, May 15.

The expedition consisting of six squadrons of the 1st Wisconsin cavalry from Cape Girardeau went to Bloomfield on Saturday, and early Sunday morning they fell upon the rebel Colonel Phelan's camp, scattering them in every direction. The rebels lost one killed and fifteen captured. A large number of horses, a quantity of camp equipage and ammunition were taken.

A rebel force numbering 500 or 600 infested Chalk and Poplar Bluffs, impressing all the men, the country being swept of horses, cattle and supplies, which are sent South. The country is represented to be in a state of great terror.

Cotton From Port Royal.

NEW YORK, May 15.

The United States gunboat Catawaba arrived here this morning, eighty hours from Port Royal. The Catawaba has 6,982 bags of unginned cotton on board.

The news is unimportant.

SURRENDER OF NEW ORLEANS.

Flag Officer Farragut to the Mayor of New Orleans—Captain Bailley's Short Experience.

Special Dispatch to the Chicago Post.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Captains Borgs and Bailley, bearers of dispatches from the Federal fleet before New Orleans, were received with distinguished honors at the Capitol to day.

Capt. Bailley says the higher classes and Creoles, including the Creole laborers, are for the rebellion. The "mudsills" are for the Union. Walking along the streets amid hurrahs for Jeff. Davis and Beauregard, his coat tail or sleeves would be pulled by some Unionist, who would whisper his faith, or would press his hand silently being afraid to speak out.

Fort Livingston surrendered in the fight at the approach of two drifting ships. Above New Orleans there is a formidable raft composed of logs wound with chains, stretching across the river to prevent Foote's coming down. The authorities told him if he had waited any longer the city could not have been taken, as the Mississippi floating battery—more powerful than any engaged, which had been launched—would have received her armament. Twenty gunboats were on the stocks. Capt. Bailley brings drawings by Commodore Porter. The Manassas coming down stream looks like a white save, her smoke stack, and flames bursting out in several places.

Capt. Bailey, in his official report says after we had passed the forts it was a contest between iron hearts in wooden vessels and iron clads with iron beaks, and iron hearts wood.

Out of much in the official dispatches worth quoting, I take the following:

U. S. FLAG SHIP HARTFORD, AT ANCHOR OFF THE CITY OF NEW ORLEANS, April 26, 1862.

To his Honor, the Mayor of New Orleans:

Your Honor will please give direction that no flag but that of the United States will be permitted to fly in the presence of this fleet, so long as it has the power to prevent it; and as all displays of that kind may be the cause of bloodshed, I have to request that you will give this communication [as general circulation as possible.

D. G. FARRAGUT, Flag Officer.

U. S. FLAG SHIP HARTFORD, OFF THE CITY OF NEW ORLEANS, April 26, 1862.

GENERAL ORDERS.—Eleven o'clock this morning is the hour appointed for all officers and crews of the fleet to return thanks to Almighty God for his great goodness and mercy in permitting us to pass through the events of the last two days with so little loss of life and blood.

At that hour the church pennant will be hoisted on every vessel of the fleet, and their crews assembled will in humiliation and prayer make their acknowledgments therefor to the great Dispenser of human events.

FARRAGUT.

INTERESTING FROM TEXAS.

From the Springfield Missourian, May 3.

Two gentlemen, whose names we did not learn, arrived here on Thursday, direct from Cass county, Texas, which they left on the 10th ult. We learn from them that there is a strong and growing Union sentiment in that State, and particularly in the western portion; where it is said that 1200 citizens recently came out openly and boldly proclaimed themselves for the Union.

The death of McCulloch spread dismay and despair among the rebels of Texas. Some of his men had arrived home, declaring that they were tired and sick of the war. Gen. Hogg, who had been appointed to succeed McCulloch, acknowledged that the rebels were completely routed at Pea Ridge, and expressed doubts about his ability to reorganize McCulloch's forces.

Our informants deny the report that Gen. Houston is a secessionist. The old hero keeps quiet, it not being prudent for him to do otherwise yet. All that the Union men of that State want is the presence of the Federals, when they will openly avow their real sentiments.

The wheat crop in that State is not encouraging, and but little cotton is being planted, and if the war continues until the first of July, starvation will force Texas to succumb to the old Government. Many of the best informed men of the South admit their inability to carry on the war much longer for want of powder.

A recruiting officer for the Confederates lately made a speech to Northwestern Texas, and frankly told his audience that he believed the Federals would take New Orleans and Memphis, and that they had the best armed, equipped and disciplined army in the world.

They tell us that President Lincoln's emancipation message is favorably spoken of by many of the Union slaveholding citizens of Texas, who express their belief that the war will extinguish slavery in all the border States, and perhaps throughout the entire

THE GREAT BATTLE WITH THE FORTS BELOW NEW ORLEANS.

A correspondent of the New York Evening Post in Commodore Porter's mortar fleet sends the following particulars of the brilliant assault on the forts below New Orleans. His report extends from 15th of April, three days before the opening of the fight, to the 25th, two days after the close:

U. S. SCHOONER NORFOLK PACKET, BOMB FLOTILLA, Ten miles below Fort Jackson, Mississippi River, April 15, 1862.

PREPARATIONS.

It is fashionable in this fleet to paint your ship brown; nor is it an extravagant caprice; for the paint is easily obtained from the bank of the river, while the pigment is not ground in oil, but mid on in water, with a whitewash brush. When the coat of mud dries it is difficult to distinguish the outline of the ship on these muddy waters, especially if a slight fog prevails. All the mortar fleet, the Richmond, and a number of our gunboats, have already assumed this new masquerade dress.

The whole of them are now at this point, and the other vessels of the fleet are rapidly gathering about us. The Mississippi, Richmond, Oneida, Iroquois, Harriet Lane, Westfield, Clifton, Miami, and several other gunboats have already arrived. The Pensacola, Hartford, Brooklyn and Varuna are yet to come up from the Head of the Passes. The Octorora, which was to have been Captain Porter's flag-ship, has not yet reported from New York.

FOREIGN SPECTATORS.

This afternoon a large English man of war steamed up the river. At first she took a position among the most advanced of our vessels. But later in the day she dropped down the river, and modestly took a place in the rear guard. It may be that she was informed that our enemies are preparing fire rafts, which, in their descent, would respect British colors as little as American. There is a French man of war also lying at the head of the Passes. Her commander makes a trip up the river every Tuesday and Saturday, and appears to be in very friendly communication with the rebel forts. But his business is probably with the French residents of New Orleans.

THE FIRE RAFTS.

APRIL 25, 1862.—For two days after the close of my last brief note, we were getting ready for the grand assault. The rebels seem to have been aware of it, for they sent down fire rafts to intercept our work and destroy the vessels of our squadron. Commodore Porter is too old a salt to be caught by such tricks. The way in which they were prepared was to heap an old float of logs with bundles of pine wood, saturated, doubtless, with turpentine, and then set on fire to drift against our vessels. At first one of the blazing monsters came near a bomb boat, and produced considerable excitement among the occupants, but a rifled shot from one of our steamers shattered the lubricious concern into splinters. They soon became objects of laughter rather than of terror, furnishing targets merely for the practice of our less experienced gunners, who delighted in the opportunity of blowing them high out of water. In the night it was rather a brilliant scene to see these moving bonfires splutttering away across the stream.

GETTING INTO POSITION.

A principal object was to get the fort between two fires, which was to be done by Farragut's running up the river to take a station above, while the mortars should hop briskly made in the midst of a fearful rain of shot and shell, which seemed as if at every moment it would drown them in a deluge of fire. But the noble tars kept steadily on, and when we of the mortar fleet lost sight of them, the Stars and Stripes were still flying gloriously from every masthead. That they did some work for themselves in the midst of the tempest of flame by which they were assailed, as we had evidence in the hulks of two or three burning rebel gunboats which were borne past us by the strong current of the river.

OPENING THE BATTLE.

The mortar fleet, with which your correspondent is particularly connected, sent the first ball howling over the water towards Fort Jackson at precisely half-past nine in the morning of Friday, April 18th. It is called Good Friday in the calendar of the Church, although anything but a good day for the rebels. Our schooners lay partly hidden from the enemy behind the trees and under the brushwood of a dense swamp which stretches along the right bank of the river. With a curious display of ingenuity they baffled the eyes of the enemy still further by dressing up their masts and rigging with the branches of green withes and leaves, which so confounded them with the woods that at a distance they could scarcely be distinguished. The rebel gunners learned only from the wreaths of smoke which curled above the seeming forest the temporary position of their assailants. This will be pronounced a Yankee trick, doubtless, by our secession critics and their sympathetic friends abroad, or else, that it was borrowed from Macbeth's enemies, when "Birnam wood did come to Dunsinane."

GALLANT ACTION OF THE VARUNA.

Of the incidents of this long siege it is impossible for me to write in this hasty sketch. I can give you an outline only of the principal events and of the results. Perhaps the most exciting time of all was when the gunboats ran the fire of the forts. Thirteen of them succeeded in passing and getting safely out of range. Among these were the Mississippi, the Hartford, the Pensacola, the Richmond, the Brooklyn, the Oneida, the Scioto, the Kine, the Wissahickon, the Pinola, the Katahdin and the Cayuga. The Varuna, in attempting the passage, came in contact with several of the enemy's gunboats—a perfect nest of them, in fact—and, after destroying no less than six of them, was herself sunk. She was battled under by one of the iron-clad monsters, but when she went down and while she was half under water, her guns were discharged and carried her assailant with her. Only three of her crew were lost in the action, and Captain Boggs and his men have won lasting glory for their gallantry, stubbornness and indomitable courage. It is said that 150 will cover the whole number of killed and wounded on board the Varuna and those vessels that passed the forts.

HOLLINS' RAM EXIT.

The morning after the passage of the forts our eyes were astonished by a visit from the famous ram, which has won immortal fame for the doughty Hollins. Iron clothed as she is and impregnable, the Mississippi had indignantly put a shell through her sides and set her on fire. Whether her crew were burnt or drowned themselves, or whether they escaped by some means or other, is not known to this deponent. She was awfully battered and charred, and few relics of the monster now remain.

The distance of the foremost vessel from the fort was three thousand three hundred and forty yards, and the three divisions of which the fleet was composed engaged in the fire alternately, each division firing for four hours and then resting for eight. The rate of the fire generally observed was, one shell from each mortar of the division every ten minutes. As Fort Jackson replied with considerable rapidity and vigor, you may conceive the noise and thunder, which was continued for six days and five nights.

Fortunately, our schooners were mostly out of range of Fort Jackson, and only within range of Fort Phillip; but, even from the latter, nothing but rifled cannons and mortars were at all dangerous. Fortunately again, the enemy had few of these customers to send us, and we fought comparatively secure.

Many of our vessels were struck, in the course of the long engagement, but only one of them was severely injured, and only two of their men severely wounded. The Maria J. Carlton received a shot that passed through her magazine, and opened a leak by which she was sunk to the bottom. Yet the water where she was stationed was sufficiently shallow to admit of the removal of her mortars and most of her stores. James Laver, a sailor on board the Arletta, was killed by a shot, and Michael Brady, Carpenter's Mate on the Norfolk packet, flag-ship, was wounded by the fragment of a shell. Four or five other sailors were more or less hurt. At least fifteen hundred shell were fired from the bomb schooners during the first day, besides nearly half as many from the gunboats. Nothing could have been more splendid than the gunnery of our men.

The correspondent of the New York Times writes a detailed account of the bombardment of Forts St. Phillip and Jackson, which we append:

DESTROYING THE ENEMY'S FIRE-RAFTS.

A turgid column of black smoke, arising from resinous wood, was seen approaching us from the vicinity of the forts. Signal lights were made, the varied colors of which produced a beautiful effect upon the foliage of the river bank, and rendered the darkness intenser by contrast when they disappeared. Instantly a hundred boats shot out towards the raft, which now was blazing fiercely, and casting a wide zone of light upon the water. Two or three of the gunboats then got under weigh and steamed boldly towards the unknown thing of terror. One of them, the Westfield, Captain Renshaw, gallantly opens his steam valves, and dashes furiously upon it, making the sparks fly and timbers crash with the force of her blow. Then a stream of water from her hose plays upon the blazing mass. Now the small boats lay along side, coming up helter skelter, and actively employing their men. We see everything distinctly in the broad glare—men, oars, boats, buckets and ropes. The scene looks phantom-like, supernatural, intensely interesting, extremely exciting, inextricably confused. But finally the object is nobly accomplished. The raft, yet fiercely burning, is taken out of range of the anchored vessels and towed ashore, where it is slowly consumed. As the boats return they are cheered by the fleet, and the scene changes to one of darkness and repose, broken occasionally by the gruff hail of a seaman when a boat, sent on business from one vessel to another, passes through the fleet. We have a contempt for fire-rafts. They have proved, like many other things to be "weak inventions of the enemy."

THE ATTACK UPON THE FORTS.

The engagement was opened by Fort Jackson a few minutes before 9 o'clock, and the gunboat Owasco, which had gone a length or two ahead of the mortar boats, was the first to reply. Presently the bomb flotilla commenced throwing its shells, somewhat slowly at first, but with increasing rapidity as the sailors became accustomed to their work, until a bomb was sent from each vessel, on an average once in five minutes. Before the fight began, I was lucky enough to obtain a place in the foretop of the frigate Mississippi, where the entire strife could be taken in at a glance. From this point I saw the effect of the firing.

There were seventy-nine shots fired from the forts during the first hour and a half, the larger number of which came from Fort Jackson. Most of them passed over the masts of the schooners on the left, dropping in range of those on the other shore, but from one hundred and fifty to two hundred yards short. After a while, however, the rebels got the range of these six vessels accurately, and the balls fell about them, especially from Fort Phillip, terribly thick and fast. In return the bombs were directed spiritedly upon the fort, and with such effect that the enemy slackened his fire.

It is wonderful that our vessels were not smashed to pieces. Solid shot struck the water close beside them, wetting the men with the spray, or lodging in the soft mud of the river bank, directly between the schooners, threw a thick column of earth high up above their masts. These vessels all belonged to the second divison of the flotilla (Lieutenant Commanding Queen's). They were the T. M. Ward, Queen; Mathew Vassar, Savage; George Mangham, Collins; Adolph Hugel, Von Boskerck; Maria J. Carlton, Jack; and Sidney Jones, Graham. The danger to which these vessels were exposed far out-weighed the advantages which might result from retaining the position, and in the evening Captain Porter ordered them to retreat. The next morning they were towed into the rear of the line of vessels on the left, where they remained until the end of the bombardment. Only three of them were struck and not a soul was injured on board of them.

THE DEMAND FOR THE SURRENDER OF THE FORTS.

Between 6 and 7 o'clock I went on board the Owasco, with Capt. Guest, who had been commissioned by Capt. Porter to go with a flag of truce up to the forts and demand their unconditional surrender. We approached Fort St. Philip within a mile, when we were fired upon rapidly five times. I confess that I had anticipated something of this sort, and was not therefore, unprepared. We immediately hauled down our flag of truce, returned, but in half an hour afterwards a gig came down from the rebel fort, flying the rebel flag astern and a white flag in the bow, and containing a pale young man, with bushy hair, in the uniform coat of a First Lieut. of artillery, with a somewhat seedy cap and pantaloons of coarse corduroy. Capt. Guest went to meet our visitor, and their conference lasted a few minutes.

The crew of the rebel boat was of a more motley appearance than I am able to describe. Their clothes were soiled and ragged. One wore a red shirt, one a white and the other two gray shirts. One had a black slouched hat, and the others violet colored military caps. We waited after the rebels went back to the fort, until they came back with an answer to our demand for surrender. On returning, the rebel was invited on board the Owasco, and delivered his message there. Of course he was the cynosure of all eyes, and he appeared to be greatly abashed at the position in which he found himself. He brought word that Colonel Higginson, the commander of Fort Philip, considered our terms wholly inadmissible, and that the Fort would never surrender. He also offered an apology in behalf of his superior officer, for firing upon the flag of truce, assuring us that it was done by mistake—the color of the flag having been indistinguishable.

When the young lieutenant, whose name I believe is Kennedy, of the First Louisiana artillery, left the vessel, he allowed his boat to drop down a considerable distance into our lines, pretending that his men were unable to row against the current. Undoubtedly his object was to make a reconnoissance of our forces, and as soon as his shrewdness was observed, we ran toward him. Capt. Guest remarked, "I must give you a tow," and passing a rope to the boat, we soon took him nearly up to the fort. In this way we observed as much as he, the river being strewed with wrecks of steamers and half-consumed fire rafts. It was not long after the rebel answer had been returned to Capt. Porter, before the bombs were again bowling in the direction of the forts, and the firing continued until the mortar fleet was ordered down the river.

THE NEW IRONSIDES.

It has been known for some time that a new iron-plated war steamer, of formidable proportions was being built at Philadelphia. She was launched at the Kensington ship yard on the 10th, with appropriate ceremonies, in the presence of an immense multitude. The veteran Commodore Stewart was present by invitation, and performed the ceremony of christening her—the name of the "New Ironsides" being given. We take from the Bulletin the following description of this formidable engine of War:

The New Ironsides is the first iron-plated sea-going war steamer of large size built by the United States Government. She is constructed from plans and specifications presented to the Navy Department last September, by Merrick & Sons, of this city, who are the sole contractors with the Government. They in turn have contracted with Messrs. Cramp & Sons, of Kensington; also, with the Bristol Forge, and Brown & Co., of Pittsburg, for the 4½ inch plating—reserving to themselves the construction of the machinery and the general arrangements of the several parts. The The contract is dated October 15th, and the vessel is to be ready for steam July 15th. The Chief Engineer, W. W. Wood, of the navy, superintends the machinery and plating, and Naval Constructor Henry Hoover, the hull.

She is 240 feet long, 58 feet 6 inches wide and 25 deep, being 4250 tons, and having a berth, gun and spar deck, the latter being shot proof. Her frames are of white oak filled in solid and caulked, and the average thickness of her sides is 20 inches. The iron plating commences at a point four feet below the water line and extends to her spar deck. The lower course is three inches; all the rest is four and a half inches thick. All the plates are 15 feet long, the width varying from 25 to 30 inches; each plate is fastened to the vessel by 21½ inch screw bolts, 23 inches long, which secure the several thicknesses of timber to the plates, thus tying all together.

The machinery consists of two horizontal direct action steam engines, with cylinders of 50 inches diameter and 30 inches stroke, intended to make 85 revolutions per minute, and drive a brass four-bladed propeller of 13 feet diameter and 18 feet pitch. The boilers are four in number (horizontal tubular,) each 17 feet front, 11 feet deep, and 11 feet high, of a collective force of 1,600 horses. The armament will consist of 16 eleven inch Dahlgren guns on the gun deck, and two 200 pound Parrott guns on the spar deck. The port holes will be closed by iron shutters five inches thick, thick, worked from the inside.

As this is a sea-going steamer, intended to sail as well as steam, who will have three masts and be bark rigged; her topmasts and yards being so arranged that in action they are lowered, and leave simply the three lower masts in view.

When in action, all the men on board are protected from shot or shell, and are below the spar deck; the commander only is above that deck, and he occupies a shot proof iron look-out, which rises above the spar deck, and from which he can see all surrounding objects, and by signals communicate with the officers below.

Unlike the Monitor and Galena, this vessel can carry a large crew, sufficiently so to board and capture any vessel. Impenetrable to shot and shell, she will seek close action, and by means of her iron prow sink, or by her heavy guns, capture her opponent. Her light draft of water, 16 feet, will enable her to enter all our Southern harbors. Even Moultrie and Sumter can be visited by her, and she may be able to make an impression on those forts before they are re-possessed by the United States.

EFFECTS OF THE BLOCKADE AT NEW ORLEANS.—A copy of the New Orleans Price Current, embracing a summary of the year's business ending March 1, 1862, has been sent to the Navy Department by one the officers of the Gulf Squadron. It appears from this journal that the exports of cotton from New Orleans for the past year have been eleven thousand bales, against one half a million bales the previous year. The exports from all the Southern ports have been only thirteen thousand bales, against more than two million the previous year. Exports of tobacco from New Orleans nothing, against seventeen thousand hogsheads last year. Imports—specie, nothing, against $12,000,000 the previous year; coffee, 300 bags, against 250,000 bags; salt, nothing, against 500-000 sacks.

THE FRUIT OF CAKE.—A poor girl in California picked up the cutting of a grape vine thrown into the road, in order to drive her mule with it. She carried it home, and though it was wilted and worn and appeared good for nothing, she stuck it into the ground. "It has a little life left," she said. "I will try and save it." So she watered it, and watched it, and trained it, and took as much care of it as if it were the most promising shoot in the world.

Well, how did it reward her? In a single year, after it was six years old, it bore five thousand bunches of grapes, and each bunch weighed one pound; these on being sold, brought her the handsome sum of $4,000. You see it is not so much having large means to do with, as it is in doing the best you can with small means.

The symptoms are numerous, and of the nature of almost all other complaints combined. From this fact arise the very many cases where this disease is mistaken for some other and so improperly treated. The first symptoms, indigestion, flatulency, loss of appetite, heartburn, headache, etc., if neglected, almost always awaken some dormant disease, and send the poor sufferer to a premature grave. CASH CAPITAL.....$100,000

DIVIDENDS ON CAPITAL LIMITED BY ITS CHARTER TO 7 PER CENT PER CENT PER ANNUM —THE ENTIRE PROFITS GO TO THE POLICY HOLDERS.

This Society was organized in the year 1859, with a cash capital of $100,000 deposited irrevocably with the Insurance Department of the State of New York, in U. S. bonds, on which it allows but 7 per cent. per annum to the stockholders, and the entire profits of the business is shared by the policy holders. The nett profits in two years amounts to $129,000, which shows an unparalleled success in the history of Life Insurance. Its operations are managed by a Board of Directors composed of the ablest business men of the country and its business is conducted entirely on the cash plan. Dividends to the policy holders will be made every five years, and no Company in the country offers equal advantages to its dealers.

The Old Established
CROCKERY HOUSE
OF
R. MARVIN,

SENDS GREETING TO HIS CUSTOMERS IN MINNESOTA, IN DAKOTA TERRITORY, AND BEYOND THE BRITISH LINE.

That being one of the Oldest Business Houses in the State, (the present being the eleventh year of its existence,) R. MARVIN feels confident that he need not urge its claims on the public patronage. The extent of country over which its business has spread is the best proof that its claims are not unrecognized. The unwavering determination which he has felt since the crisis, and in the hardest times, to maintain his business and place it on a par with similar establishments in the largest cities of the West, have been so fully appreciated by the merchants of the State, that he feels bound to redouble his efforts, not only for the benefit of his business, but for the pride he feels in his adopted city.

Mr. R. would call on the citizens of St. Paul, and especially the old residents who remember "the day of small things," not to forget that he still has a

The Mill is just completed, and is in good running order. It contains many valuable and the latest improvements, and was got up in the East, without regard to expense. It has two run of Burrs, which will be kept running night and day, so that farmers coming from the country can be accommodated without much delay.

The want of a first class Mill in the city has long been felt by the citizens of St. Paul and vicinity. We have secured the services of Mr. Haight, who is well acquainted with the business of the Mill, and in whom we can place entire confidence.

All kinds of grain will be weighed when brought to the Mill, and also when taken away, if desired. We feel confident in saying to the public that we can make as good Flour and as great a yield to the bushel as any Mill in Minnesota, and respectfully solicit a fair trial.

THE NAVAL ENGAGEMENT AT FORT PILLOW--SPLENDID VICTORY OF THE FEDERAL FLEET.

From a special dispatch to the Chicago Tribune we take the following account of the naval engagement at Fort Pillow:

OFF FORT PILLOW, May 10, via Cairo, May 11.--As the rebel ram Louisiana approached within close range, the Cincinnati turned her head about, causing the ram to run along closer beside her, when Capt. Stembel drew his pistol and very coolly shot the pilot, killing him instantly; but a second afterwards, a musket ball struck the gallant Captain in his left shoulder, inflicting a painful, though not serious, wound.

At this time the contest between the two boats was most intensely exciting. The crew of each was armed with carbines, cutlasses and boarding spikes, and were discharging volley after volley in quick succession at the other, while the ram was endeavoring to get her head about so as run into, and, if possible, sink her antagonist.

Just then the steam batteries of the Cincinnati were opened with terrible effect, throwing heavy volumes of steam and scalding water into the midst of the rebel crew, placing all who appeared on deck hors du combat instantly, and causing the craft to withdraw in all haste.

In the meantime the rebel fleet had been reinforced by three other vessels, and among them the new iron-clad gunboat Mallory, lately built at Memphis. These three ran immediately up to the Cincinnati and engaged her at once. She withstood the assault most nobly, the shot of the enemy glancing off from her iron plating without causing the slightest damage, while her own guns were raining shot and shell with fearful effect upon the enemy.

Capt. Stembel, though badly wounded, remained at his post and directed every movement with the coolness and deliberation for which he is noted.

During this engagement the Mallory approached the Cincinnati with the design of accomplishing that which the ram had failed in doing. As she came in close proximity the Federal boat St. Louis bore down upon her, and coming with a full head of steam on, struck her amidships, cutting her nearly in two, and causing her to sink in a very few minutes. Numbers of her crew escaped by clinging to the St. Louis, and others were picked up by the Cincinnati, but the larger proportion went down with the boat.

While this work was in progress the other boats of our fleet had engaged the remainder of the rebel fleet, and a most terrific battle was raging, the like of which the usually peaceful waters of the Mississippi have never before witnessed.

Report followed upon report, like the continuous rattle of musketry. The rebels fought bravely and with determination, but they were met by greater bravery, skill and metal, and were being badly worsted.

Captain Davis, of the flag-ship Benton, directed every movement of our fleet with the sagacity and style of a veteran in naval warfare. He made no mistakes.

The cannonading was fearful and its reverberations were grand and terrible. The noise was almost one continuous report, while the river was covered with a dense volume of smoke that for a time completely enveloped both fleets and hid them from view. It was at this time that a report louder and more distinct than that of a gun attracted general attention, and when the smoke lifted a little it was found that one of the enemy's boats was blown to atoms.

I have no means of knowing the loss of life by this terrible calamity, but it must have been very great. A few lucky fellows were seen floating about on fragments of the wreck, and were picked up by the rebel boats, but the majority of the crew perished miserably.

Scarcely had the excitement caused by this fearful and unlooked for event passed away, when a second report startled all ears, and another rebel boat with its crew had disappeared. Both vessels were blown up by the explosion of shells from our guns in their magazines. All this time our boats continued to pour their deadly rounds into the enemy, crippling such of their craft as were not wholly destroyed, and carrying death to hundreds of their crews. While themselves unhurt, they proudly defied the heaviest missiles of the rebel guns, their invulnerable armor stepping sides, repelling both shot and shell with perfect success. No enemy could stand against such extreme and destructive fire as our boats continued to give, while their own guns were impotent for mischief, much less in their crippled condition with three of their eight vessels destroyed, could the rebels maintain their ground.

At twenty minutes past seven they withdrew to the shelter of their batteries.

The casualities on our side were scarcely worth mentioning. Captain Stembel was slightly wounded in his left shoulder, and two seamen were injured, though to what extent has not been learned.

Our gunboats behaved most admirably, and all of them came out of the action without any serious damage.

The Cincinnati was in the thickest of the fight throughout, and bore the brunt of the attack, but was not injured enough to prevent her from immediately going into action again. The report that she was badly disabled or sunk is erroneous. The St. Louis, that run down the rebel Malloroy, was but slightly damaged herself, and is ready again for duty.

The narration of the fight as given above carries its own commentary on the conduct of these and all the other officers.

THE EMANCIPATION POLICY OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN.

The resolutions adopted by the General Synod of the Lutheran Church, now in session at Lancaster, will attract special attention on account of their fervent loyalty and their cordial endorsement of the gradual emancipation policy of President Lincoln and approved by Congress. There are some who appear to suppose that all the people of the slave States are necessarily opposed to any measures for the abolition of slavery. But this idea is utterly erroneous. In the debate upon the very resolution to which we refer, (for it was opposed by some members who deemed it inexpedient to express an opinion upon the question it involved,) one of the leading speakers was Professor Eggers, from Nashville, Tennessee, who, as we learn by the report of the Lancaster Express, made the following remarks:

"Prof. Eggers, from Nashville, Tennessee, said he had preached in Nashville throughout the whole reign of the late Confederacy. He was in favor of the resolution originally, and thought Dr. Stork had improved it. He had a conversation a short time ago with a business man in Nashville, who said that, though property there was worth little now, it would soon be worth more than ever; that emancipation must come; that the negro must go South; and advised that he be colonized in a nation of his own, somewhere in Texas—Texas deserved that for the trouble she had given us. That this trouble was caused by slavery was as clear to them as the plagues which afflicted Pharoah, because he did not let the children of Israel go. [Applause.] A great change has taken place in the South on this question; slavery is something different now; the people are Union where he came from; he said he couldn't have staid there if he had been a secessionist. The emancipation of slaves in the District of Columbia, some years ago, would have set Tennessee in a blaze; now they took it quietly, and did nothing."

There is, also, at this moment, a strong movement being made for the abolition of slavery in Delaware, Maryland, Missouri, Western Virginia, and Kentucky, by a portion of the citizens of those States, some of the most active and influential men engaged in it being themselves large slaveholders.—Philadelphia Press.

DISPATCH OF COMMODORE PORTER--INFAMOUS CONDUCT OF THE REBELS.

UNITED STATES SHIP HARRIET LANE, April 29, 1862.

SIR:—The morning after the ships passed the forts, I sent a demand to Colonel Higgins for a surrender of the forts, which he declined.

On the 37th, I sent Lieutenant Colonel Higgins a communication, herewith enclosed asking again for the surrender. His answer is enclosed.

On the 28th, I received a communication from him, stating that he would surrender the forts, and I came up and took possession, drew up articles of capitulation, and hoisted the American flag over the forts. These men have defended the forts with bravery worthy of a better cause. I treated them with all the consideration that circumstances would admit. The three steamers remaining were under the command of Commander J. K. Mitchell. The officers of the fort acknowledged no connection with them, and wished in no way to be considered responsible for their acts. While I had the flag of truce up they were employed in towing the iron floating battery of sixteen guns, a most formidable affair, to a place above the fort, and while drawing up the articles of capitulation in the cabin of the Harriet Lane, it was reported they had set fire to the battery, and turned it adrift upon us.

I asked the General if he had powder on board or the guns loaded. He replied that he would not undertake to say what the navy officers would do. He seemed to have great contempt for them. I told him we could stand the fire and blow if he could, and we went on with the conference, after directing the officers to look out for their ships.

While drifting down on us, the guns getting heated, exploded, throwing the shot above the river. A few moments after the battery exploded, with a terrific noise, throwing the fragments all over the river, and wounding one of their own men in Fort Phillip, and immediately disappeared under water. Had she blown up near the vessels, she would have destroyed the whole of them.

When I had finished taking possession of the forts, I got under way in the Harriet Lane and started for the steamers, one of which was still flying the confederate flag. I fired a shot over her and they surrendered. There was on board of them a number of naval officers and two companies of marine artillery. I made them surrender unconditionally, and for their infamous conduct in trying to blow us up, while under a flag of truce, I conveyed them to close confinement as prisoners of war, and think they should be sent to the North and kept in close confinement there until the war is over, or they should be tried for their infamous conduct. I have a great deal to do here, and will send you all the papers when I am able to arrange them.

I turned over the forts to General Phelps. Fort Jackson is a ruin. I am told that over eighteen hundred shells fell in and burst over the centre of the fort. The practice was beautiful. The next work we go at we will settle sooner, as this has been hard to get at. The naval officers sunk one gunboat while the capitulation was going on, but I have one of the other steamers at work, and hope soon to have the other. I find that we are to be the bearers of wood and drawers of water; but as the soldiers have nothing here in the shape of motive power we will do all we can. I should have demanded an unconditional surrender, but with such a force in your rear it was desirable to get possession of these forts as soon as possible.

The officers turned over everything in good order except the walls and buildings, which are terribly shattered by the mortars.

Very respectfully,
[Signed,] D. D. PORTER,
Commanding.

To Flag-officer D. G. Farragut.

FROM ARKANSAS.

ST. LOUIS, May 10.—The correspondence of the St. Louis Democrat, from Batesville, Arkansas, May 6, states that the Union feeling, which along the route to this place has been at a low ebb, has manifested itself in a most gratifying manner since the arrival of General Curtis' army here. Men from the surrounding country are daily coming in and avowing themselves on the side of the old government. The day we reached here thirty men came in from a distance of twenty miles to congratulate us on our arrival.

Large numbers of secessionists are voluntarily coming forward and taking the oath of allegiance, stating that the Southern Confederacy is dead.

Many of the townships are loyal to the core, and it has only been the larger villages where the noisy politicians have kept the thing alive, that have overawed the country people. Arkansas lies prostrate at the feet of the Government. There are no rebel troops in the State, save the Coleman's Jayhawkers, and some Texan regiments, said to be at Little Rock.

The steamboats on the Arkansas and White rivers have been taken away by the rebels, to prevent them from falling into our hands.

—Traitor Davis urges his adherents to pray to the Almighty for success in their wicked rebellion. They have been industriously preying for a year past.—Winona Republican.

DR. UNDERWOOD,
Of Chicago, Ill., the eminent and skilful operator on the Eye and Ear, whose name and fame is so extensively known throughout the United States, for his science, skill and success in performing formidable operations, and in removing difficult and dangerous diseases from those delicate organs, has arrived in St. Paul and may be consulted at the AMERICAN HOUSE for a short time only.
Dr. U., who is a regular Physician and Surgeon of the old school, has had an extensive experience in both hospital and private practice of twenty-eight years, and will be found competent to perform any operation necessary to restore lost sight or hearing, or by other mild and gentle means to remove any disease from those delicate organs within the reach of science and human skill.
CHRONIC DISEASES, of every grade and character, whether requiring medical or surgical treatment, POSITIVELY and PERMANENTLY CURED, when not clearly beyond the reach of science and human skill.
Dr. Underwood treats all diseases on regular and scientific principles, as recognized by the medical profession both in Europe and America, and hence does not use or deal in those pretended new and never failing remedies—pacifics, inhaling vapors, and chairvoyant prescription—which are so ostentatiously paraded before the public by those impudent traveling quacks and money-fleecing empirics, nine-tenths of whom never were inside of a medical college. Patients afflicted or laboring under diseases of long standing, can consult Dr. U. with the most confident hope and expectation of being perfectly cured, or receiving with unerring certainty all the relief that the highest skill, the most judicious and scientific treatment can possibly bestow.
Among the diseases which the Doctor has lately treated with the most signal success, may be mentioned those of the Heart, Lungs, Liver, Stomach and Bowels—and Nervous Affections, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Salt Rheum and Chronic Female Affections. my7-3m

Merrimac Fruit Farm.
TRIOMPHE DE GAND.
We unhesitatingly place this variety at the very head of the list of strawberries. Another year's trial has only confirmed our opinion of its superior worth. Were we confined to one variety, it should be the Triomphe de Gand. No other kind, of which we have any knowledge, possess so so many excellencies. Indeed, with us, it approaches so nearly perfection as to leave but little more to be desired.
The plants are thrifty, hardy and vigorous growers, bearing their fruit well up, which renders it easily to be kept clean. They are also wonderfully productive with us, and the fruit is not only usually of large size but UNIFORMLY so, and throughout the season, which is longer with it than with most other varieties. The flavor is everything that could be desired. It is of a very beautiful crimson color, glossy and very attractive. It keeps well after being picked, retaining its beautiful color and firmness, and carries better than any other variety.

We claim that all articles sent out from our establishment are what they profess to be—true to name—and of good quality. Our prices, we think, are reasonable—not "below" or "at cost" of production, but such as to afford a fair profit, to which, we think, we are justly entitled. We are not ambitious to give to our establishment the reputation of a low priced nursery, but one where a genuine article of the best quality can be had, and that will give satisfaction to the purchaser.

LA CROSSE AND ST. PAUL
PACKET COMPANY.
SUMMER ARRANGEMENT
During the season of 1862, till the close of navigation, the La Crosse and St. Paul Packet Company, having completely equipped their Line, and made large additions to their business facilities, will offer to shippers and passengers on the river greater inducements and conveniences, and QUICKER TIME, than was ever offered by any company on the river.
All the boats on the Chippewa, Minnesota, St. Croix and the upper Mississippi rivers, and the different lines of stages north of La Crosse will the coming season run to connect with the Davidson boats and the La Crosse and Milwaukee Railroad.
The La Crosse and St. Paul Packet Company will run a
PASSENGER AND FREIGHT LINE.
The former will number two first class boats—the nicest and fastest on the river. They will be the McCLELLAN and NORTHERN BELLE. The first will be the Lightning Line, making the run from La Crosse to St. Paul in EIGHTEEN HOURS, and returning will leave here in the morning, and arrive at La Crosse in twelve hours time, to connect with the evening train, by which passengers will make close connection and reach Milwaukee in time for cars or boats on the Lake in TWENTY HOURS FROM ST. PAUL, and reach Chicago next morning, by Minnesota Junction or Milwaukee, in just TWENTY-FOUR HOURS FROM LEAVING ST. PAUL, and in time for close connection East! This will be twelve hours the quickest time between these three cities ever made! Nothing but passengers, the mails express matter, and express goods will be carried on these boats, which will be furnished in the best of style. Passengers will then have daylight to view the grand beauties of the river, and good sleeping cars from La Crosse to Chicago—a great item. Arrangements have also been perfected so that all the boats of the upper rivers, and all the stage lines will run in close connection
The other line will number three regular boats; the Keokuk, G. H. Wilson and Wenona, one of which will leave La Crosse daily on the arrival of the morning train from the East, connecting at all points north, and will also make close connections. The Favorite will run as a tri-weekly packet between St. Paul and Mankato, on the Minnesota river

NEWS ITEMS.

—Late advices inform us that a large portion of our forces in Arkansas are on their way via Cape Girardeau and Cairo to join Gen. Halleck.

—Between two and three thousand dollars have lately been contributed by the patriotic Germans of Cincinnati, for the care of sick and wounded soldiers.

—The noted coachman of Jeff. Davis, whose gossip from the Richmond White House was read with so much interest a short time ago, is now body servant to General McDowell. He is black as midnight, reads and writes readily, and the accounts he gave bore the most rigid examination.

—E. P. Christy, the originator of 'Christy's Minstrels," attempted suicide at his residence in New York. He threw himself from a second story window, and will not probably survive his injuries. He had been partially insane for some time. He is said to be worth $200,000, and is forty years of age.

—A very extensive boot and shoe manufactoring establishment at Lynn, Massachusetts, is now in the act of removing to Chicago. It employs some three hundred operatives, and will undoubtedly have a material influence on that trade in the West.

—The rebel flags which Captain Bailey brought up as trophies of the unparalleled engagement at New Orleans, with forts, fireships, shore batteries, rams, dams, chains, &c., were cut to pieces by enthusiastic members of Congress, and sent home to their constituents as "public documents."

—It is said that Captain Rodman is now at work on a cannon, the ball of which is to weigh 3,000 pounds. The gun itself will weigh somewhere in the neighborhood of two hundred tons. It is expected to carry its ball six or seven miles.

—A passenger to Europe writes on the 22d of April, on coming in sight of Britannia :—"We land at Liverpool this noon, at the end of our 13th day. The Irish and English shores in sight yesterday and today are a rich contrast in their rich green verdure and advanced cultivation, to those we left behind us in America, dotted even in New Jersey and on Long Island with snow, or the barrenness and deadness of winter. The season here seems like the last of our May."

—The long list of Brigadier Generals being confirmed from time to time, has given many the idea that the army is having quite a surplus crop of that article. As an offset to this idea, it is stated that nearly every brigade at the late battle of Pittsburg Landing was commanded by a senior Colonel. But few have an adequate idea of our immense army and the number of officers needed to lead its almost numberless divisions.

—Some three years ago, at an Anniversary of the American Tract Society, a mere proposition to issue a tract against the slave trade was met with a perfect storm of indignation, and every expression in any way derogatory of the divine character of the "patriarchial institution" was met with a storm of disapprobation. At a meeting of the same Society, at its Anniversary a few days ago, it took strong ground against Slavery : the drift of the speeches, without exception took that direction, and it ordered the publication of emancipation documents; took measures for "educating the contrabands," and seemed as a body to rejoice that the enormity of the rebellious institution had been uncovered.

"The world does move, though," and we would advise all radically disposed and impartially progressive invividuals to wait on the Lord and the tide of events. The good time coming may be even right unto their gates.

—A late refugee from Richmond reports Jeff. Davis and his Cabinet as very obstinate, but much dispirited by the late reverses. They now expect to surrender all of Virginia, and are moving the "government" and other valuables to Montgomery, where the bantling was conceived. The Treasury Department, Mr. What's-his-name the Secretary, takes with him in his hat. These things are going on quietly, Davis and a few of the leaders remaining in Richmond to keep up appearances and prevent a pell-mell stampede of the rebel army.

When Jeff. heard of the fall of New Orleans, he had a sensation as if lightning had struck him. It is said by the gentleman alluded to, that forgetting the pious terms of his proclamation, he indulged in a superabundance of expletives in regard to his officers in charge of that station, among the mildest of which were, "poltroons, traitors, knaves, cowards," &c.—by which it appears that he is being driven to tell the truth once in a while, which is an encouraging sign, even if his terms are a little tautological. New lines of defense are being fortified in the brains of the rebels, to which they intend to fall back.

This gentleman also represents that the rebels are becoming alarmed on account of the poor prospect they have for feeding their armies. In losing the States on the border, if cut off from Texas, there will be a famine in the cotton States before harvest. It does seem as if their health is in a very precarious condition, and that they don't feel very well themselves.

THE CONTRABANDS.

Our dispatches in yesterday's paper gave us the intelligence of Gen Hunter's course in the treatment of the slaves of South Carolina rebels, and we give today a more extended account of the matter by a correspondent at Port Royal. The proper disposition to be made of this class has been a very knotty question with our Generals, and with many of our politicians it has been only a labyrinth of perplexities. If Gen. Hunter has thus solved the difficult problem of "what to do with the contrabands," he will be entitled to the hearty thanks of the country, and can claim the fervent gratitude of a certain class of politicians who have had an immense amount of trouble in regard to that question : we fear, however, that this very class will have the ingratitude to withhold that gratitude from the General for helping them out of such a very puzzling quandary.

Gen. Jackson, it is true, found just what use to make of African muscle when the country was in danger, but he had a different idea of the enemy of treason, traitors and public enemies than many of the present day have, and he did not love slavery better than the good of the Republic. We have not felt like introducing needlessly any element in the present contest that could be a just cause for a division—an alienation of any of the truly loyal but it cannot fail to be seen that while many denounce the policy of Gen. Hunter, or the War Department—as the case may be—they have failed entirely to give the country any practical and humane policy to be adopted with the slaves of pronounced districts as our army advances into rebel territory. This question now must be met. We are not only to re establish the authority of the Constitution in the sections overrunning with treason, but it is made our duty to restore order and security there. It happens that the objectors are generally those who declaim against the expense of the war, and who are particularly indignant at the idea of "the government sustaining a lot of negroes;" this measure comes in good time to obviate these objections. The masters run away from the negroes and place the responsibility of their care and government upon our forces occupying the country; this policy governs them effectually, sustains them at a less cost than it would require to keep our own soldiers in their localities, relieves our troops of many burdens, exempts them from many diseases, and will make what would otherwise be a source of detriment and annoyance an element of strength—our army a self-recruiting, self-sustaining institution. We are of the opinion, however, that with no other argument in its favor, military necessity will require this as our armies advance, and shall think so until a better and more economical policy is given.

With this view we have been quite content to await the course of events, leaving it to the Government and military authorities to treat the case as a vigorous and humane policy would require.

Since writing the above the telegraph brings the proclamation of Gen. Hunter, giving freedom to the slaves in his military department. The policy which has been so much discussed is now to have a practical trial. It is said that a considerable amount of negro Zouave uniforms and other accoutrements have been forwarded by Secretary Stanton to anticipate the wants of Hunter's new recruits, and we may naturally expect quite a rush made for those dashing red pantaloons and gaudy coats by the freedom-loving blacks and if General Hunter should recruit his army faster and more economically in the territory of the enemy than has been done in the North, and they should make good soldiers, those who are for putting down this rebellion at all hazards, will have no cause for regret. Should one of our armies suffer a defeat by any mishap, it will take no time so make this measure popular with all classes but traitors.

REBEL PROPERTY DESTROYED.—We give below an estimate of the value of the various kinds of property which has been ruthlessly destroyed by the rebels since the commencement of the present war :

Cotton	$15,000,000
Sugar	8,000,000
Molasses	1,000,000
Farm products	2,000,000
Buildings	6,000,000
Bridges	7,000,000
Railroads	6,000,000
Railroad running stock	10,000,000
Vessels	5,000,000
Cargoes	5,000,000
Ordnance	2,000,000
Arms	1,000,000
Army stores	5,000,000
Ammunition	1,000,000
Camp equipage	2,000,000
Total	$70,000,000

—An exchange gives the following sketch of the newspapers published in New Orleans : "Six daily papers have survived the bad times which New Orleans has passed through, viz : the Picayune, Delta, True Delta, Crescent, Bulletin and Bee. Of these, the True Delta and Bee, (the latter half French and half English) have long manifested some regard for the old Union, and strangely enough these are owned and edited by natives of the South, while all the others, more rampant upon the subject of secession, are under the control of Northern born. The publisher of the Picayune, (Holbrook,) and its chief editor (Wilson,) are Massachusetts men ; another of the editors, (Otis,) is a Bostonian. Nixon, the publisher of the Crescent, is a New Jerseyan. The chief editor of the Bulletin, (Stephen F. Gay,) is from New Hampshire. The Delta is edited by Judge Walker, formerly of the Cincinnati Enquirer."

—The amount of rebel prisoners now in our hands is estimated at eighteen thousand.

LETTER FROM THE FOURTH REGIMENT.

PARIS LANDING, May 10th, 1862.

To the Editor of the St. Paul Press :

We have just returned from our first campaign. At Fort Henry we learned that there were in the immediate neighborhood some 1,500 to 2,000 cavalry of the rebels. They had just cut off 120 of the Curtis Horse, killing ten and taking eighty prisoners. Major Scheffer was mortally wounded and since died. Capt. Von Minden is wounded in the head and a prisoner. His company, or the larger portion of it, was in the captured battalion. The fate of individuals of the company is of course unknown. A number of the command made their way to Paducah, and will be in soon. Capt. Shelley's company is on the other side of the river, at Fort Henry, and along the telegraph line. We were stopped in the hope of being able to capture or scatter this regiment of rebels, under Col. Van Horn. At a half hour's warning we left the boat, packed our own haversacks with what we could lay hands on, took our blankets, and were off a little before sundown Tuesday evening—marched that night about ten miles, passed the cavalry camp, called after its commander Camp Lowe—a beautiful site they have chosen. Their white tents, just in the edge of a beautiful grove, on the brow of a little hill, were picturesque objects as we approached them by moonlight. Our column halted a few minutes, while the cavalry formed at the head, and on we marched through the woods, under the grand leafy trees, glorified by the moonlight, till we came to the field in which we were to bivouack—a stubble field—with a farm house near. We found a corn crib to furnish our horses ; took a "bite" from our haversacks, and slept under heaven's own curtains, glorious and grand—but they won't turn dew. The ground here exhales moisture, and the air distils it about equally. My rubber blanket, which I spread on the ground to sleep on, was as wet upon the under side as my woolen ones were upon the upper. I slept by the same little tree with my faithful horse, my head on the saddle and horse close the other side. We slept well, albeit the night, (as they all have been,) was very cold. Before day we were all up, and after such lunch as we could make, were on our march again for Paris, a town nearly twenty-five miles distant, thoroughly secesh, but awed into hypocritical Unionism of late.

Near it the Curtis Horse had a successful fight months ago with a greatly superior force of the enemy, routed and took many of them prisoners. Near it, also, this last command was lost, and by the aid of the treacherous wretches who take oath of allegiance and then stand as minute men to pounce upon those of our men who may be so detached as to fall into their power. They convey to the guerilla bands of the enemy every movement and position of our cavalry and their exact force, and are utterly ignorant when our forces want information of the enemy. A little salutary hanging of the perjurers would be the best possible military move. This is just the character of the whole section here. There are of course a few honorable exceptions. The women are out spoken and bitter enough.

The country is pleasantly broken and thoroughly wooded. The buildings and farms present the usual appearance of shiftless unthrift ; the towns dilapidated and beautifully situated—the stores entirely stripped, only abounding in whisky. Coffee one dollar per pound, and salt not to be had. Silver and gold, like Peter, every man can say, "I have none."

But to the march. The sun crept on up the heavens, and we found the heat sweltering. On we went in heat and dust, with the cavalry in advance, till the boots began to pinch and the foot to blister, when we halted for a little rest near a wood. Started on in the hottest kind of heat, dressed all in wool, with blankets on the men's backs, and many of them lugging their steel vests. Then came the tug of war. We can hardly have a tougher march than that of Wednesday afternoon. The men's feet were covered covered with blisters, sweat and dust making them look like "mud sills" sure enough. Steel vests began to be hung up on the trees beside the road, and men began to lag and scatter, and drop down in the shade. Soldiering seemed anything but fun.

We filled ambulances and what wagons we had. Field and staff dismounted, and gave their horses to the worst off of the men—some of them shouldered muskets and blankets, and so we made our second bivouac near Paris, in a beautiful wood. Here we expected attack, as it was rumored that the rebels had got a thousand infantry from Memphis—Paris and Memphis are connected by railroad. The battery of the cavalry was planted so as to command the approach from Paris, pickets set, and so we slept, expecting to be waked by the long roll, and well enough satisfied at that. Here orders came from Halleck to return to the river immediately—so by daylight we were up and headed back, much to the disappointment and chagrin of even the sorest of our men, for the enemy was within six miles of us.

But there was no alternative. We made but a short march, however, and halted for the day seven miles from our last camping ground ; met our provision train ; spent the afternoon and night comfortably, still hoping the enemy might be bold enough to attack us, and came in at mid afternoon yesterday in very good condition. We are toughened now and able to make very good marching time. The expedition has done us good. We are here waiting transportation to Hamburg, just above Pittsburg Landing, for Pope's division of Halleck's army, as at first ordered.

Of our Minnesota Cavalry, we have seen Capt. Shelley, Adj. McGeorge, looking better than even of old in St. Paul ; Lieutenant Neely, sound and in good spirits ; the Second Lieutenant of Von Minden's Company, with some twisted German name, and others whom I do not recollect.

We are touted here upon the banks of the Tennessee, whose waters are rapidly falling. To make our return transportation we shall have to get to the Mississippi.

I will write again, perhaps from the main army.

Yours in great haste and confusion.

—We notice in some of our exchanges an improper out-cropping of State pride, manifested in drawing invidious distinctions between the relative merits of troops from the different States. All have a right to be proud of the heroic valor displayed by troops from individual States, but it should be remembered that the grand army belongs to all of the loyal States—a disparagement of any portion is a disparagement of our country's troops. Equally at fault are some journalists in assuming from the mortality lists resulting from battles, that certain troops fought much more bravely because they had more killed and wounded. A great destruction of life may be the result of bad leadership and many other causes with which bravery and endurance have nothing to do.

—By the late arrival from Europe we have the following : The Paris correspondent of the Independence Belge asserts in the most positive manner, that the project of intervention by France and England in the affairs of America has been confirmed. The South will be required to guarantee the emancipation of her slaves.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

MUSIC TEACHER.—See advertisement of Miss Harriet S. Dennett.

THE fur crop of this season is beginning to be realized in market now. We noticed a fine lot from the vicinity of Fort Ridgley brought into town yesterday.

A BLUNDER.—We made a choice blunder in a local item, in placing Fort Garry, instead of Georgetown, as the point to be visited by paymaster Smith.

PLYMOUTH CHURCH.—The Rev. Silas Hawley, from Central New York, will occupy the pulpit in this Church during the ensuing summer. He is expected to arrive so as to preach on Sunday morning.

POLICE.—Mayor Prince has appointed John Sheffer one of the night Police vice M. Miller resigned.

Several cases were on the docket of the Police Court for trial yesterday, but were postponed on account of the illness of Justice Gibbs.

DISTRICT COURT.—This Court finally sent the Jury out yesterday afternoon in the case of William James, who has been on trial for two days past. It will be recollected he is one of the three on trial for robbing some drovers last season. The Jury brought in a verdict of guilty. The trial of his accomplices will commence to-day.

BOOTS AND SHOES.—We invite the attention of any in the city or country in want of anything in the boot and shoe line to Mr Kilpatrick's extensive establishment—an advertisement of which will be seen in another column. If honorable dealing, ample assortment and low prices will suit customers we are assured they can there be gratified.

PRAIRIE FIRES these days are a terror to the farmers. We learn that nearly all the fences in the immediate vicinity of Lake Como were burned yesterday. The nice cottage of J. R. Mason, near the Lake, would have shared the same fate had he not been prudent and had his lands plowed around the residence before the season of these annual fires. A vast amount of property, we feel assured, would be saved by a little timely plowing.

M. N. KELLOGG, corner of Third and Wabasha streets, near the Bridge, has just received a splendid stock of new goods in his line, consisting of fresh fruits, children' cabs—large variety—crackers, maple sugar, large stock of baskets, and, he says, the best cigars in the city. Our friends would do well to call on Kellogg, as they cannot fail to find a fine assortment at reasonable prices.

RIVER ITEMS.—The river at this point is falling slowly. In the twenty-four hours ending at six o'clock last night, the river receded two inches.

The weather yesterday was warm and clear.

The upper Mississippi and Minnesota rivers are reported again falling slowly.

The arrivals yesterday were the Northern Light, Moses McLellan, Itasca, Clara Hine, Jeannette Roberts, Antelope, and Albany.

The departures were the Keokuk, War Eagle, Florence, Clara Hine, and Antelope.

The Jeannette Roberts arrived at twelve o'clock from Mankato, bringing down 250 barrels of pork, 130 casks of hams and shoulders, 70 barrels of lard, and 11,000 sacks of grain, shipped principally from South Bend and St. Peter. She leaves for New Ulm at four o'clock P. M.

The regular packets leaving for down river this morning, are the Northern Light and Moses McLellan. The McLellan, Capt. Martin, is the La Crosse Railroad packet at 8 o'clock. John Cochran is her clerk.

The Northern Light will depart for Prairie du Chien and Dunleith at 8 A. M., and will make her railroad connections without fail.

The Albany will leave for Mankato at 2 P. M.

The Itasca arrived last night at 9 o'clock, and will leave for the Falls this morning at 8 o'clock. She is the Prairie du Chien packet to-morrow morning at 8 A. M.

BY TELEGRAPH TO ST. PAUL.

WINSLOW'S LINE.

Proclamation of Gen. Hunter.

FREEDOM TO THE SLAVES.

NEW YORK, May 10.

The following is Gen. Hunter's proclamation before alluded to:

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH, HILTON HEAD, May 9.

GENERAL ORDER No. 11.

The States of Georgia, Florida, and South Carolina, comprising the military Department of the South, having deliberately declared themselves no longer under the protection of the United States of America, and having taken arms against said United States, it became a military necessity to declare martial law. This was accordingly done on the 25th day of April, 1862. Slavery and martial law in a free country are altogether incompatible. THE PERSONS IN THOSE STATES, GEORGIA, FLORIDA AND SOUTH CAROLINA HERETOFORE HELD AS SLAVES, ARE THEREFORE DECLARED FOREVER FREE.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 15.

MARYLAND SLAVES SEEKING FREEDOM

[Tribune's dispatch.]—Marylanders say that a few days ago one thousand slaves, as if by a preconcerted movement, simultaneously left kind masters and happy homes in Prince George Co., Maryland, and came to the District of Columbia, where they still are.

THE HOMESTEAD BILL.

The provisions of the Homestead bill, as agreed upon by the committee of conference are extended to all in the military or naval service of the United States, whether naturalized or not ; whether 21 years of age or not. Disloyal prisoners are precluded from availing themselves of it. Forty-eighty, one hundred and twenty or one hundred and sixty acres can be located, and the settler of a tract of 40 acres bordering on government land can take enough to complete his quarter section.

A dispatch from Fredericksburg says a large iron foundry which, until the arrival of the national army at that place, was used in casting shot and shells and in rifling cannon for the rebels, was on Wednesday taken possession of by an officer of General McDowell's staff. Yankee mechanics were immediately set to work in the national service, and are producing the best specimens of workmanship.

THE TAX BILL—SENATOR SIMMONS' SUBSTITUTE.

[Special to Herald.]—The impression is gaining ground that Mr. Simmons' schedule of a tax bill will be substituted by the Senate for the House bill. It is stated that, although the finance committee agreed to report the House tax bill, a majority of the committee is opposed to it. Mr. Simmons' bill preserves the machinery of the House bill but proposes to raise $266,000 000 of revenue, $100,000,000 to be raised from duties on imports, $100,000,000 from a tax of one and one half per cent. on all sales, and the balance from a tax on spirits, malt liquors, playing cards, tobacco, oils and licenses. They are the only articles specifically taxed. It is generally believed that this programme for revenue will prevail.

CONSTERNATION IN WESTERN VIRGINIA—REBEL MARAUDERS.

WASHINGTON, MAY 16.

The Herald's special dispatch says the Hon. Jacob B. Blair, of Western Virginia, received this morning the following startling communications from one of his constituents :

PARKERSBURG, May 10.—We are all in a great state of excitement here. The town of Burning Springs, in West county, was burned yesterday afternoon by the Morcassier Rangers. Also, Palestine. Everything at the former place was destroyed. This town is full of fugitives.

It is not known who have been killed, though many are missing. Charley Chattuck was shot at twice across the river.

The last seen of the Morcassiers by fugitives here, they were taking the goods out of the boats in the river.

It is not known what has become of the small military force in that region. The number of Morcassiers is not known, though many fix it at 600. Where the devil did they come from? The town of Elizabeth is deserted by this time, probably burned. Some consider this place in imminent danger. They have but one company of Colliers here. The citizens would have turned out to a considerable extent if they only had arms.

Military Governor of South Carolina.

NEW YORK, May 16.

Among the passengers by the steamer Oriental, which sailed yesterday for Port Royal, was Capt. Rufus Saxton, U. S. A., now Brigadier General of Volunteers, the new Military Governor of South Carolina, and the Department South, which includes the whole district of General Hunter's command.

Remarkable Southern Admissions.

NEW YORK, May 16.

The Herald publishes an article from the Charleston Courier of an extraordinary and most significant character, admitting the hopelessness of the rebel cause, and acknowledging that the misfortunes which have befallen the rebellious States, are not more than their iniquities deserve.

THE NAVAL BATTLE AT FORT PILLOW.

THE INJURIES OF THE FEDERAL FLEET.

Special dispatch to the Chicago Times.

FORT PILLOW, May 11—10 A. M.—It has been ascertained beyond a doubt that Hollins was in command of the rebel fleet during the engagement of yesterday morning. The rams of the enemy, of which there were three, were very saucy, and thought to run our boats down with the utmost ease. The Louisiana attacked the Cincinnati, and struck her twice before the latter could get into position to avoid her. She then attempted to get her steam apparatus in order, when it exploded, badly scalding a number of her crew. The Cincinnati's steam battery was then brought to bear upon her, and did most excellent execution, compelling the ram to withdraw. The Cincinnati was slightly damaged, but by running into shoal water was kept afloat till her leak was repaired.

The rams made two attempts to run the flag-ship Benton down, but were avoided in both instances.

Our guns made perfect breaches clean through the rebel boats wherever they struck, riddling them sadly.

In addition to the casualities already reported, I have to mention the first master of the Cincinnati, who was struck by a musket ball in his thigh. His wound is not serious.

This makes four in all as the total of our casualties.

The rebel rams carried each two heavy rifled guns, one fore and the other aft. They, however, relied more on their battering qualities. Of the rebel boats which were blown up, one was destroyed by a shot striking her boilers, causing an explosion. Both boats were completely destroyed, the wrecks catching fire and burning to the water's edge.

One fact is patent, and that is, that the rebel fleet of the Mississippi is completely destroyed. Those that succeeded in getting back to the fort were so badly crippled as to be wholly unfit for further duty at present. Before they can be repaired the whole Mississippi will again be ours. There seems to be no difficulty in the way of our taking Fort Pillow, and probably without any loss of life.

I am not at liberty to speak of the future plans of Capt. Davis, but they will develop themselves rapidly.

This victory will create a more intense furore for iron-clad vessels than did the Monitor and Merrimac affair. It was a desperate engagement, the enemy knowing their own strength, as well as that and the position of the fleet with which they had to contend, and it was brought on by their own invitation.

AN END OF THE BLOCKADE—SOUTHERN COTTON PORTS TO BE OPENED JUNE 1.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The President has issued a proclamation declaring that the blockade of the ports of Beaufort, Port Royal and New Orleans shall so far cease and determine from and after the 1st of June next, that commercial intercourse with those ports, except as to persons and things, and information contraband of war, may from that time be carried on, subject to the laws of the United States and to the limitations, and in pursuance of the regulations which are prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

The new secession plot to induce the intervention of the powers of Western Europe, on the ground of an exhaustion of cotton, which comes to light in this country by the arrival of the Etna, is felicitously met by the President's proclamation announcing the opening of New Orleans and other cotton ports on the 1st of June. Thus fails the second grand conspiracy abroad.

THE AFFAIR NEAR FARMINGTON

Special dispatch to the Chicago Tribune.

CAIRO, May 12—An important reconnoissance was made from the village of Farmington, Thursday last, consisting of Gen. Stanley's and Gen. Paine's divisions, with a section of artillery. Gen. Hamilton's division remained behind as reserve. Our forces advanced steadily. Skirmishers were thrown out and pickets driven in.

At 10 o'clock we reached a low strip of land two miles this side of Corinth. This was formerly bridged, but the rebels had destroyed it to prevent or delay our approach. For this reason our artillery could not be passed, and it was decided to cross the swamp and attack the enemy, who were posted in considerable force on the other side, with cavalry and infantry. This was done, and after infinite difficulty our troops passed through.

They had hardly done this when a rebel battery opened with grape and canister. The enemy were plainly in sight, apparently 6,000 strong. As the enemy had other support, far outnumbering ours, and as it was not our policy to bring on a general engagement, our forces retreated. The main object of the reconnoissance has determined the fact that the enemy still hold Corinth. This reconnoissance fell back this side of Farmington, and encamped for the night.

Friday morning they were surprised and attacked by a force of the enemy, estimated between 15,000 and 20,000. This was so suddenly done that as the Forty-Second and Forty-First Illinois were thrown out as skirmishers, the enemy's forces outflanked them so completely that they were compelled to retreat precipitately, leaving baggage, knapsacks, and camp equipage to fall into the enemy's hands. The loss of the Forty-First and Forty-Second is supposed to exceed seventy killed and woundad. None of the officers were injured.

FROM FREMONT AND M'DOWELL.

NEW YORK, May 14—The celebrated Bonner team trotted two miles on the Fashion Course yesterday in five minutes and five and a quarter seconds, Bonner driving himself. This is said to be seventeen and three quarter seconds quicker than the same distance was ever before done.

The Times' correspondence from Franklin, via Green Spring and Baltimore, 13th, says : General Fremont arrived here today at the head of his army, having come by forced marches to the relief of Schenck and Milroy. He immediately reviewed the regiments stationed here, and rode a little beyond the town. The enemy decamped last night, and are retreating.

In the late battle at McDowell our loss was thirty killed and about two hundred wounded—many but slightly.

The troops are all in high spirits and full of expectation.

ATLANTIC AND GREAT WESTERN RAILROAD.

From the N. Y. Tribune, 10th.

One of the most important enterprises, to the prosperity of this city, ever projected, is now in a fair way to be carried rapidly forward to a successful completion. The difficulties, originating partly with the Trent affair, to the pushing forward of the Atlantic and Great Western Railroad have been removed, and the contractors are prepared to build it as rapidly as labor can be accumulated for that purpose. Arrangements have been made to put at once six thousand men at work upon the track, and the Chief Engineer, Mr. T. W. Kennard of London, has purchased during the past two weeks all the equipment needed for working the road, including thirty locomotives. The road at present is completed and in operation from Salamanca the junction with the Erie Road, 46 miles from Dunkirk to Corry on the Erie and Sunbury Road. It there reaches the oil regions, and the freight on oil alone, brought twenty five miles to the depot on wagons, is now $5,700 per week. When the branch is completed from Corry to Titusville, the depot of the oil region, this amount it is believed will be increased to $15,000 per week. The road will reach Meadville by the 1st of July, and Akron, Ohio, by the 1st of October, making two hundred miles from the Erie Junction. For the line to Akron the money and materials have all been provided. Beyond this, the road will be extended to Dayton, Ohio, and from Dayton to Cincinnati an arrangement has been made with the Dayton and Cincinnati road to lay a third rail. At Cincinnati, the Great Western connects with the Ohio and Mississippi Road, which is of six-feet guage. Thus, when the whole line is finished, which will probably be within two years, New York will possess a new six feet guage connection by rail direct with St. Louis, by which the products of the West, loaded at St. Louis, can be transported without breaking bulk to the Long Dock at Hoboken, and discharged into vessels for shipment to Europe. At Warren or Ravenna a connect on will be made with Cleveland, which will tap the Western traffic at that point, and all along the line lateral feeders are already built, which will swell the business of the Atlantic and Great Western. The principal parties in this enterprise are the great banker Salamanca of Madrid, the Duke de Rianzares, husband of the Queen Dowager of Spain; Messrs. Hayward, Kennard & Co. of London, James McHenry of Liverpool, Sir Morton Peto, M. P., and Ed. Betts of London, and Messrs. Samuel Hallett & Co. of New York. The Chief Engineer of the work is T. W. Kennard Esq., of London. The company are very fortunate in their American connection. Messrs. Samuel Hallett & Co. are a vigorous and enterprising firm, and wield great money facilities. Mr. Hallett has been connected with this project from its inception, and a large portion of the success it has met with is due to his personal exertions. To the Erie Road, this new feeder, structhing its arms across half a continent, to seize the traffic of the West and throw it into the lap of New York, will prove of incalculable value. When the line is completed to St. Louis, we shall not be surprised to see the Erie Road earning ten or twelve millions of dollars per annum.

ARMING THE NEGROES.

The Movement in General Hunter's Department—The Condition of the Contrabands at Fortress Monroe.

The Port Royal correspondent of the New York Times writes as follows:

In a letter from Port Royal, written some weeks ago, I stated that a negro preacher at that place named Abram Murchisan, possessing great influence among the blacks, had been summoned before General Hunter, who desired to obtain from him some important information. One of the subjects on which he was questioned was the feeling of the blacks with regard to military organization. The conversation was deemed of sufficient importance by General Hunter to warrant further proceedings, and Abram was directed to call a meeting of all the male blacks at Hilton Head, with a view of ascertaining their disposition and desires.

The meeting was held on the evening of Monday, April 7th. The object was unknown to the negroes themselves; they were only aware that it was one that closely touched their interests. The call and proceedings were conducted with the utmost secrecy. Only two white men were present—Mr. Lee, superintendent of the negroes employed at Hilton Head, and Mr. Wilson, head carpenter for the Government. The most rigid guard was instituted to exclude those whose presence was not desired, and to prevent eavesdropping on the part of the over-curious.

The large room used for negro meetings was crowded by the expectant audience. The invitation had been extended only to males—hence, no women were present. Murchison made a short address to his brethren, in which he depicted, with a great deal of clearness and force, their condition and relations to the government, and the obligations and interests that should impel them to its support. At times his language rose to eloquence, and he was listened to with the most breathless interest, and it was evident that every word found a response in the sympathies of his hearers. After stating that it was in contemplation by the government to offer them the means and opportunity of military organization, and after candidly explaining the labors and hardships and dangers, as well as the advantages of soldier life, the speaker desired all who were willing to take up arms in defence of the government and themselves, to rise. Every man sprang to his feet in an instant.

Mr. Lee and Mr. Wilson followed the remarks of Abram, while others designed to enlighten the negroes in regard to the intentions of the Government. It was impressed upon them that they were not in the slightest degree to be coerced into this military measure. All who choose to enroll themselves must do so voluntarily and with a full knowledge of the consequences. Each man who chose was permitted to come forward and have his name entered on the list as a volunteer soldier, in case the Government chooses to accept his services. Every man in the room came forward. A few old men and boys were rejected on the ground of age, and the refusal seemed to inspire them with the most genuine regret.

They were told that the Government had promised arms and equipment, and urged to give the matter the most serious reflection. With a caution against public conversation on the subject, the meeting was dismissed, and each one left, all excited to enthusiasm, and apparently rejoicing in the opportunity that was about to be realized of exercising the right of defence of himself and his family, and of offering his life in defence of the Government whose protection he enjoyed.

The number enrolled that evening was one hundred and five. During the next day many others, who have not been present, came forward and gave in their names swelling the list to about one hundred and thirty. During the next few days it reached the number of one hundred and fifty. This, I learn, embraces nearly or quite all the able bodied negroes employed at that point. There has been no reaction—no symptom of regret. The action of the negroes seemed based upon feelings as genuine and convictions as firm as those which instigate white men in similar circumstances. If the black men of Hilton Head are a fair index to the whole population of the plantations (and I see no reason to doubt it), history has never furnished an instance of more conspicuous and unanimous patriotism. Neither Greeks nor Switzers, nor Highland Scots, nor Yankees ever assumed the responsibilities of arms with more alacrity and cheerfulness.

But will they fight? Volunteering is one thing—standing fire another. Of course this question can only be answered by the event. Those, however, who have seen them most, and who know them best, are confident of their courage. Instances have been named to me of the most exemplary conduct in action on the part of some of the South Carolina negroes heretofore employed by us. The pilot Isaacs, who guided Commander Stevens and his boats in the affair at Port Royal Ferry, was under fire, and endured it like a veteran. Both among the Confederates and our own forces have been opportunities for testing the quality of physical courage in the negro, which have generally resulted in his favor. Certainly, from all we know, we have no right to doubt that he will fight in a cause that impels him to volunteer. To pronounce a man a coward in advance, after he has testified his willingness to incur danger, and before he has been tried, would be ungenerous and unreasonable.

At all events, if the announcement is true concerning the arms and equipments to be sent to Gen. Hunter for the use of the negroes, we shall soon see another principle demonstrated—another fact tested—by that sugacious and fearless soldier. And then, if the experiment proves a success, the question how to make North Carolina again loyal will have been answered. We shall at once find her soil occupied by a friendly people, outnumbering the rebels, and prepared to hold it for the Government by the strong hand we have armed. Truly, to see South Carolina, the very seat of disloyalty, garrisoned, and guarded by those who so lately were slaves to the lash and the chain—to see a black police maintaining order where so lately it was a crime for a negro to move but by a white man's command; and to see all this done under authority of Government—unattended by disorder, unaccompanied by outrage—would be an example of retributive justice unmixed with vengeance, such as history has never yet recorded. And what region so appropriate for the sublime and beneficent experiment as the State of South Carolina?—and what soil so fit for the grave of slavery as that where treason was born, nursed and reared to its dreadful maturity?

MR. RUSSELL OF THE LONDON TIMES.

The editor of the Springfield Republican went out to Europe in the same ship with the man our western papers call "Bull Run Russell." In writing back to his paper he gives us his impressions in regard to Mr. Russell and the "misunderstanding" between him and the Secretary of War, which we reproduce. The editor having been called to account and brought to Washington for publishing intelligence the publication of which was interdicted by the Government, of course speaks somewhat feelingly in regard to Stanton's treatment of the press:

The most notable of our passengers is Mr. Russell, the unfortunate correspondent of the London Times; unfortunate, because his American expedition did not do justice to himself, and because it was ended by the ungracious act of Secretary Stanton just when it was of the first importance to Mr. Russell's reputation that it should be continued. He himself must feel all this; but his good nature is imperturable, and he is neither cynical nor sore towards America or Americans. The way of his being sent back, after having started to join Gen. McClellan's onward to Richmond expedition, was certainly quite aggravating, and can only be accounted for by supposing that our energetic and absorbing Secretary sought to snub both the correspondent and the General at one blow. Mr. Russell had been invited by Gen. McClellan to accompany the expedition; the Secretary had consented to the arrangement as one within the Government's authority, and had even a week before given Mr. Russell and an accompanying party of British officers a preliminary pass. They were all, with baggage and horses, on board the steamboat to go down the Potomac, and steam was up for starting, when there came an order from the Secretary excluding Mr. Russell, but allowing the rest to go on. No explanation was offered, nor would any be given upon request; only the President would reply to appeals, and he that, though he regretted the disappointment and wished it were otherwise, he did not think it right to overrule the Secretary in a matter which the latter considered of so much public importance as he did this. So British officers, sent over to fight us, and minister, despising us and our institutions, were freely permitted to gratify an idle curiosity, and observe in detail all our operations in the field, while the representative of the British newspaper, after being allowed to witness all our failures, to see our poverty of action in contrast with our boasted words, was denied the first real opportunity that had occurred to him, of witnessing our actual ability and success in the field, and of proving that he could do as full justice to the courage and discipline of our troops in April, as he had done to their cowardice at Bull Run in July. It is this that disappoints Mr. Russell—he desired this opportunity before closing his American campaign; and he should have had it. Our generosity, our justice to him, either began too early, or ended too soon. We made asses of ourselves in treating him better at first that we treated our leading journalists; we made boors of ourselves in reversing the order at the moment when our pride, our certainty of success, our consistency and our honor should have led us to do otherwise. But Mr. Stanton is one of the most agonistic of men; he is a natural sensationist; and though he pushes on the column with a spirit that delights Americans, he is doing it quite often at the expense of justice to individuals and classes, and to no class oftener or more rudely than to the press.

Mr. Russell carries home with him full faith in the triumph of the federal arms, and full faith, also, in the greatness of an American nation, in which the dominant ideas and interests of the free States shall rule. But he does not see so clearly, as we of the North think we do, the restoration of the old Union through the willing submission and co-operation of the southern people. Nor does he see so possible or probable—as we do, or think we do—the maintenance of the pure Republican system, with such anomalies threatening it as the holding in military subjection a third of the people and territory of the nation, and the continuance of a standing army of from a quarter to half a million. This is all very natural and excusable; he does not believe in republics, and we do. The future is to decide between us—between a military dictatorship, followed by some sort of limited monarchy, and the perpetuation and enlargement of the American idea under a re organization, with possible re-codifications, of our present system. There is no need for us to quarrel with our British friends here, for the problem is of uncertain solution. The American republic has already stood a shock and achieved results that few could have believed possible ten years ago; she surely is as likely to work herself clear of the present entanglements and burdens, as she is to founder, and come out at the opposite extreme.

PROGRESS OF IDEAS IN TENNESSEE.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, writing from Nashville on the 7th, says:

Politics, they say, make strange bed fellows, and it is very true in this case. There are being two parties—antagonistic—rapidly formed of old Whig and Democratic material, and fast resolving themselves into unconditional Union and modified Secesh in the shape of States' Right men. The Whig ashes have formed the first, and the Democratic carcass the latter. But as leader of the first—the Union party of old line Whigs—strange to say we have Andy Johnson, the terror of Whigs—the inveterate enemy of the very politicians—Wm. and Jordan Stokes, Gov. Campbell, Bailie Peyton, &c—now following him, and strange to say the mass of his followers—the men who now swear by him, and cling to and support him—are the very men who were Johnson's worst political enemies. And his opponents—why his old friends—the old Democratic party in Middle Tennessee, and bitterer political foes never existed in any State. The entire support which Gen. Johnson has received has been from the Whig party, while his opposition comes from the Democratic party.

Much appears to have been accomplished. The effort is visible even here. Meetings have taken place which have proved highly satisfactory, and a spirit has been evinced which is not likely to die out or remain barren. It is the same spirit which was so long smothered by the defiant and powerful treason of the past, and it has broken out into a resistless flame. Men of influence are speaking out, confident of security in doing so, and the people are gradually giving their hearty support—a hearty co-operation with Governor Johnson has assured the people that a restoration of the State to the Union is but a work of time—time being the only requisite wanting—time which will serve to heal up wounds—time in which sorrows, and hate, and chagrin may be forgotten—time, in which high old secessionists can hunt an easy spot to fall on.

The secessionists begin to admit that the cause of Southern Independence is dead, but they claim that it was a just cause and a righteous one—but we have conquered and subjugated them, they say, and they will have to bear their slavery with the best grace they can. Straws show which way the wind blows. Newsboys won't take shinplas ers, and I had yesterday to give away two I had, to keep them from wearing out in my pocket. On the desk of the St. Cloud Hotel is a notice to the effect that "No Southern money is taken in payment of bills." I bought an omnibus ticket from the Edgefield cars to the city yesterday and thought to get rid of a Bank of Tennessee bill I had. Fifty cents was the charge—three-quarters of a mile is the distance—and it must be paid in silver or its equivalent. I asked what was the equivalent?

"Northern money," was the reply.

I tendered a Burlington, N. J. bill—a good ways from home—I got half a dollar in change. But I can't get rid of my one dollar Tennessee note. Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana bills go down without the least effort. "Green backs" are preferred to gold, because easier to handle. I passed some of the latter in Pulaski, Athens and Decatur, Ala., a short time since, and found the people took them without much difficulty—at the latter place we were on the eve of departure, and the bridge was burned an hour or two after the bill was passed. At the same place and time Confederate Scrip was found in plenty, and passed currently.

The city was full of cotton buyers. I understand that large quantities are being bought in the region of which Gen. Mitchell is master. The price paid is 9c in Confederate Scrip. In three weeks it can be got out by rail. Gen. Mitchell will have the Tennessee and Alabama and Memphis and Charleston railroads open from Nashville to Bridgeport, an achievement that ought to decide anew his right to a double starred pusiant. A great many cotton purchasers are settling worthless debts of the planters by taking the cotton at 8 and 9c. The government is in possession of about 5,000 bales in and about Huntsville. This General Mitchell proposes to build pontoon bridges of. The rebels tried to build batteries of it, but General Mitchell puts it to better use. His pontoon across Widow or Muddy Creek was a triumph of ingenuity. Mechanical genius is not confined to our generals alone, however. The engineers running the trains on Gen. Mitchell's new line, late Memphis and Charleston, are all soldiers. A contraband made a significant observation to me on that subject a short time since. He says "dat he tinks you all folks is much smarter dan de Secesh soldiers war. When eber anyting broke dey jis lef it go—tumble de broken locomotives down de bank and let 'im be dar—but you all folks know how to fix 'em jis as well as anybody."

And I thought—alas! for the departed glory of the Southern Chivalry. Harshly criticised by a slave because they couldn't run a locomotive or mend a broken piece of machinery.

THE first conversion of demand notes into five year six per cent. bonds, was made yesterday. It is a noticeable event, and will make an era in our financial history. Should the war continue successfully, and the monetary inflation continue, we may soon expect to see a rapid funding of the floating debt of the Government in this way. Of course the notes returned to the Government for bonds will be paid out again, so there is no danger of a sudden contraction of the currency by the too hasty retiring of the circulating medium. Should the entire unfunded debt of the country be taken up in this way, it would be the most remarkable financial feat in history.—World.

MAY.—DYSPEPSIA.—This is a very distressing complaint, and gives the patient more suffering than almost any other disease. In fact, it is a combination of many complaints in one. The symptoms are numerous, and of the nature of almost all other complaints combined. From this fact arise the very many cases where this disease is mistaken for some other and so improperly treated. The first symptoms, indigestion, flatulency, loss of appetite, heartburn, headache etc., if neglected, almost always awaken some dormant disease, and send the poor sufferer to a premature grave. What you must first do is to cleanse the blood and regulate the bowels—do this with the "Mountain Herb Pills," and you can bid defiance to dyspepsia.

CASH CAPITAL.....$100,000
NETT SURPLUS..... 129,000

DIVIDENDS ON CAPITAL LIMITED BY ITS CHARTER TO 7 PER CENT PER CENT PER ANNUM —THE ENTIRE PROFITS GO TO THE POLICY HOLDERS.

This Society was organized in the year 1859, with a cash capital of $100,000 deposited irrevocably with the Insurance Department of the State of New York, in U. S. bonds, on which it allows but 7 per cent. per annum to the stockholders, and the entire profits of the business is shared by the policy holders. The nett profits in two years amounts to $129,000, which shows an unparalleled success in the history of Life Insurance. Its operations are managed by a Board of Directors composed of the ablest business men of the country and its business is conducted entirely on the cash plan. Dividends to the policy holders will be made every five years, and no Company in the country offers equal advantages to its dealers.

The Old Established

CROCKERY HOUSE

OF

R. MARVIN,

SENDS GREETING TO HIS CUSTOMERS IN MINNESOTA, IN DAKOTA TERRITORY, AND BEYOND THE BRITISH LINE.

That being one of the Oldest Business Houses in the State, (the present being the eleventh year of its existence,) R. MARVIN feels confident that he need not urge its claims on the public patronage. The extent of country over which its business has spread is the best proof that its claims are not unrecognized. The unwavering determination which he has felt since the crisis, and in the hardest times, to maintain his business and place it on a par with similar establishments in the largest cities of the West, have been so fully appreciated by the merchants of the State, that he feels bound to redouble his efforts, not only for the benefit of his business, but for the pride he feels in his adopted city.

Mr. R. would call on the citizens of St. Paul, and especially the old residents who remember "the day of small things," not to forget that he still has a

Gen Butler Commences Operations.

HIS PROCLAMATION TO THE PEOPLE OF NEW ORLEANS.

HIS MILITARY GOVERNORSHIP HANDSOMELY BEGUN.

The New Orleans True Delta of Saturday morning, May 3d, contains the following proclamation of Gen. Butler, on the occasion of assuming control as military Governor of that city. It will be found sufficiently pungent:

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE GULF, NEW ORLEANS, May 1, 1862.

The city of New Orleans and its environs, with all its interior and exterior defenses, having been surrendered to the combined naval and land forces of the United States, and having been evacuated by the rebel forces in whose possession they lately were, and being now in occupation of the forces of the United States, who have come to restore order, maintain public tranquility, enforce peace and quiet under the laws and Constitution of the United States, the Major General commanding the forces of the United States in the Department of the Gulf hereby makes known and proclaims the object and purposes of the Government of the United States in thus taking possession of the city of New Orleans and the State of Louisiana, and the rules and regulations by which the laws of the United States will be for the present, and during a state of war, enforced and maintained for the plain guidance of all good citizens of the United States, as well as others who may heretofore have been in rebellion against their authority.

Thrice, before, has the city of New Orleans been rescued from the hands of a foreign Government, and still more calamitous domestic insurrection, by the money and arms of the United States. It has of late been under the military control of the rebel forces, claiming to be the peculiar friends of its citizens; and at each time, in the judgment of the commander of the military forces holding it, it has been found necessary to preserve order and maintain quiet by the administration of the law martial. Even during the interim from its evacuation by the rebel soldiers, and its actual possession by the soldiers of the United States, the civil authorities of the city have found it necessary to call for the intervention of an armed body known as the "European Legion" to preserve tranquility. The commanding General, therefore, will cause the city to be governed until the restoration of municipal authority, and his further orders, by the law martial—a measure for which it would seem the previous recital furnishes sufficient precedents.

All persons in arms against the United States are required to surrender themselves with their arms, equipments and munitions of war. The body known as the "European Legion" not being understood to be in arms against the United States, but organized to protect the lives and property of the citizens, are invited to still co-operate with the forces of the United States to that end, and so acting, will not be included in the terms of this order, but will report to these headquarters.

All emblems, flags, and devices, tending to uphold any authority whatever, save the flag of the United States and the flags of the foreign Consulates must not be exhibited, but suppressed. The American ensign, the emblem of the United States, must be treated with the utmost deference and respected by all persons, under pain of severe punishment.

All persons well disposed towards the Government of the United States, who shall renew the oath of allegiance, will receive safeguard and protection in their persons and property of the armies of the United States the violation of which is punishable with death.

All persons still holding allegiance to the Confederate States will be deemed as rebels against the Government of the United States, and regarded and treated as enemies thereof.

All foreigners not naturalized and claiming allegiance to their respective governments, and not having made the oath of allegiance to the supposed Government of the Confederate States, will be protected in their persons and property as heretofore under the laws of the United States.

All persons who may heretofore have given their adherence to the supposed Government of the Confederate States, or have been in their service, who shall lay down and deliver up their arms, and return to peaceful occupations and preserve quiet and order, holding no further correspondence nor giving aid and comfort to the enemies of the United States, will not be disturbed in person or property, except so far, under orders of the Commanding General, as the exigencies of public service may render necessary.

The keepers of all public property, whether State, National, or Confederate, such as collections of art, libraries, museums, as well as all public buildings, all munitions of war, and armed vessels, will at once make full returns thereof to these headquarters; all manufacturers of arms and munitions of war will report to these headquarters their kind and places of business.

All rights of property, of whatever kind, will be held inviolate, subject only to the laws of the United States.

All inhabitants are enjoined to pursue their usual avocations; all shops and places of business and amusements are to be kept open in the accustomed manner, and services to be held in churches and religious houses as in times of profound peace.

Keepers of all public houses, coffee houses, and drinking saloons, are to report their names and numbers to the office of the Provost Marshal, and will there receive license and be held responsible for all disorders and disturbances of peace arising in their respective places.

A sufficient force will be kept in the city to preserve order and maintain the laws.

The killing of an American soldier by any disorderly person or mob, is simply assassination and murder, and not law, and will be so regarded and punished.

The owner of any house or building in or from which such murder shall be committed, will be held reponsible therefor, and the house be liable to be destroyed by the military authority.

All disorders and disturbances of the peace done by combinations and numbers, and crimes of an aggravated nature, interfering with forces or laws of the United States, will be referred to a military court for trial and punishment. Other misdemeanors will be subject to the municipal authority, if it chooses to act. Civil causes between party and party will be referred to the ordinary tribunals.

The levy and collection of all taxes, save those imposed by the laws of the United States, are suppressed, except those for keeping in repair and lighting the streets, and for sanitary purposes. These are to be collected in the usual manner.

The circulation of Confederate bonds evidences of debt, except notes in the similitude of bank notes, issued by the Confederate States, or scrip, or any trade in the same, is strictly forbidden. It having been represented to the Commanding General by the civil authorities, that these Confederate notes in the form of bank notes, are, in a great measure, the only substitute for money which the people have been allowed to have, and that great distress would ensue among the poorer classes if the circulation of such notes were suppressed, such circulation will be permitted so long as any one may be inconsiderate enough to receive them, till further orders.

No publications, either by newspapers, pamphlet, or handbill, giving accounts of the movements of soldiers in the United States within the Department, reflecting in any way upon the United States or its officers, or tending in any way to influence the public mind against the Government of the United States, will be permitted; and all articles of war news, or editorial comments, or correspondence making comments upon the movements of the armies of the United States, or the rebels, must be submitted to the examination of an officer who will be detailed for that purpose from these headquarters.

The transmission of all communications by telegraph will be under the charge an officer from these headquarters.

The armies of the United States came here not to destroy, but to make good, to restore order out of chaos, and the government of laws in the place of the passions of men; to this end, therefore, the efforts of all well disposed are invited to have every species of disorder quelled, and if any soldier of the United States should so far forget his duty or his flag as to commit any outrage upon any person or property, the commanding General requests that his name be instantly reported to the provost guard, so that he may be punished and his wrong full set redressed.

The municipal authority, so far as the police of the city and crimes are concerned, to the extent before indicated, is hereby suspended.

All assemblages of persons in the streets, either by day or night, tend to disorder, and are forbidden.

The various companies composing the Fire Department in New Orleans will be permitted to retain their organization, and are to report to the office of the Provost Marshal, so that they may be known, and not interfered with their duties.

And finally it may be sufficient to add, without further remuneration, that all the requirements of martial law will be imposed so long as, in the judgment of the United States authorities, it may be necessary. And while it is the desire of these authorities to exercise this government mildly, and after the usages of the past, it must not be supposed that it will not be vigorously and firmly administered as occasion calls.

By command of MAJ. GEN. BUTLER.
GEO. B. STRONG, A. A. G., Chief of Staff.

INCIDENTS IN THE CAPTURE OF NEW ORLEANS.

From the mass of correspondence from the fallen Crescent City we find space for the following from a private letter of Capt. Farragut:

The forts permitted us to approach to within a mile and a quarter before they opened fire on us. Captain Bailley, in the Cayuga, Lieut. Com. Harrison, was in advance of me, and received the most of the first fire; but, although the shooting was good, they did not damage his little vessel much. He fell back, and the Hartford took her place. We had only two guns, which I had placed on the top-gallant forecastle, that could bear on them until we got within half a mile. We then sheered off, and gave them such a fire "as they never dreamed of in their philosophy." The Pensacola ran up after a while, and took the starboard battery off our hands; and in a few minutes the Brooklyn ranged up and took a chance at my friends on the left bank. They were silenced in, I should say, twenty minutes or half an hour. But I cannot keep a note of time on such occasions. I only know that half of the vessels did not get a chance at them. The river was too narrow for more than two or three vessels to act to advantage, but all were so anxious that my greatest fear was that they would fire into each other, and Capt. Wainright and myself were hollowing our selves hoarse at the men not to fire into our ships.

This last affair was what I call one of the little elegancies of the profession—a dash and a victory. But the passing of the Forts Jackson and St. Phillip was one of the most awful sights and events I ever saw or expect to experience. The smoke was so dense that it was only now and then you could see any thing but the flash of the cannon and the fire-ships or rafts, one of which was pushed down upon us (the Hartford) by the ram Manassas, and in my efforts to avoid it ran the ship on shore, and then the fire-raft was pushed alongside, and in a moment the ship was one blaze all along the port side, half way up to the main and mizzen tops. But thanks to the good organization of the fire department by Lieut. Thornton, the flames were extinguished, and at the same time we backed off and got clear of the raft. But all this time we were pouring the shells into the forts, and they into us, and every now and then a rebel steamer would get under our fire and receive our salutation of a broadside.

At length the fire slackened, the smoke cleared off, and we saw to our surprise that we were above the forts, and here and there a rebel gunboat on fire. As we came up with them, trying to make their escape, they were fired into and riddled, so that they ran them on shore, and all who could made their escape to the shore.

I am told, I don't know how truly, that Gen. Lovell had gone down that evening to make an attack with thirteen gunboats, a large ram of eighteen guns, and the Manassas. The Mississippi and Manassas made a set at each other at full speed, and when they were within thirty or forty yards, the ram dodged the Mississippi and ran on shore, when the latter poured her broadside into her, knocked away her smoke stack, and then sent on board of her, but she was deserted and riddled, and after a while she dritted down the stream full of water She was the last of the eleven we destroyed.

A VALUABLE LETTER, AND WHAT IT CONTAINED.

A letter was received to-day under the following peculiar circumstances: A lady in a small boat, pulled by a boatman, came off to one of the ships, and inquired if there was a person named McClellan; at the same time she gave the Captain a wink which put him on the move. He replied in the affirmative, and accordingly a letter was passed up. It contained much valuable information in regard to the disposition of the mob toward us. The letter stated that Fort Pike and Fort Livingston were evacuated, and the troops sent up to support Beauregard at Corinth. This letter says there can be no Union sentiment expressed until the people have a guarantee that they will be protected by the troops.

DESERTERS FROM THE FORTS.

Quite a number of the garrison of the forts deserted, and were picked up by Butler's troops, and are now at Quarantine. The Kennebec brought up to the city twenty-nine officers and ninety men, who are to be released on parole. The turn of the story is, that the men in Fort Jackson, finding their retreat cut off, remonstrated with their leaders. Duncan threatened, promised and entreated, but it was of no avail—the men turned the barbette guns on the officers in the unprotected casemates and made them surrender.

These facts I have gleaned on board the Kennebec, and have since learned that Commodore Porter demanded the surrender of the forts in the name of the United States and the mortar flotilla. If such proves to be the case, I have the highest authority for saying that such a step is entirely unauthorized, and is in conflict with the Flag Officer's orders, as he ordered a surrender in the name of the United States.

THE LOUISIANA BLOWN UP.

The rebel Flag Officer, J. K. Mitchell, after the surrender of the forts, blew up the Louisiana, an act entirely at variance with established rules of warfare. Commodore Porter put him in double irons.

THE REBEL FLAG HAULED DOWN.

But to turn of matters around the city. First of note to-day, Pierre Soule visited the ships this morning and had a short conference with the Flag Officer. The result of the interview being of a private nature I did not learn the particulars concerning it. Shortly after he landed, all the marines of our fleet present embarked in small boats and went on shore to raise the Stars and Stripes on the Custom House and Post Office.

THE DESTRUCTION OF THE OTHER REBEL RAM.

Just before Captain Bailley reach d the levee, the ram Mississippi came floating down the river, wrapped in flames. She was a terrible looking affair, built to carry eight guns on each side and two at each end—twenty in all. Ten days more and she would have been completed, and I think she would have driven us out of the river, sinking every vessel we had. She resembles the Merrimac somewhat, but I think she would have been more formidable. The enemy attempted to tow her up the river, but finding we were sending vessels to capture her, they set her on fire.

THE NIGHT BEFORE THE CAPTURE OF THE CITY.

A boat from the ship was along the levee to seize all the steamers for transportation purposes, and in course of the conversation people report, that on Thursday night the panic broke out in the city, and all the cotton was brought out and set on fire, and that the mob could scarcely restrain from firing the public buildings and then the private dwellings. It was a night not equalled by anything even in the French revolutions.

A band of desperadoes had charge of affairs, and they were backed by Lovell, who, however, denies it; but he is accountable for the destruction of property, as he set the example by firing his own cotton first. A ram lay by the levee, partially sunk, and her wood works were on fire. Another ram affair was sunk on the Algiers side of the river. I am unable to obtain the details of the loss by fire to shipping and cotton. It will be weeks before it can be ascertained, and I have a right to suppose that we will never be able to give the full particulars of the wanton destruction of property which has occurred in and around this city during the last two days.

A RETROSPECT.

OFF NEW ORLEANS, April 26.—Nothing occurred during the night to disturb us, and when morning came we looked upon the last two days as a fearful dream. Scarcely any one could realize the full extent of our escape rom utter destruction. From four o'clock on Thursday morning up to Saturday noon have passed and received the fire of over two hundred guns in heavy forts, the fire of thirteen steamers, an iron-clad battery, a ram, been on fire three times, taken a camp of sharpshooters, taken two batteries with eighteen guns, and are now off the city of New Orleans.

If that is not some work for less than forty-eight hours, then pray tell me what work is.

Ships were never fought or handled better than was our fleet, and all other naval engagements with forts or batteries dwindle into insignificance. I was a participant in the Port Royal affair, but that was a mere skirmish compared with the fight of Thursday morning, and the fight of last Saturday noon nearly compares with the Port Royal affair.

MILWAUKEE MARKET.

MILWAUKEE, May 14.

The wheat market was firm and tolerably active yesterday, and closed at an advance of ½@1c on Tuesday's ruling prices. The market opened at 76c for No. 2, and 80c for No. 1 in store, but after the receipt of the New York report a further advance of ½c was conceded, 76½@80½c being offered for the standard grades in equal quantities, and in one or two instances buyers paid as high as 81c for receipts of straight No. 1 in the Menomonee elevators. No. 2 and No. 1 in bags brought 78@81c on 'Change. Sales reported amount to about 65,000 bushels, including a few car loads by sample for milling at 82@83c delivered.

There was not much inquiry for flour, and we have still to quote the market dull and unsettled. One sale of 500 bbls was reported at $3.75, said to be a good brand of country spring extra.

Notwithstanding the increased receipts, coarse grains of all kinds remain firm. Oats for retail trade sold as high as 33c, and there was a good demand for corn, barley and rye at our quotations. Highwines bad declined 1c, selling now at 20 1-2c.

Persons unacquainted with the Melodeon and its history, will bear in mind that we are the pioneers and leading manufacturers, not only in the United States, but in the world. We commenced the manufacture of Melodeons in the fall of the year 1847, and since that time have finished and sold TWENTY-SEVEN THOUSAND. These instruments are now in use mostly in the United States and Canada, but also in Europe, Asia, Africa, South America and the West Indies, and from all these quarters we have the most flattering testimonials of the high estimation in which they are held.

At all Industrial Exhibitions they have invariably been awarded the Highest Premium wherever Exhibited in Competition with Others.

We shall take pleasure in forwarding by mail (at our own expense) our Illustrated Catologue, in which every instrument we manufacture is fully described, and illustrated by elegant engravings.

All Melodeons of our manufacture, either sold by us or dealers in any part of the United States or Canada, are warranted to be perfect in every respect, and should any repairs be necessary before the expiration of five years from date of sale, we hold ourselves ready and willing to make the same free of charge, provided the injury is not caused by accident or design.

Agents for the sale of our Melodeons may be found in all the principal towns of the United States and Canada.

Eye & Ear.

DR. UNDERWOOD,

Of Chicago, Ill., the eminent and skilful operator on the Eye and Ear, whose name and fame is so extensively known throughout the United States, for his science, skill and success in performing formidable operations, and in removing difficult and dangerous diseases from those delicate organs, has arrived in St. Paul and may be consulted at the AMERICAN HOUSE for a short time only.

Dr. U., who is a regular Physician and Surgeon of the old school, has had an extensive experience in both hospital and private practice of twenty-eight years, and will be found competent to perform any operation necessary to restore lost sight or hearing, or by other mild and gentle means to remove any disease from those delicate organs within the reach of science and human skill.

CHRONIC DISEASES, of every grade and character, whether requiring medical or surgical treatment, POSITIVELY and PERMANENTLY CURED, when not clearly beyond the reach of science and human skill.

Dr. Underwood treats all diseases on regular and scientific principles, as recognized by the medical profession both in Europe and America, and hence does not use or deal in those pretended new and never failing remedies—specifics, inhaling vapors, and chimerycant prescription—which are so o tentatiously paraded before the public by those impudent traveling quacks and money-fleecing empirics, nine-tenths of whom never were inside of a medical college. Patients afflicted or laboring under diseases of long standing, can consult Dr. U. with the most confident hope and expectation of being perfectly cured, or receiving with unerring certainty all the relief that the highest skill, the most judicious and scientific treatment can possibly bestow.

Among the diseases which the Doctor has lately treated with the most signal success, may be mentioned those of the Heart, Lungs, Liver, Stomach and Bowels—and Nervous Affections, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Salt Rheum and Chronic Female Affections. my7-3m

TRIOMPHE DE GAND.

We unhesitatingly place this variety at the very head of the list of strawberries. Another year's trial has only confirmed our opinion of its superior worth. Were we confined to one variety, it should be the Triomphe de Gand No other kind, of which we have any knowledge, possess so so many excellencies. Indeed, with us, it approaches so nearly perfection as to leave but little more to be desired.

The plants are thrifty, hardy and vigorous growers, bearing their fruit well up, which renders it easily to be kept clean. They are also wonderfully productive with us, and the fruit is not only usually of large size but UNIFORMLY so, and throughout the season, which is longer with it than with most other varieties The flavor is everything that could be desired. It is of a very beautiful crimson color, glossy and very attractive. It keeps well after being picked, retaining its beautiful color and firmness, and carries better than any other variety.

We claim that all articles sent out from our establishment are what they profess to be—true in name—and of good quality. Our prices, we think are reasonable—not "below" or "at cost" of production, but such as to afford a fair profit, to which, we think, we are justly entitled. We are not ambitious to give to our establishment the reputation of a low priced nursery, but one where a genuine article of the best quality can be had, and that will give satisfaction to the purchaser.

LA CROSSE AND ST. PAUL

PACKET COMPANY.

SUMMER ARRANGEMENT

During the season of 1862, till the close of navigation, the La Crosse and St. Paul Packet Company, having completely equipped their line, and made large additions to their business facilities, will offer to shippers and passengers on the river greater inducements and conveniences, and QUICKER TIME, than was ever offered by any company on the river.

All the boats on the Chippewa, Minnesota, St. Croix and the upper Mississippi rivers, and the different lines of stages north of La Crosse will the coming season run to connect with the Davidson boats and the La Crosse and Milwaukee Railroad.

The La Crosse and St. Paul Packet Company will run a

PASSENGER AND FREIGHT LINE.

The former will number two first class boats—the nicest and fastest on the river. They will be the McCLELLAN and NORTHERN BELLE. The first will be the lightning line, making the run from La Crosse to St. Paul in EIGHTEEN HOURS, and returning will leave here in the morning, and arrive at La Crosse in twelve hours time, to connect with the evening train, by which passengers will make close connection and reach Milwaukee in time for cars, or boats on the Lake in TWENTY HOURS FROM ST. PAUL, and reach Chicago next morning, by Minnesota Junction or Milwaukee, in just TWENTY-FOUR HOURS FROM LEAVING ST. PAUL, and in time for close connection East. This will be twelve hours the quickest time between these three cities ever made. Nothing but passengers, the mails express matter, and express goods will be carried on these boats, which will be furnished in the best of style. Passengers will thus have daylight to view the grand beauties of the river, and good sleeping cars from La Crosse to Chicago—a great item. Arrangements have also been perfected so that all the boats of the upper rivers, and all the stage lines will run in close connection

The other line will number three regular boats; the Keokuk, G. H. Wilson and Winona, one of which will leave La Crosse daily on the arrival of the morning train from the East, connecting at all points north, and will also make close connections. The Favorite will run as a tri-weekly packet between St. Paul and Mankato, on the Minnesota river.

A daily line will also run between St Anthony and St. Cloud on the Upper Mississippi, for passenger and freight business. All of which are to connect with the boats above named, plying between La Crosse and St. Paul, and connecting with the La Crosse and Milwaukee Railroad.

This Company have just completed at St. Paul, a mammoth wharf boat, which will hold seven hundred tons of freight; and to or from which goods of all kinds can be carried to any part of the city, without further handling or danger of breakage

THE NEWS THIS MORNING.

Gen. McClellan got in rather dangerous proximity to a body of rebel cavalry, and had to do some fast riding to escape. He then in person took command of the force at hand and in turn made the rebels try their speed.

We are without any general information respecting the advance on Richmond.

In the Mountain Department the guerillas are remarkably active. Fremont has, or will soon have, Staunton. He will then have leisure to attend to the bandits.

GEN. HUNTER'S PROCLAMATION.

The burden of our telegraphic dispatches this morning, is comments on Gen. Hunter's proclamation of freedom to the slaves of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, of which we had the text yesterday.

It was a bold move for Hunter, like that of the Pathfinder, in Missouri, last August. Like Fremont's, too, Hunter's is without authority of the President. It is strongly intimated that the analogy will not end here, but that a modification by the Commander in Chief will complete the parallel. Action awaits a meeting of the Cabinet

Whether modified or not, it is essentially right. We not only want to see the slaves of these States freed, but we think South Carolina, the coast district of Georgia, and the whole of Florida, just the country for the permanent home of the negroes. Let the immense cotton and rice plantations of that country be confiscated and given up to the Africans, whose toil these two centuries have been reclaiming the swamps and developing the dry lands.

A GALLANT EXPLOIT.

Many of the most heroic feats of the war have been performed by the despised negro. At the head of them stands Tillman who single handed recaptured the vessel Warning and without chart or knowledge of navigation, brought her into the harbor of New York. Then we had the exploits of Potomac Jim, and now the escape of a vessel from Charleston harbor and her arrival at Port Royal, manned by a sable crew, and commanded by one of the class that Judge Taney decided had no rights that white men were bound to respect.

NEWS ITEMS.

— Albert Pike has just complimented by public order his drunken, scalping Indians. Now let Beauregard issue a similar compliment to his grave-opening ghouls who made rings and drinking cups of the bones and skulls of our dead at Manassas.

— The Hastings Independent says that H. Rogers, well known to the citizens of that county as deputy county surveyor last year, has disgraced himself and ruined his prospects, by espousing the cause of the rebels. He has a commission in Johnson's corps of Engineers. It learns that he was among the light footed gentry that fled from Manassas, and doubtless his advance on Richmond will be masterly.

— The Minneapolis Atlas says that through freights from up the river are hereafter to be landed at Minneapolis and thence carried to the lower landing at that place, and in contemplation of having boats from above and below, and also transhipment at that place is particularly hopeful of the prospects of the place. That paper also says it is contemplated to run a daily boat between St. Paul and that point.

—Read the call for a Democratic State Convention in to-day's paper. The assurance to the tax-ridden people of Minnesota, that the Democracy will oppose the buying and feeding of negroes by the Government, so long as the whole resources of the country are needed to put down the rebellion, will meet with hearty approval.—Mankato Record.

Now that we learn the negroes are being put in a way of taking care of themselves and of sustaining the Government, and adding to its resources, won't we expect the Record to be jubilant? Will it not do away with the necessity for that "call?"

— Secretary Seward has lately received intelligence from our Turkish Minister, at Constantinople, E. Joy Morris, of the murder of an American Missionary, Rev. J. Coffing, by a band of Gregorians, in the dominions of the Sultan. A correspondence is published between Mr. Morris and the Department of State, in which Mr. Seward instructs Mr. Morris to press upon the attention of the Sultan the necessity of bringing the offenders to condign punishment.

—A few days ago we published extracts from a bold speech of Leonidas Metcalfe, at Carlisle, Nicholas county, Kentucky. He is a son of ex-Governor Metcalf. We learn that on the 8th inst., a duel was fought between the Colonel and W. T. Casto, a notorious secession lawyer of Maysville, who was recently liberated from Fort Lafayette. The origin of the difficulty was the Colonel's instrumentality in procuring the imprisonment of Casto, The encounter took place one mile below Dover, Kentucky. The weapons were Sharpe's rifles, the distance twenty-five yards. Casto gave the challenge and had the first fire, and it was his last. He fell shot through the heart.

—Hon. John W. Noell, Democratic Member of Congress from Southeast Missouri, has written a letter taking strong grounds in favor of a confiscation bill. Nearly every unconditional Union man, not wholly given over to the proslavery infatuation—and especially those who have felt the scourge, such as has been inflicted on Missouri—are heartily in favor of applying the property of the rebels towards the payment of the burden their fiendish acts have placed upon the Government. Men do honestly differ as to the means by which such a consummation may be reached, but none who do not have a paramount love for slavery, over that they entertain for the Union, object to thus making the rebels help foot the bills we have to bear on account of their deeds. If they are not thus made to feel the consequences of their crimes, any attempts at peace will only be a mere cessation of operations to let the dirty villians "spit on their hands to get a new hold"

—The following figures tell more plainly to what straits the South is being driven than could well be shown in any other way. They are from a late number of that formerly rampant, now crestfallen. Richmond Examiner:

"At an auction on the 2d, butter sold at $1.25 per pound. The following on the money market is from the commercial column of the Examiner of the 2d:

"SPECIE.—We quote gold and silver at 80 to 100 per cent. premium (!). Very little doing.

"In the stock sales report of the same paper, North Carolina State bonds (six per cent.) are quoted at 1 10, an advance of three per cent. since our last advices. [Fort Macon had fallen ad interim;] while Confederate bonds are offered at 97."

In another article, the same paper says:

"Eggs sold yesterday morning for seventy-five cents a dozen, and butter for a dollar and a half a pound. High as these prices appear, they are not exorbitant in comparison with the prices demanded for butchers' meat, bacon, groceries, dry goods, wood, &c. Butchers' meat was held according to quality, at between thirty-five and a half and fifty cents a pound; bacon (hog round), thirty-five cents; common brown sugar, forty cents; and firewood from country carts, is sold at the rate of twelve dollars a cord. In the way of dry goods, we give a few instances: Unbleached cotton is sold at from 25 to 37 and 40 cents a yard, according to the conscience of the dry goods man; bleached cotton from thirty to forty cents per yard, and often sold for sixty two and a half cents a yard; spool cotton, two dollars a dozen; Irish linen from seventy-five cents to one dollar and a quarter a yard, and domestics at fifty cents a yard.

"At this rate, if the country people do not get good prices for their truck, how are they to procure sugar for their sassafras tea or dry goods to clothe the little ones. The only people who have occasion to quake and grumble at the prices are those who have nothing to sell, who live on salaries that have not been raised and have everything to buy."

The same paper says that week had been signalized as the week of auctions.

—A proclamation from Governor Letcher, of Virginia, has been published. He dislikes the conscription act, and pronounces it unconstitutional, but wishes to drive the invaders from the "sacred soil" before taking a turn with the Confederacy. He was strongly in favor of releasing Maryland and removing the seat of war to the Northern States. If Maryland wants to trade positions with Virginia, that State will soon be in admirable trim for a trade.

Alluding to the loss of slave property, the Governor speaks as follows:

"The loss to the citizens of Virginia in the item of slave property alone far exceeds the loss from the destruction of cotton or any other species of property during the war. Counties in Virginia have been overrun, containing an aggregate slave population of 80,723 by the late census, and which, by a moderate valuation, is worth, in round numbers, $45,000,000. Such a loss should not be permitted to fall upon a people if it can by any proper means be prevented."

—A force of Texans and other Indians are rumored to be threatening our army near Batesville, Arkansas.

—A secret circular purporting to be addressed by Jeff. Davis to the Governors and other prominent individuals in the South, is published. It admits virtually the hopelessness of the rebel cause unless the most superhuman exertions are made, and advises the burning of everything valuable in advance of the march of our army. We have our doubts of the authenticity of the document, though it evidently represents the real state of things with Dixie at this time.

—The New Orleans Picayune, of April 16th, states that Gen. Hardee's loss in the battle of Shiloh was 2,400 killed and wounded, and Gen. Breckinridge's 2,200 killed and wounded. These are the losses of two single divisions, probably not exceeding twenty thousand men, but these divisions are said to have borne the brunt of the battle.

—A Washington dispatch affirms that the value of rebel property captured on the high seas by our cruisers is immense. Commodores Alden and McKean will receive about $100,000 each as their share of the spoils, and many seamen will receive over $500 dollars each.

A RAILROAD MONITOR.—The New York Evening Post says that General Burnside was employing Yankee ingenuity at the last advices, in constructing a "Railroad Monitor." Carpenters were preparing a huge frame work, to be placed over a locomotive engine, and to be covered with railroad iron, from the top to the track. This car is to be made capable of carrying two guns, one on either end, and will be used on the railroad which runs from Newbern to Beaufort, and also on the railroad from Newbern to Bachelder's Creek, in the direction of Kingston and Goldsboro. The bridges over the Trent river, near Beaufort, and over Bachelder's creek, which we burned by the retreating rebels, are nearly finished again; and the new Monitor, it is believed, will do excellent service in guarding the country through which the railroads pass.

THE MINNESOTA FIRST CAVALRY

REPORT OF THE RECENT ENGAGEMENT BY LIEUT. GEO. LEUE.

The following is the official report of the recent skirmish in Northwest Tennessee, in which Capt. Von Minden was wounded and taken prisoner, together with others of his company. It will be seen that Capt. Von Minden is only slightly wounded, and the casualities in other respects, not so numerous or serious as first reported:

CAMP LOWE, HENRY CO., TENN., May 9th, 1862.

To Adjutant General, Oscar Malmros, Saint Paul, Minnesota:

SIR:—It is my sad duty this morning to report to you the misfortune which has happened to the First Minnesota Cavalry Company, (now Company G, Curtis Horse.)

On Friday, the 2d day of May, a detachment of 125 men, of which Company G furnished 56, started on a scout under the command of Major Charles Schaeffer Von Boernstein. Their intention was to go to Paris, Henry Co. Tennessee, and from their to Dresden, 25 miles to the Westward, on a reconnoitering tour. Several expeditions had been sent out in that vicinity before, but had never as yet met with the enemy. The detachment arrived in Paris on Saturday the 3d of May, and stopped there over night, and on the next morning started in the direction of Dresden. They had not been gone from Paris more than six hours, when a large force of rebel cavalry under Col. Clayborn arrived there, and instantly put in pursuit of our men.

A supposed Union man, ex-Mayor of Paris, started right off and came into our camp on Monday the 5th, and informed us of it. A telegraphic dispatch was then immediately sent to our Colonel, who was in Paducah, when he came back and stopped the Fourth Minnesota, which was just going up to Pittsburg Landing; and on Tuesday the 16th, in the evening, both Regiments started in pursuit of the Secesh, to try to save our men; but on the first day out, they got orders from Gen. Halleck to come back to the river and not to attack the enemy. While on their return, they met a man coming from the Secesh camp, with letters from some of the officers of the detachment which had started on the second of May. Amongst them was a letter from Capt Von Minden to Lieut. Leue. Capt. Von Minden reports that he is a prisoner of war. He received a slight wound in the head, and in falling from his horse sprained his ankle. The letter was written in the secesh camp. The best part of the men are probably prisoners. Capt. Haw, of Co. F, has four wounds. Major Von Boernstein was shot through the lungs, and we have been allowed to go and get him. He will probably not live long.

Below you will find a list of the men of the First Minnesota Company, which were of the party, and of those who are killed and wounded as far as we know:

1 Cap. t Von Minden, slight wound in the head.
2 Q. M. Sergeant, Albert Phelps.
3 Sergeant William Robeck.
4 Sergeant Isaac Hichborn.
5 " G. Baner, shot thro' right arm.
6 Corporal Christopher John.
7 " Henry Mohr, wounded slightly.
8 Privates, Joseph Hawber.

33 " Louis Vaseur.
34 " F. Constinger.

Since the above has been written, full particulars of the fight have reached us. Our men had just got to eating their supper on Monday, the 5th, when their pickets were driven in from all sides. They were encamped by an old mill in the proximity of a large swamp. They were completely surrounded, being attacked by about eighteen hundred men. They all fought well, but, of course, could not do anything against such odds. A telegraphic dispatch was received from Paducah this morning, stating that forty of our men had escaped, and had reached that place but I think they probably most of them belong to an Iowa company. As far as we can hear, there are sixty-five taken prisoners, four killed and about fifteen to twenty wounded. As soon as we get any further particulars we shall forward them to you.

Respectfully your obedient servant,
G. LEUE,
Lieutenant Commanding Co. G, C H.

FROM THE SECOND MINNESOTA CAVALRY.

MONTERAY, (8 miles from Corinth,) May 5th, 1862.

To the Editor of the St. Paul Press.

An hour's spare time for a soldier is an unusual thing—but such are the circumstances under which I find myself placed at this time; and I propose, with your permission, to tell you and your readers what we have been doing since I wrote you in March last. Without wasting any time in fine writing, I will merely state a few facts:

On the 28th of March, we landed at Savannah, Tennessee, and reported immediately to Gen. Grant, (whose headquarters were at that time in that town,) and were told by him that a line of telegraph must be built from Savannah to Columbia, and that our detachment must guard the builders thereof. Let me inform your readers that no Union force had as yet been through that section of country, and hazardous as the expedition was, we were well pleased with it. We traveled each day as far as the telegraphic wires did, keeping an advanced guard during the day and pickets out at night. But no enemy disturbed us—they had been there only a few days before us,—but they skedaddled when we came.

We found a great many professed Union people through that section of country—most of whom I believe are sincere in their professions. We got one new recruit in Wayne county. During the expedition we took some 50,000 pounds of bacon and ham belonging to the Southern Confederacy, and distributed it among poor Union people.

We spent two weeks on this line. When the force on the other end of the line met us we were ordered back to Savannah to guard the building of a line of telegraph from there to Gen. Halleck's headquarters at Pittsburg Landing, which place we reached on the 18th ult.

I will not tire your readers with a description of the Pittsburg battle field, as I presume they have ere this read it from abler pens than mine. Some of the bodies were not buried even at that date, and the stench arising from them, dead horses, &c., was disagreeable in the extreme, and we were not sorry to receive orders to march nine miles to the southward on the 24th. The telegraph builders were ordered to erect a telegraph line from Halleck's headquarters to a certain point nine miles distant, where Gen Pope would be quartered in a day or two, and we were ordered to guard them. I shall always think that there was some mistake in this matter, for after we had traveled six miles we came to our advanced pickets, and yet we had three miles further to travel! But it is a soldier's duty to obey, and we did obey, although well aware that it was an extremely dangerous undertaking. That night we heard the long roll beat in the rear of us, but it proved to be a false alarm. For several mornings our officers had us saddle our horses before daylight in order to prevent being surprised by the enemy.

The army commenced moving in a day or two, and soon we were in the rear again. Grant, Buell and Pope's forces had all got ahead of us, and yesterday we moved again, and are now encamped in Monteray, a small town eight miles from Corinth, one and a half miles from where the enemy is encamped. The ground was occupied by rebel tents three days ago. Should I tell you that in all human probability before another week shall have rolled over our heads, a great battle will be fought—perhaps on the very ground on which I am now sitting—and hundreds, yea, thousands of brave men pass from time to eternity—that widows and orphans will be manufactured by the wholesale, it would be no news to you. But yet such is the fact. The two great armies have got almost together. General Halleck has moved his headquarters to this point, and the fight cannot be put off much longer.

The health of our company is as good as could be expected. Three have died, four were discharged and a few are in the hospital. I am told that General Grant has said that our detachment is doing the country more good than any other cavalry in the service, and General Halleck says he is going to keep us at our present business—guarding the builders of the telegraph to and from his headquarters—until he gets to New Orleans. Therefore, should any of our friends wish to find us, they can do so by folowing the telegraph wire to New Orleans, for we're going there in a day or two. Adieu, JIMMIE.

FROM THE SECOND MINNESOTA SHARPSHOOTERS.

ON BOARD STEAMER ARIEL, May 3d, 1862.

To the Editor of the St. Paul Press:

We arrived all safe at Washington on Saturday, April 26th, at 6 o'clock P. M. The company has been highly praised everywhere on the way, and here in Washington, for its fine appearance, good order and discipline. The long ride caused several of the men to report themselves sick upon arriving at Washington, but all reported for duty this morning.

I have received orders to report, with my company, to "Major General McClellan, at Yorktown," and will be there some time tomorrow. We will receive Sharp's breech-loading rifle upon our arrival. I believe we will have work to do right off. The men are all in high spirits, and ready to go "right in." I will try to be attached to General Dana's brigade.

Remember me to friends.

Very truly yours, WM. F. RUSSELL.

PARIS LANDING, TENN., May, 10, 1862.

To the Editor of the St. Paul Press.

We returned from our trip into the country last evening all well. We failed to meet the enemy. Clayborn's, Jackson's and King's cavalry are retreating with our prisoners. We sent out a party of sixty night before last to drive them in. Capt. Woods of Company K and myself joined in acting as aids to Capt. Baird, commanding detachment. We went through Paris, Henry county, but we found that they were in full retreat. It is hard to get to them in a country where every man is a rebel, and here they do not disguise the fact. The women tell you to your face they hope we will be cut to pieces. We cannot start out on any expedition without their knowing our exact number, and nine out of ten our destination. How we shall ever conquer the country and bring the State back into the Union I do not know. The only way I see is to make them vote an open ticket and station a guard at the polls and bayonet every secesh. By this means you can get a free expression of the will of the people. As a general thing they are ignorant, can't read nor write, don't take the papers and nineteen out of twenty do not know that Minnesota is not the capital of Illinois. The women are very little better, sickly, puny beings—secesh trash.

Our regiment is in good order. They march well. We left here for the interior last Tuesday night. Col. Leue, of Curtis Horse, is in command. How long we shall remain here it is yet uncertain. Col. Leue has telegraphed to have us stationed here or at Paris, which is seventy five miles this side of Memphis. This is a very rich tobacco country. Hot—oh! how hot? Major Shaeffer died of his wounds last evening. Von Minden is badly wounded. Only eleven of Shaeffer's men escaped.

Yours, &c.,

THE SALMON RIVER AND CARIBOO GOLD MINES.

Letter From J. W. Taylor, Esq., to Dr. G. F. Childs.

QUEBEC, May 3, 1862.

Dr. Geo F. Childs, Minneiska, Minnesota.

DEAR SIR:—I received your letter of April 18th. when about starting upon a journey, and have had no leisure for reply, except at this place and date.

I have forgotten the exact language employed by me on the occasion to which you refer; but I probably said that Father De Smet, the Catholic Bishop of "Oregon, and an old Frenchman, named Revere, with whom I traveled in the North, had both assured me (the former in his Oregon Missions," the latter by oral communications,) that gold and other minerals were accessible on the Snake river, a tributary of the Columbia, and on the sources of the Yellowstone. The region described by them is the same now known as the Salmon River Mines, and a District of equal extent adjacent thereto along the east flank of the Rocky Mountains.

About a year ago, I met Lieut. John Mullen, U. S. Topographical Engineers, who has been employed several years in the construction of a Government road from Walla Walla on the Columbia to Fort Benton, on the Missouri river, and he said that during the summer of 1860, while his men were working upon the road, he could not restrain them from washing the sand of the Mountain streams along the line; and that they often obtained twenty cents of gold to the pan of dirt, equal to twenty dollars a day. He anticipated a gold excitement, which followed in 1861, reaching the Salmon river mines.

I know less of these diggings, than of the Cariboo region in British Columbia. I regard the British mines as more productive; but on the other hand Salmon river is more accessible and will be more easily supplied with provisions. Their situation is due west from the Falls of St. Anthony, and the best routes to them are through Minnesota and Dakotah.

I regret to hear that many citizens of Minnesota have decided in favor of immigration to Nevada. Unquestionably, immense quantities of gold are obtained in Nevada, but there, as in Colorado to the east, and in California further west, there is little chance for the individual miner, with no other capital than his labor. Quartz-washing, requiring expensive machinery, is now established in these regions, and monopolizes all the profits of mining. Surface mining is transferred to the Northern diggings of Washington Territory and British Columbia—to localities due west and northwest of Minnesota. These facts will be learned by sad experience by thousands. After a long journey on the central route to Colorado or Nevada, they will find on arriving there, that the current of emigration is turned North, to the very districts which can be more directly approached from Minnesota.

Let me be understood. I dissuade altogether from gold-seeking. Its prizes are dazzling, but rare; four fifths of its adventurers will be disappointed. I say to all, stand fast; be firm, and patient; tie to Minnesota! But if you are determined, unalterably determined to go, do not go to Nevada. The Washington or Salmon river mines are better—the Cariboo best; and the route to the Salmon river, which will be found most convenient under all the circumstances, is by Stevens' route, while the way to Cariboo is through Selkirk and Saskatchewan.

I have lately visited Kansas, and am satisfied that the overland route is and will be unsafe. The route to Salmon river by Stevens' railroad line is safer, but should not be taken by smaller parties than fifty men. At St. Louis, steamboats are preparing to ascend the Missouri river to Fort Benton, from which place to the Washington Territory mines is only two hundred miles, over a good Government road, practicable for wagons.

I saw in Pike's Peak papers that a large emigration from Colorado to Salmon river is in progress—so from Nevada and California.

I write you in haste, but am solicitous that you should appreciate my views of these matters. I repeat, stay in Minnesota; but if you go, keep on West or Northwest. That way lies health, greater safety, and surer chances of success,

Yours truly, J. W. TAYLOR.

—We clip the following from Yorktown correspondence:

The rebels left a large supply of articles in their camp. There were seventy-five or eighty sacks of Liverpool salt, a good deal of flour and five bales of cotton. They threw over 2,000 bushels of corn into the river. They left over eighty heavy guns in position upon their works, but many of them were spiked, and many are left loaded in such a manner as to burst them when they are fired. They will be handled, of course, with all proper caution. Two of their heaviest rifled guns were burst by themselves—it is now thought intentionally. A deserter reports that our 200 pound shells from the Parrott gun in Battery No. 1 caused the most intense amazement and consternation among them. It is certainly a most formidable looking instrument, two feet long and about six inches in diameter.

McClellan has a Skirmish.

NEW YORK, May 17.

A letter from Cumberland, Virginia, of the 13th, says an attempt was made to capture some of our wagons, hundreds of which line the roads between here and Buckhouse Point, but I can't learn that they have succeeded.

During the time the rebels made the attack upon our wagon train, Gen. McClellan, accompanied by his staff, was making a reconnoissance and came in sight of the rebel cavalry before he was aware of his proximity. By dint of hard riding he escaped, and took command of what force there was at hand and dispersed the rebels.

It is reported here to-night that two rebel regiments have been cut off in their retreat by the burning of Bottom Bridge by our forces. If this be true they are, in the language of the Ogre, "my meat."

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 17.

COMMENTS ON HUNTER'S PROCLAMATION.

(Times' dispatch)—Gen. Hunter's proclamation excites scarcely any interest in Washington; no one attaching any importance to its efficiency to produce the end, it martial law is only enforced by martial power, and Hunter has no force at his command adequate to enforce this proclamation. His declaring freedom to all the slaves in these States when he has no power to free a single one outside of his camp, is regarded in Washington as an act of stultification highly discreditable to any one holding the rank of General, and supposed to have ordinary intelligence.

If military power is withdrawn from Hunter's department and his proclamation unexecuted throughout the States, it is conceded that the civil power will complete and countenance what martial law proclaimed, but did not practically execute. The President's policy is supposed to be authoritatively settled by his action in Fremont's case, in which all his Cabinet concurred, that Fremont freed by his proclation the slaves of all men engaged in the rebellion. Hunter's proclamation frees the slaves of all men in the three States, whether they have engaged in rebellion or not, punishing loyalists as well as traitors, and all because he has declared martial law where he has confessedly no ability to execute it.

It is understood that Hunter took no specific instruction from the President in regard to the management of matters in his department, but was left as all other military commanders have been, to his own discretion in his attempt to re-establish the Constitution and laws in the revolted States.

It is said the President will be waited on this evening by gentlemen to ascertain what authority Hunter is acting on.

THE PRESIDENT DID NOT AUTHORIZE HUNTER'S PROCLAMATION.

The Tribune's special correspondent says Gen. Hunter's proclamation, it can be positively stated, was issued without the authority or knowledge of the President, whom it took entirely by surprise. What will be done with it is a question yet to be settled. There was no Cabinet meeting to-day, and it is not probable that any determination will be definitely made until the three members of the Cabinet—Secretaries Seward and Welles and Attorney General Bates—who are still at Fort Monroe return, which will not be till Monday.

The committee have also authorized Mr. Sedgewick to report the bill reorganizing the naval service, which was sometime since prepared by a sub committee of both Houses. It provides for ten grades running from a cadet to the rear admiral.

TAKING OF NORFOLK.

EXTRACTS FROM CORRESPONDENCE.

Our troops pushed rapidly forward in spite of the heat of the day, and at five o'clock reached the entrenched camp, some two miles this side of Norfolk, which had been very strongly fortified with earthworks, on which were mounted twenty-nine pieces of artillery. No troops were in the place, and our forces passed through it on their way to the town. Just before reaching it they were met by a flag of truce, to which an officer was at once sent forward to enquire its object. Receiving the information that it was to treat for the surrender of the city, the officer returned, and Gen. Wool and Staff, with Secretary Chase, advanced to meet the Mayor of the city, who had come out under the flag. Both parties dismounted and entered a cottage by the roadside, when the Mayor informed the General of the evacuation of the city and of the object of his visit.

It seems that a meeting was held at Norfolk some days since, not long, probably, after the evacuation of Yorktown was resolved upon, of the rebel Secretary of War, Gen. Huger, Gen. Longstreet, and some others of the leading military authorities, at which it was determined not to attempt to hold the city against any demonstration of the National forces to effect its capture.

THE MERRIMAC—GUNBOAT MOVEMENTS.

The first news that greeted us this morning was that the Merrimac had been blown up by her officers. On Crany Island were two or three negroes, who said that the Merrimac had been brought back the night before about a mile from where she had been lying, and that early this morning she was blown up, her officers and crew having gone ashore in small boats, and having started at about eight o'clock across the country for Suffolk. They said they were about two hundred in number. Large fragments of the wreck were also floating around, which rendered this story almost certain to be true.

I have no doubt whatever of the destruction of the vessel. It became, in fact, a necessity after the surrender of Norfolk. She could go only twelve miles up the James river, as the water was not deep enough for her—and our gunboats are already far beyond that point. It it is certain that the rebels determined to make another stand in front of Richmond, I should think it strange that they should consent to forego all aid from this formidable vessel, which might at least prevent other gunboats from going to the assistance of the attacking army. But the destruction of the Merrimac confirms the impression I have received from the recent military movements of the rebels, and which I have more than once expressed, that Virginia has been substantially abandoned by the rebel government.

VISIT OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN AND SECRETARIES STANTON AND CHASE TO NORFOLK.

President Lincoln, who has been staying here, as have also the Secretaries of War and the Treasury, for several days, and whose presence and participation in the movements of the last week, have been of the utmost importance to the country, decided to start for Washington this morning in the steamer Baltimore. On hearing the reported destruction of the Merrimac confirmed, he concluded first to have a look at this latest of the cities which has been recovered to the Union. Taking Gen. Wool on board the steamer accordingly, under charge of Commodore Goldsborough, they went down to Norfolk, where the Commodore left for his flagship, and Gen. Wool remained to transact some business connected with the affairs of this new Department. The President did not go ashore, but after taking a look at the city started immediately for Washington. His visit here has been of the utmost unostentatious, but certainly of the most useful sort. He has given his personal attention and care to every department of operations here, and has brought a very excellent and safe judgment to bear upon matters which required something more than mere professional knowledge and skill for their solution. And I do no injustice to others in saying that much of the vigor and success of the recent operations here is due to the stimulus of his presence.

The following is the closing paragraph of Gen. Wool's official report of the occupation of the city:

On the 11th I visited the Navy Yard and found all the workshops, storehouses and other buildings in ruins, having been set on fire by the rebels, who, at the same time, partly blew up the Dry Dock. I also visited Crany Island, where I found 39 guns of large calibre, most of which were spiked; also a large number of shot and shells, without about 5,000 pounds of powder, all of which, with the buildings, were in good order. As far as I have been able to ascertain, we have taken about 200 cannon, including those at Sewall's Point batteries, with a large number of shot and shells, as well as many other articles of value, stationed at the Navy Yard, Crany Island, Sewall's Point and other places.

The merchants in Norfolk declare that they will receive nothing but Confederate money, and say they will have nothing to do with the Lincoln shin-plasters. They were fully confident that in less than twenty days Norfolk would be re-possessed and the Yankees driven out.

The President laid off in the steamer Baltimore about an hour in front of the city, and then steamed back to the Fortress. Secretary Chase returned with him, while Secretary Stanton remained till a late hour in consultation with the Military Governor, Gen. Veile and Gen. Wool.

True to the spirit of secession, the fire, as anticipated, on Saturday, and which threw a broad, red glare to the heavens on Saturday night, proceeded from the destruction of the Navy Yard, done by order of the rebel commandant—scarcely anything being left but black walls and chimneys. Even the unused dry dock was ruined and damaged, and it is said the engine pump belonging to it was removed to Richmond.

SIGNIFICANT ORDER.—General E. Kirby Smith has issued an order to his rebel brigade, declaring that any officer speaking contemptuously of President Davis shall be cashiered, and any private for the same offense court martialled and punished. Probably the secesh soldiers are beginning to "say things." But are they not fighting for liberty?

THE CHURCH OF FRANCE AGAINST SLAVNRY.

From the London Star, April 23d.

Mgr. Dupanloup, Bishop of Orleans, having recently addressed a letter to the clergy of his diocese condemning slavery, the Temps praises without restriction the sentiments of the learned prelate and expresses its satisfaction at being able to admire at the same time the eloquent language employed and the opinions expressed.

We openly acknowledge, says the journal, that the Bishop of Orleans has been happily inspired in this circumstance. While protesting that he will take no part in the lamentable quarrel which now divides the United States, Mgr. Dupanloup sums up the circumstances of it in striking terms; he then recalls the regular, equitable and pacific measures proposed and adopted to put an end to slavery, concluding in the following precise terms:

"It is the first time within sixty years that the central power has adopted a decided line of conduct in the matter, and that it has engaged the entire nation in a vigorous effort against the evil. The question, therefore, without being terminated, is seriously entered on; a step has been made, a path of hope has been opened. That is an additional motive for myself, and an imperious need to pray God that He may deign to bless an enterprise the pacific solution of which must be ardently wished for."

Then, rising above the local question, Mgr. Dupanloup combats hand to hand the principle of slavery, and terminates by quoting that famous declaration of the Council of La Rochelle, drawn up in 1853, shortly after the emancipation of the slaves in the French colonies. The Catholic Church has always deplored the severe slavery in which a multitude of men are retained to the great detriment of their souls, and has never ceased to labor to remedy so great an evil. Without, indeed, examining too closely if that has always been the doctrine of the Catholic Church, we applaud the "ardent vows" formed by Mgr. Dupanloup, "that this severe slavery should at length cease on the entire surface of the Christian world."

The Bishop of Orleans does not confine his hopes to the liberation of negroes in America, but in noble language he exclaims in terminating:

"Alas! slaves are not the only people oppressed. There are countries even in Europe, for there is an Ireland, there is a Poland, there is a Syria, where oppression exists under a different form, without being a lesser evil. For myself, I never shall resign myself to any evil; I deplore all, and wish that I were able to remedy all; and if my life is sufficiently long, with the grace of God, I will consecrate it entirely to contributing my weak share of effort and labor to effacing one by one, all those scourges which desolate humanity. If I could act I would do so; if I could speak I would raise my voice; if I can only pray, I will at least address my prayer to God."

GOVERNOR JOHNSON AND THE "SECESH" LADIES.

From the Nashville Banner.

A very entertaining dialogue occurred some days ago in the Governor's office, between Governor Johnson and two rebel ladies of this city, who came to complain of the occupation of the residence belonging to the rebel husband of one of the ladies by a United States officer. The conversation was substantially as follows:

Lady—I think it too dreadful for a woman in my lonesome condition to have her property exposed to injury and destruction.

Governor—Well, madam, I will inquire into the matter, and, if any injustice has been done, will try to have it corrected. But your husband, you admit, has gone off with the rebels, and you abandoned your dwelling.

Lady—My husband went off South because it was to his interest to do so. You mustn't find fault with anybody for taking care of himself these times. You know, Governor, that all things are justifiable in war.

Governor—Well, madam, it appears to me that this broad rule of yours will justify taking possession of your house. According to your maxim, I don't see any reason for helping you out of your difficulty.

Lady—Oh, but I don't mean in that way.

Governor—No, madam, I suppose not. I will try to be more generous to you than your own rule would make me. I do not believe in your rule that "All things are justifiable in time of war." But that is just what you rebels insist upon. It is perfectly right and proper for you to violate the laws, to destroy this government, but it is all wrong for us to execute the laws to maintain the government.

The rebel ladies looked around in various directions, and seemed to think that they had opened a knotty argument on a dangerous subject, with a very hard adversary. Heaving a long sigh, they retired, to become we earnestly hope, "wiser and better men."

THE MICHIGAN WAY.

In a letter from Camp Winfield Scott, near Warwick Court House, Yorktown, dated the 19th ult., we find the following bit of sharp practice on the rebel sharpshooters:

Lieutenant Colonel Childs, of a Michigan regiment, with a detachment of six hundred men, executed a bold piece of work in the night. Taking advantage of the absence of the rebel sharpshooters from the rifle pits—rifle pit shooting is exclusively a daylight avocation—he had pits dug for our sharpshooters in advance of those heretofore used by the enemy. At daylight our sharpshooters were in the pits ready for their day's work. A good deal of astonishment in facial expression and of executing semi-circles in the air with their heels, was exhibited by the rebel riflemen as they came to take possession of their hiding places. Several laid themselves out at astonishing lengths on the ground, never to rise again until something louder and more effective than the crack and whizzing of rifle bullets rouses and re-animates them. Our sharpshooters say they killed some dozen of the enemy before they became fully aware of their presence and could get out of the way.

THE CAPTURE OF NEW ORLEANS.—The official dispatches received at the Navy Department tell the story of the capture of New Orleans completely. They make a narative of singular interest, and they describe an achievement that will live in history as one of unsurpassed brilliancy. No navy has ever done deeds of greater valor and skill than were done by the fleets under Commodore Farragut and Commodore Porter. Even the heroism of what we have proudly regarded as the heroic period of our naval history—the period of Paul Jones, Decatur, Lawrence, Perry and their contemporaries—seems to be eclipsed by the heroism of these times. Farragut, Porter, Boggs, Bailey, Morris, Worden and a score of other officers who have distinguished themselves in this war, will live for ever in our naval annals. The capture of New Orleans, and the men engaged in it, will make a chapter in our naval history that will be read with wonder and pride by all future generations.

DANIEL GRAY.

The following poem appeared anonymously in one of the earlier numbers of the Atlantic Monthly. Its author is Dr. Holland, and "Daniel Gray" was the poet's father. It is a most beautiful life picture:

If I shall ever win the home in heaven,
For whose sweet rest I humbly hope and pray;
In the great company of the forgiven
I shall be sure to find old Daniel Gray.

I knew him well; in fact few knew him better,
For my young eyes oft read for him the Word
And saw how meekly from the crystal letter
He drank the life of his beloved Lord.

Old Daniel Gray was not a man who lifted
On ready words his freight of gratitude,
And was not called upon among the gifted,
In the prayer meetings of his neighborhood,

He had a few old-fashioned words and phrases,
Linked in with sacred texts and Sunday rhymes
And I suppose that in his prayers and graces,
I've heard them all at least a thousand times.

I see him now—his form, and face, and motions,
His homespun habit and his silver hair,
And hear the language of his trite devotions,
Rising behind the straight backed kitchen chair.

I can remember how the sentence sounded—
"Help us, O Lord, to pray and not to faint?"
And how the "conquering-and-to-conquer" rounded
The loftier aspirations of the saint.

He had some notions that did not improve him;
He never kissed his children, so they say,
And finest scenes and fairest flowers would move him,
Less than a horse shoe picked up in the way.

He could see nought but vanity in beauty,
And nought but weakness in a fond caress.
He pitied men whose views of Christian duty
Allowed indulgence in such foolishness.

Yet there was love and tenderness within him,
And I am told that when his Charlie died,
Nor Nature's need nor gentle words could win him
From his fond visions at the sleeper's side.

And when they came to bury little Charlie,
They found fresh dew drops mingled in his hair,
And on his breast a rosebud, gathered early,
And guessed, but did not know, who placed it there.

My good old friend was very hard on fashion,
And held its votaries in lofty scorn,
And often burst into a holy passion
While the gay crowd went by on Sunday morn.

Yet he was vain, Old Gray, and did not know it,
He wore his hair unparted, long and plain,
To hide the handsome brow that swept below it
For fear the world would think that he was vain.

He had a hearty hatred of oppression,
And righteous words for sin of every kind;
Alas, that the transgressor and transgression
Were linked so closely in his honest mind.

Yet that sweet tale of grief without repentance,
Told of the Master, touched him to the core,
And fearless, he could never read the sentence,
"Neither do I condemn thee; sin no more."

Honest and faithful, constant in his calling,
Strictly attendant on the means of grace,
Instant in prayer, and fearful most of falling,
Old Daniel Gray was always in his place.

A practical old man, and yet a dreamer,
He thought that in some strange, unlooked for way,
His mighty Friend in Heaven, the Great Redeemer,
Would honor him with wealth some golden day.

This dream he carried in a hopeful spirit,
Until in death his patient eye grew dim,
And his Redeemer called him to inherit
The heaven of wealth long garnered up for him.

So if I ever win the home in heaven,
For whose sweet rest I humbly hope and pray,
In the great company of the forgiven
I shall be sure to find old Daniel Gray.

A SECESSIONIST AND A SAVAGE.—Lieut Beverly Kennon, late of the United States Navy, is now a prisoner on board of the Oneida. In the engagement at New Orleans he commanded the steamer Governor Moore, formerly the Morgan. Kennon states that the fight was one of unparalleled fury. The Cayuga fired a stand of grape at his pivot gun where fifteen men were stationed; thirteen of his men were killed by it, one man and himself alone escaping. Previous to the fight his steward in some manner displeased him, and he in his fury and madness literally hacked him to pieces with his sword, and then threw him overboard half alive. This vile wretch says that a ship gave him a broadside which sunk him. He then set her on fire without making the feeblest attempt to rescue his wounded and dying. An officer of one of our vessels boarded the Governor Moore, with the intention of putting out the fire; but so far had the flames progressed that he was obliged to leave. He reports that the decks were covered with the dead and dying, some of whom were already in the flames writhing in their last agonies. It was impossible to save the poor fellows, and they burnt up, many of them alive. The horrors of that morning will never be known, and I think now that the enemy have lost at least a thousand men in killed and wounded.

The Oneida's officers inform me that at the Chalmette batteries they found over fifty barrels of powder and all the grape shot they wanted. There were no marks of killed or wounded, but they think the enemy carried them off before they landed.

GROSS DECEPTION.—We should'nt be surprised to find the rebels of Louisiana bringing an action against our naval commanders for "breach of trust." These waggish gentlemen have been enacting the "gay deceivers" with the simple minded "secesh." They played all manner of shabby tricks upon them at Forts Jackson and St. Philip; "made believe" that they had abandoned the effort to take the forts; retreated towards the Balize; drew their gunboats out, pounced upon them unawares and crushed them like so many egg shells. Then they dressed the masts of their mortar boats with evergreens, so that the rebels couldn't tell which were mortar boats and which were trees; overhauled the fire rafts that were sent to destroy them, "put them out," and towed them ashore; caught their "ram" by the horns and slaughtered him before their face and eyes; run the gauntlet of their batteries before they were fairly up in the morning; and performed a series of other Yankee tricks too numerous and too disgusting to mention.

We don't wonder the rebels are disgusted. We don't wonder the Mayor of New Orleans talked broken English to Commodore Farragut. We don't wonder Hollins was "amazed." To be whipped by the "mudsills" was disgraceful enough; but to be "fooled" by them in the bargain—this is the sublime of humiliation.—Albany Jour.

—The gallant Farrigut, having finished New Orleans, is said to be near the entrance of Mobile Bay. Only Fort Pike, a small fortification, obstructs his entrance to the Bay. After finishing that fortification, we may at any time hear of his knocking at the doors of the Mobilians. His affair at New Orleans seems only to have whetted his appetite.

—"Old Virginia" has now had about a year's experience in the interesting experiment of secession. It is becoming quite a general query, "how she likes it as far as she has got?"

MAY.—DYSPEPSIA.—This is a very distressing complaint, and gives the patient more suffering than almost any other disease. In fact, it is a combination of many complaints in one. The symptoms are numerous, and of the nature of almost all other complaints combined. From this fact arise the very many cases where this disease is mistaken for some other and so improperly treated. The first symptoms, indigestion, flatulency, loss of appetite, heartburn, headache etc., if neglected, almost always awaken some dormant disease, and send the poor sufferer to a premature grave. What you must first do is to cleanse the blood and regulate the bowels—to this with the "Mountain Herb Pills," and you can bid defiance to dyspepsia.

CASH CAPITAL.....$100,000
NETT SURPLUS..... 129,000

DIVIDENDS ON CAPITAL LIMITED BY ITS CHARTER TO 7 PER CENT PER CENT PER ANNUM —THE ENTIRE PROFITS GO TO THE POLICY HOLDERS.

This Society was organized in the year 1859, with a cash capital of $100,000 deposited irrevocably with the Insurance Department of the State of New York, in U. S. bonds, on which it allows but 7 per cent. per annum to the stockholders, and the entire profits of the business is shared by the policy holders. The nett profits in two years amounts to $129,000, which shows an unparalleled success in the history of Life Insurance. Its operations are managed by a Board of Directors composed of the ablest business men of the country and its business is conducted entirely on the cash plan. Dividends to the policy holders will be made every five years, and no Company in the country offers equal advantages to its dealers.

The Old Established
OF
R. MARVIN,

SENDS GREETING TO HIS CUSTOMERS IN MINNESOTA, IN DAKOTA TERRITORY, AND BEYOND THE BRITISH LINE.

That being one of the Oldest Business Houses in the State, (the present being the eleventh year of its existence,) R. MARVIN feels confident that he need not urge its claims on the public patronage. The extent of country over which its business has spread is the best proof that its claims are not unrecognized. The unwavering determination which he has felt since the crisis, and in the hardest times, to maintain his business and place it on a par with similar establishments in the largest cities of the West, have been so fully appreciated by the merchants of the State, that he feels bound to redouble his efforts, not only for the benefit of his business, but for the pride he feels in his adopted city.

Mr. R. would call on the citizens of St. Paul, and especially the old residents who remember "the day of small things," not to forget that he still has a

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Rev. J. D. Gross has established several lodges of Good Templars in the vicinity of Prescott, within the last few weeks.

One of the best places to buy your dress goods is at Hogan & Camp's. They have one of the largest and most attractive stocks, and undoubtedly the neatest and pleasantest store in the city. They call particular attention to their stock of dress goods, shawls, &c, also they say the prettiest style of ladies' sacks out.

The sword presentations of the week past, were fittingly concluded as the Fifth passed down the river, by a presentation of a beautiful sword to Lieut. Col. Hubbard, by the citizens of Red Wing, who met him at the boat for that purpose. Rev. Mr. Snow made the presentation speech, which was appropriately responded to by the Colonel.

Sword Presentation at Fort Ripley.—A correspondent writes us that the members of Company C, 5th regiment, presented Second Lieutenant Frank B. Fabes with a beautiful sword, belt and sash, as a token of their regard. The presentation was made by Orderly Sergeant H. D. Brown, in a brief and pertinent speech, to which Lieutenant Fabes replied in appropriate and heartfelt remarks.

New Millinery Fancy Goods.—We take pleasure in calling the attention of our lady readers, this morning, to the new and elegant assortment of Millinery goods, just received from New York, and now opening at the store of Miss S. Wilson, at her new stand on Third street, just opposite Thompson & Bro's. banking office. From a glance at Miss Wilson's assortment—(although no connoisseur in that department of trade) —we can safely promise our lady friends they will not be disappointed in the goods or prices. Particulars will be given in an advertisement in Tuesday morning's paper.

Artemus Ward Coming.—Charles F. Browne, the facetious correspondent of Vanity Fair, will be in St. Paul about the 26th or 30th instant, and will deliver his lecture, "The Children in the Wood." The following is one among the many favorable notices that the lecture has received from the eastern press:

"Artemus Ward's Lecture."—At Clinton Hall, last night, Mr. Charles F. Browne, repeated his celebrated lecture on "The Children in the Wood." It is impossible to resist the contagion of laughter which this lecture invariably causes. The hall was filled to overflowing and the lecture was, in every respect, a success.—N. Y. Times, Jan. 8.

The Fifth Regiment.—Adjutant Gen. Malmros, accompanied the detachment of the Fifth Regiment down the river to Lansing. He has returned, and reports the men in good spirits when he left them. The day of their departure, many of them were sad and down-cast, but the second day they had recovered their good spirits. Gen. Malmros speaks of the sword presentation to Lieut. Col. Hubbard at Red Wing, as an interesting ceremony.

The presentation of a beautiful black charger to Col. Borgersrode, was to take place during the passage. The horse and trappings are the purchase of the officers of the regiment and a few civilians.

Major Gere and Capt. Rice joined the regiment at Winona. Privates, who had been home on furlough, joined the regiment at the towns along the river.

River News.—The river yesterday was at a stand.

The Minnesota and Mississippi are reported falling slowly.

The weather yesterday was cloudy and cool, and at 10 o'clock a rain set in, with evidence of continuing during the night.

The business on the levee yesterday was not as brisk as usual, however a large amount of grain was handled and shipped.

Arrivals.—Northern Belle, from La Crosse, Milwaukee from Prairie du Chien, Favorite from South Bend, and Itasca from St. Anthony Falls.

Departures.—The Moses McLellan for LaCrosse; Northern Light for Prairie du Chien and Dunlieth; Favorite for Mankato; Jeannette Roberts for New Ulm; Antelope for Carver; Albany for Mankato.

The Favorite arrived from the Minnesota river, with a cargo of 4,900 bushels of wheat in barge, and 2,400 sacks, shipped principally from South Bend and Mankato

The Itasca arrived yesterday morning from St. Anthony Falls with a large cargo of flour and wheat, and took on board last evening fifteen hundred sacks at this city. She will be the regular packet for Prairie du Chien and Dunlieth this morning.

The splendid passenger packet Northern Belle, Captain Laughton, Clerk Chas. Hind is the railroad packet at 8 o'clock this morning.

The Clara Hine arrived from Henderson last night and will leave for Henderson at two o'clock on Monday.

The Favorite and Pomeroy of the Davidson line will be in port on Monday morning and leave for the Minnesota river in the afternoon.

The Northerner, Capt. Alford, will arrive from St. Louis this morning and depart again at two o'clock on Monday.

The annual meeting of the Old Settlers Association will be held at the Capitol, on Monday, June 2d, at 3 o'clock P. M., for the choice of officers for the ensuing year, and the transaction of such other business as may come before them.

CHAS. H. OAKES, Secretary.

Lectures on Chemistry, &c.—The subjects selected for Dr. Reid's popular Lectures this summer, are Combustion, Gunpowder, and Steam. The course will comprise ten Lectures, to be given on Mondays and Thursdays at the Academy of Medicine, French's Block, Third street, (near the Post-office,) at 8 o'clock P. M., commencing on the 26th of May. Tickets one dollar.

Special classes for instructions in the Chemistry of Agriculture, Architecture, Arts and Manufactures, and for Mechanics, Miners, and students of general science.

jy23 THOMPSON BROS.

UNION TENNESSEE CONVENTION.

SPEECHES AND RESOLUTIONS.

This Convention of the people of Tennessee on the 12th was large and enthusiastic. It contained men from all portions of the State, embracing the brother of Ex-President Polk and some of the most noted and honorable in the State. We have only space for the following in regard to it, which will be a very fair index to the whole proceedings and speeches.

Gov. Campbell, on taking the chair made a brief and pretinent address. We make the following extract:

"No people on the globe ever went into a revolution so vast and bloody for a cause so trivial. It was a wild and reckless outburst of frenzy like that which swept over France during the days of her fearful revolution. It was not the result of cool, deliberate judgment. In the midst of this night of rebellion patriots had looked for the restoration of the old flag as earnestly and anxiously as the Jews of old looked for a return to the Holy Land from the captivity of Babylon. Some had thought the Government was slow. It was true that great preparations were necessary, but the Government was now here and its flag lifted up again never to be hauled down. Does any one doubt this?

Does any one in his senses believe that the Confederate army has the ghost of a chance to return and reassert its authority over Tennessee? But we are here not to taunt or reproach the misguided. We invite all to help us in restoring the supremacy of the law over Tennessee, and reinstate her in all the privileges and immunities of the Union. We wish to welcome back all our deluded fellow citizens cordially. The Government intends no sweeping confiscation, nor will turning loose of slaves, against the revolted States. It designs no infringement on the rights of property. All will be protected who will be loyal to the Government. We bear no malice toward any one, but deep sympathy for the deluded. He had dear friends and dear relations who had gone astray, and his heart yearned for their return. The Federal Government will pursue a kind, liberal and benevolent policy towards the people of the South, to bring them back to the Union.

Hon. W. B. Stokes in his speech said:

"He was highly gratified to address the people once more under the glorious stars and stripes. There was a day when he knew not whether he would ever be permitted to do it again. He had watched this rebellion from its birth. He knew who concocted the plot, and why they did it. It was his duty to state some facts in the case. He was elected from the Fourth Congressional District when all the States were represented in Congress. Lincoln was elected, and the fire-eaters exclaimed that they would not submit to his election. The members from the cotton States told him they came to Washington, not to legislate, but to dissolve the Union. They said they would not accept the privilege of dictating their own terms on bank paper. They were determined to set up a Confederacy.

* * * "Talk of coercion! Why, he had seen a poor laborer, with a wife and seven children, forced under the lash into the rebel ranks. He had been called a coercionist. Yes, he was for the enforcement of the laws. Can the South succeed? No honest, intelligent man dare say so. It had not a shadow of hope. The government was marching steadily on. If the present force was not enough it would be doubled. The South was in the wrong and ought not to succeed. It was the duty of her people, betrayed as they had been, to return to their allegiance, and to leave those hyenas, their leaders, to the penalties of justice. But let love and leniency be shown to the masses.

The following resolutions were passed unanimously:

Whereas, It is manifest to the most unreflecting that, whilst the State of Tennessee was an integral part of the government of the United States, its citizens were in the enjoyment of the full protection of life, liberty, and property, under the institutions of the United States and the laws passed in accordance therewith, and all of their material and political interests were watchfully and carefully guarded by laws introduced by southern men—representatives of our selection—identified thoroughly with all the interests of our people—which laws were decided to be constitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States, the constitutional tribunal to decide all such questions.

And Whereas, Because of the election constitutionally of a President of the United States who received no support in the State of Tennessee, and the effort of that President to maintain the integrity of the Union, and enforce the laws against armed resistence, our people, in common with the people of other States, were precipitated into a revolution—resorting to the arbitrament of arms for the settlement of our political differences, instead of the peaceable remedies provided by the constitution.

And Whereas, It is evident that the authority of the Federal Government is now exerted over this part of Tennessee, and will be in a short time fully extended over the entire State, and it is the duty of every citizen so to act as to free ourselves from the consequences of internecine war, and to return to the government which is willing and able to protect us.

Therefore, be it Resolved, by a portion of the people of Tennessee, in Convention assembled:

1st. That the social, political, and material interests of the people of Tennessee, and relatives now in the Confederate army, imperiously demand the return of the State to her former relations with the Federal Union.

2d. That all good citizens who concur with us in this opinion are earnestly invited to co-operate in the accomplishment of this object, so vital to our future peace and happiness.

3d. That the Chairman of this meeting appoint a committee of three to take into consideration the condition of prisoners of war from Tennessee, now held in custody by the government, and endeavor to obtain their release and their return to their allegiance upon terms alike compatible with the interests of the government and the honor of the soldier.

4th. That the forbearance, moderation and gentlemanly deportment of the officers and soldiers of the Federal army, since their occupation of Tennessee, challenge our highest admiration.

5th. That this meeting most cordially approve of the address made to the people of Tennessee by his Excellency, Gov. Andrew Johnson, dated March 18th, 1862, and the policy of his administration since that time.

6th. That a committee of five be appointed by the chairman, who shall prepare an address to the people of Tennessee expressive of the object of the meeting.

GEN. BRAGG'S ADDRESS TO THE ARMY.

We find the following address from Gen. Bragg to his army in the Memphis Appeal of the 8th:

Headquarters 2d Corps Army of the Mississippi, Corinth, May 5, 1862.

Soldiers—You are again about to encounter the mercenary invader who pollutes the sacred soil of our beloved country, Severely punished by you, and driven from his chosen positions, with a loss of his artillery and his honor at Shiloh, when double your numbers, he now approaches cautiously and timidly—unwilling to advance, unable to retreat. Could his rank and file enjoy a freeman's right, not one would remain within our limits; but they are goaded on under a tyrant's lash by desperate leaders, whose only safety lies in success.

Such a foe ought never to conquer freemen, battling upon their own soil.

You will encounter him in your chosen position, strong by nature and improved by art—away from his main support and reliance—gunboats and heavy batteries, and, for the first time in the war, with nearly equal numbers. The slight reverses we have met on the seaboard have worked us good as well as evil; the brave troops so long retained there have hastened to swell your numbers, while the gallant Van Dorn and the invincible Price, with the ever successful 'army of the West,' are now in your midst, with numbers almost equaling the 'army of Shiloh.' We have then but to strike and destroy, and, as the enemy's whole resources are concentrated here, we shall not only redeem Tennessee, Kentucky, and Missouri at one blow, but open the portals of the whole Northwest.

(Official.) BRAXTON BRAGG,
General Commanding Second Corps.
Geo. G. Garner, Assistant Adjutant General.

FIVE HUNDRED VIRGINIAN REBELS DESERT IN A BODY AND TAKE THE OATH.

Washington, May 13.—The Wyndank arrived this morning from the Rappahannock. Her officers report that the Freeborn and Island Belle went up the Prankatouk on Saturday, and cut off two rebel schooners, one with a valuable cargo of whisky, and the other stores.

The Belle proceeded up the latter river some distance, and discovered a body of about five hundred rebel deserters from the Gloucester Point batteries, who stated that when the order was given to evacuate, they being disgusted with the service, determined to surrender. They belonged to a Virginia regiment.

They offered to lay down their arms, and expressed willingness to take the oath of allegiance, which Captain Harris, of the Belle, administered to all of them.

—The government has already made provision for sending the mails to New Orleans and has ordered a ship load of commissary stores sent, to be at the disposal of General Butler, to supply the needy of that city.

Persons unacquainted with the Melodeon and its history, will bear in mind that we are the pioneers and leading manufacturers, not only in the United States, but in the world. We commenced the manufacture of Melodeons in the fall of the year 1847, and since that time have finished and sold TWENTY-SEVEN THOUSAND. These instruments are now in use mostly in the United States and Canada, but also in Europe, Asia, Africa, South America and the West Indies, and from all these quarters we have the most flattering testimonials of the high estimation in which they are held.

At all Industrial Exhibitions they have invariably been awarded the Highest Premium whenever Exhibited in Competition with Others.

We shall take pleasure in forwarding by mail (at our own expense) our illustrated Catalogue, in which every instrument we manufacture is fully described, and illustrated by elegant engravings.

All Melodeons of our manufacture, either sold by us or dealers in any part of the United States or Canada, are warranted to be perfect in every respect, and should any repairs be necessary before the expiration of five years from date of sale, we hol ourselves ready and willing to make the same free of charge, provided the injury is not caused by accident or design

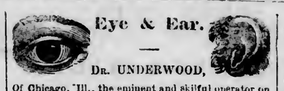
Eye & Ear.



Dr. UNDERWOOD,

Of Chicago, Ill., the eminent and skilful operator on the Eye and Ear, whose name and fame is so extensively known throughout the United States, for his science, skill and success in performing formidable operations, and in removing difficult and dangerous diseases from those delicate organs, has arrived in St. Paul and may be consulted at the AMERICAN HOUSE for a short time only.

Dr. U., who is a regular Physician and Surgeon of the old school, has had an extensive experience in both hospital and private practice of twenty-eight years, and will be found competent to perform any operation necessary to restore lost sight or hearing, or by other mild and gentle means to remove any disease from those delicate organs within the reach of science and human skill.

CHRONIC DISEASES, of every grade and character, whether requiring medical or surgical treatment, POSITIVELY and PERMANENTLY CURED, when not clearly beyond the reach of science and human skill.

Dr. Underwood treats all diseases on regular and scientific principles, as recognized by the medical profession both in Europe and America, and hence does not use or deal in those pretended new and never failing remedies—specifics, inhaling vapors, and clairvoyant prescription—which are so ostentatiously paraded before the public by those impudent traveling quacks and money-fleecing empirics, nine-tenths of whom never were inside of a medical college. Patients afflicted or laboring under diseases of long standing, can consult Dr. U. with the most confident hope and expectation of being perfectly cured, or receiving with unerring certainty all the relief that the highest skill, the most judicious and scientific treatment can possibly bestow.

Among the diseases which the Doctor has lately treated with the most signal success, may be mentioned those of the Heart, Lungs, Liver, Stomach and Bowels—and Nervous Affections, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Salt Rheum and Chronic Female Affections. my7-3m

TRIOMPHE DE GAND.

We unhesitatingly place this variety at the very head of the list of strawberries. Another year's trial has only confirmed our opinion of its superior worth. Were we confined to one variety, it should be the Triomphe de Gand. No other kind, of which we have any knowledge, possess so many excellencies. Indeed, with us, it approaches so nearly perfection as to leave but little more to be desired.

The plants are thrifty, hardy and vigorous growers, bearing their fruit well up, which renders it easily to be kept clean. They are also wonderfully productive with us, but it is not only usually of large size but UNIFORMLY so, and throughout the season, which is longer with it than with most other varieties. The flavor is everything that could be desired. It is of a very beautiful crimson color, glossy and very attractive. It keeps well after being picked, retaining its beautiful color and firmness, and carries better than any other variety.

We claim that all articles sent out from our establishment are what they profess to be—true to name—and of good quality. Our prices, we think, are reasonable—not "below" or "at cost" of production, but such as to afford a fair profit, to which, we think, we are justly entitled. We are not ambitious to give to our establishment the reputation of a low priced nursery, but one where a genuine article of the best quality can be had, and that will give satisfaction to the purchaser.

LA CROSSE AND ST. PAUL

PACKET COMPANY.

SUMMER ARRANGEMENT

During the season of 1862, till the close of navigation, the La Crosse and St. Paul Packet Company, having completely equipped their Line, and made large additions to their business facilities, will offer to shippers and passengers on the river greater inducements and conveniences, and QUICKER TIME, than was ever offered by any company on the river.

All the boats on the Chippewa, Minnesota, St. Croix and the upper Mississippi rivers, and the different lines of stages north of La Crosse will the coming season run to connect with the Davidson boats and the La Crosse and Milwaukee Railroad.

The La Crosse and St. Paul Packet Company will run a

PASSENGER AND FREIGHT LINE.

The former will number two first class boats—the nicest and fastest on the river. They will be the McCLELLAN and NORTHERN BELLE. The first will be the Lightning Line, making the run from La Crosse to St. Paul in EIGHTEEN HOURS, and returning will leave here in the morning, and arrive at La Crosse in twelve hours time, to connect with the evening train, by which passengers will make close connection and reach Milwaukee in time for cars, or boats on the Lake in TWENTY HOURS FROM ST. PAUL, and reach Chicago next morning, by Minnesota Junction or Milwaukee, in just TWENTY-FOUR HOURS FROM LEAVING ST. PAUL, and in time for close connection East! This will be twelve hours the quickest time between these the cities ever made! Nothing but passengers, the mails express matter, and express goods will be carried on these boats, which will be furnished in the best of style. Passengers will thus have daylight to view the grand beauties of the river, and good sleeping cars from La Crosse to Chicago—a great item. Arrangements have also been perfected so that all the boats of the upper rivers, and all the stage lines will run in close connection

The other line will number three regular boats; the Keokuk, G. H. Wilson and Wenona, one of which will leave La Crosse daily on the arrival of the morning train from the East, connecting at all points north, and will also make close connections. The Favorite will run as a triweekly packet between St. Paul and Mankato, on the Minnesota river

A daily line will also run between St Anthony and St. Cloud on the Upper Mississippi, for passenger and freight business. All of which are to connect with the boats above named, plying between La Crosse and St. Paul, and connecting with the La Crosse and Milwaukee Railroad.

This Company have just completed at St. Paul, a mammoth wharf boat, which will hold seven hundred tons of freight; and to or from which goods of all kinds can be carried to any part of the city, without further handling or danger of breakage

Shippers of freight to St. Paul by this line or over the La Crosse and Milwaukee Railroad in connection, will, by shipping to the care of J. C. Burbank & Co., have their goods delivered FREE in the City, or forwarded to all points North FREE of WAREHOUSE OR STAGE CHARGES. Goods going the other way have the same advantages.

To avoid all delays, and to make the closest connections and quickest time, see that your tickets are for this line and no other.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

HURRAH FOR THE OLD NORTH STATE!

The memory of Mecklenburgh is honored and revived. The State within whose borders the first declaration of independence from the dominion of Great Britain was framed and adopted, is now the first to declare herself free from the tyranny of a usurper whose oppressions and desolations have been worse than the delegated cruelty of ten thousand Britains. All this is true if the report be true, that comes to us having all intrinsic evidence of truth, that Gov. Clark of North Carolina, has refused to further aid the sinking cause of Jeff. Davis, and has recalled the troops in service from that State, only permitting the miserable victims of the slaveholders' rebellion from other States to pass through North Carolina in the peaceful pursuit of their homes; and that a Convention of the people have so decreed.

A REPULSE.

We have a bit of bad news this morning—to vary the hitherto recently unvarying successes that the lightning messenger has brought us. It seems authentic that the federal fleet of gunboats up the James river have been repulsed by a rebel Fort seven miles below Richmond. Rather a damper upon the high expectation the country has entertained of the invincibility and powers of the trinity of iron-clad gunboats that led the attack.

HUNTER'S PROCLAMATION.

This second bugle blast of Freedom seems destined to provoke as much controversy and speculation as the first.

We give credit to the statement that whatever modification of the proclamation may be ordered by the President, Gen. Hunter will not be removed or in any way humiliated.

The bold Hunter of the Carolinas has not been set upon, Acteon-like, by his dogs, as was the Free-Mountain Ranger of the West.

SERIOUS ILLNESS OF SENATOR RICE.

A dispatch for the Associated Press to the Chicago papers of Saturday, which failed to reach St. Paul, states that the Hon. Henry M. Rice was extremely ill with hemorrhage of the lungs, and that fears were entertained for his recovery.

COL. CORCORAN TO BE RELEASED AT LAST.

The news that the gallant Col. Corcoran is at last to be released by the rebel authorities, will give general satisfaction. A dispatch from Washington dated the 16th, has the following in regard to his exchange:

The Secretary of War, upon application of Representative Ely, has ordered the release of Col. W. F. Baldwin, of Va., to be exchanged for Col. Corcoran.

Capt. Patrick and Lieut. Dempsey, recently released as prisoners of war, from Richmond, who have been a week in Washington, had represented to the President and Secretary of War, the necessity and justice of this arrangement, on account of Col. Corcoran's health, and aided by Mr. Ely, they have succeeded.

THE HOMESTEAD BILL.

If this beneficent, wise, and grandly national and freedom promoting measure, recently adopted by Congress, has not been properly heralded and welcomed by the Press, it was an oversight, and not because of any indifference, or lack of appreciation. Our sympathies have have all been with the measure, and we hail its adoption by the Government as the policy of the nation in regard to the public domain, with unmingled joy. Land monopoly has been a curse and constant source of corruption, and wild and ruinous speculation to the country, and we rejoice that Free Homesteads for free American Labor, is henceforth to bless the earth with fruitfulness, in place of the leanness and barreness of non resident landed proprietorship.

All honor and gratitude to the men who have pushed forward to success this measure. To our representatives in Congress especially, we are indebted for their perseverring labors in its behalf.

The Republican Party through its first Administration and its first Congress, had nobly redeemed its promise to the People. And in this, and the emancipation in the District of Columbia, has graven its name high upon the arches of immortality.

—Considerable disparity exists between the calculations of different correspondents as to the number of men under the command of Gen. Halleck. On this subject the New York Tribune says:

That Gen. Halleck's army is outnumbered by that which confronts it, is an open secret. Beauregrard has the larger force, but much of it is green and badly armed. We trust Gen. Halleck will strengthen his position and be content for the present to hold it. The Rebels are scantily and we think badly fed, and delay must play havoc with their resources. Let the rebellion receive a few more hard knocks in other quarters before an attempt is made on the entrenchments of Beauregard. At least, we feel sure that the great Confederacy is to-day more vulnerable almost anywhere else than at Corinth.

—A Washington correspondent of the New York Commercial Advertiser says: "There is quite a struggle by Senators and Representatives to have the names of friend inserted in the Pacific railroad bill as commissioners, as it is supposed that they will have more or less to do with the appointment or election of those who are to disburse the sixty or seventy millions of dollars from the Treasury, which the road is to cost."

CHICAGO.

The Northwest has an especial interest and pride in the great city that has, as if by magic, grown up in less time than a generation of men, at the head of Lake Michigan. The growth of Chicago has been coeval and coequal with the Northwest that has strode so rapidly to wealth and empire in the last thirty years. Whatever local feeling and pride the people of the cities in the Northwest may have, and however ambitious of commercial agrandizement, we may, and all should have a common interest and pride in the prosperity and advancement of the great metropolis that does and will continue to overshadow all.

The interests of the metropolis and the lesser cities that environ it near and remote are identical and reciprocal.

St. Paul may have her hundred thousand inhabitants, Chicago will have a million. A recent visit to the city, that now takes rank as the greatest grain and meat exporting mart in the world, has more than ever impressed us with the high commercial character and destiny of Chicago. It has now all the elements and characteristics of a great city—all the busy teeming life and activity that distinguishes the true city of commerce, from the merely overgrown, plethoric town. Chicago has no rival inland on this continent if she is but true to herself. Her influence in National legislation, control of capital, and direction of thought enable her to advance the development of the Northwest, that will in turn repay a hundred fold all the effort and money that she expends. The Northwest has built Chicago, and Chicago has helped build the Northwest.

The vast empire of Territory that still lies unbroken and undeveloped this side and beyond the international boundary, and westward to the rocky mountains, must all be ultimately tributary to Chicago. We trust her business men, capitalists and legislators appreciate this fact, and will seek intelligently to aid that developement which will return to them its benefits.

EDWARD EVERETT COMING TO ST. PAUL.

Our readers will be no less gratified to hear, than it is pleasant to us to announce, that this distinguished man has accepted the invitation of the Young Men's Christian Association to visit Minnesota and deliver in St. Paul his address on the origin and history of the rebellion. H. M. Knox, Esq., Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., received a letter yesterday, in which Mr. Everett accepts the invitation, and states that he will be here about the middle of June—the time to be definitely announced hereafter.

Mr. Everett is doubtless the foremost living orator in America. No man of his distinguished public services, reputation, scholarship and talents, has ever favored Minnesota with a public address. In some, but not all of these, Mr. Seward is his peer. His long life has been one of constant and conspicuous service, varying from the National councils in both branches, to a seat in the Cabinet as the successor of Webster—Minister at the highest Court in the world, Governor of the grand old commonwealth of Massachusetts, President of the highest seat of learning in the land, and now closing the rich experience of his life, with the most patriotic efforts to inspire the people with ardent devotion for the cause of our country—presenting such historic evidence and logical demonstration of the justness our cause, as no other man has done.

We trust that the officers of the Association under whose auspices Mr. Everett visits us and speaks, will duly appreciate the occasion, and make the most ample provisions possible for the great assembly that will meet the Cicero of America. The largest Hall in the city should be procured, and the price of tickets, instead of fifty cents, as in the case of Bayard Taylor's lectures, should be but twenty-five cents. Better have two thousand people at twenty-five cents, than one thousand at fifty cents. The people of Shakopee, Henderson, Hastings, Stillwater and St. Anthony will largely attend if arrangements are made, as they can be, for half fare on steamboats and stages.

The greatest difficulty will be in finding a hall large enough. Governor Seward spoke in the day-time, out of doors. But by extraordinary preparation our largest halls can be made to seat double the number that are ordinarily accommodated.

Our people will probably never have an opportunity of hearing Mr. Everett again in Minnesota, and his letter implies that he will speak but once in this vicinity.

THE SEASON HERE AND ELSEWHERE.

A trip recently as far South as latitude 40 in Illinois, enables us to compare the season here and there. Spring is not more advanced five degrees south of St. Paul than it is here. Ten days ago the prairies of Illinois, and the groves—few and far between as they are—were quite bare. The few warm days at the beginning of last week were bringing forth the leaves and grass; but upon our return here we found vegetation farther advanced than we left it below.

Although backward, the season is sufficiently advanced if we have good weather from this forward.

—Paris correspondence says the Egper. or Napoleon refused the invitation to occupy Buckingham Palace and attend the opening of the London Exhibition, coupled as it was with Victoria's announcement that she could not deviate, even for him, from her resolve not to receive strangers during the first year of her widowhood. The Emperor's manner to Lord Cowley, who bore the invitation, was not very complimentary.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—There are are 7,000 sick soldiers in St. Louis Hospitals.

—The Portage City Register says that the tide of emigration which has been flowing through that city this spring, bound for the northern part of Wisconsin and Minnesota, is greater than for the past five years.

—The notorious Jayhawker, Captain Cleveland, whose band of robbers has infested Northern Kansas for some months past, was arrested at Ossawatomie on the 11th by Lieutenant Walker and ten men of the Kansas Sixth. Cleveland broke away from his guard and was killed while attempting to escape. One of his band named Barbour, was arrested at the same time and taken to Fort Leavenworth for safe keeping.

—Richmond papers contain numerous advertisements of deserters from the rebel army. One advertisement names forty-two from an Alabama regiment; another one hundred and eighty-three from the 1st Virginia.

—The Charleston Courier publishes an article of an extraordinary and most significant character, admitting the hopelessness of the rebel cause, and acknowledging that the misfortunes which have befallen the rebellious States are not more than their iniquities deserve.

—Among the passengers by the steamer Oriental, which sailed for Port Royal from New York on the 16th, was Captain Rufus Sexton, Regular army, now Brigadier General of Volunteers. He is the new Military Governor of South Carolina and the Department of the South, which includes the whole district of Gen. Hunter's command.

—The Government is now replenishing its stock of horses, repairing the waste of the winter. Purchases are being made in droves of from 100 to 1 000, at prices ranging from $60 to $110. Five hudred have been shipped from Chicago, and over 1,000 from Wheeling within the past few weeks.

—The Richmond Dispatch says it's bad enough to lose New Orleans, "but that B. F. Butler should be put in command of the forsaken city is the last drop in the bitter cup of humiliation and shame."

—Since the 24th of March the importation of cotton has amounted to 3,926 bales—all of it captured in Tennessee.

— The provisions of the Homestead Bill, as agreed upon by the Committee of Conference, are extended to all in the military or naval service of the United States, whether naturalized or not, whether twenty-one years of age or not. Disloyal persons are precluded from availing themselves of it. Forty, eighty, one hundred and twenty, or one hundred and sixty acres can be located, and the settlers of a tract of forty acres bordering upon Government land can take enough to complete the section.

—Hon. Edward Everett has been on a visit to Chicago, and on Friday last paid a visit to the rebel prisoners at Camp Douglas.

—The Navy Department has information that on the 1st inst., acting Lieutenant Nichols, of the Onward, dispatched acting Master Sloper in his vessel's launch in chase of the schooner Sarah, about 100 tons burden, endeavoring to run the blockade of Bull's Bay, on the coast of South Carolina. Her crew thereupon ran her ashore and burned her, themselves escaping.

—Some of the prisoners recently released from Richmond, state that one Holmes, a private in the Fourteenth Brooklyn, who had escaped from a tobacco warehouse, was recently hung at Richmond on a change of counterfeiting Confederate Treasury notes.

—Dispatches from Colonel Daniel's head quarters, near Bloomfield, Missouri, contain accounts of the capture of the notorious Colonel Phelps, of Jeff. Thompson's band of marauders, and over one hundred of his men. Fifty men, it is said, gave themselves up, and expressed a desire to return to a quiet and peaceable life.

—On the 14th inst., a soldier belonging to Colonel Cameron's regiment was shot and killed, when on his way homeward on a furlough, by a rebel assassin, when near Pittsburg, Missouri. He was unarmed, and was murdered from sheer rebel malignity by an assassin. Colonel Catherwood, who is most energetic in suppressing the bushwhacking banditti, as soon as the fact was known, dispatched a party of cavalry in pursuit of the murderers. Hopes are entertained of securing the guilty man, and bringing him to punishment.

—The emancipation meeting in Hannibal, Missouri, is one of those indications of the current of opinion that are worthy of notice. Marion is one of the heavy slave holding counties of the State. In that Congressional district there were over 30,000 slaves, by the census of 1860. The men, too, who were foremost in this meeting, themselves slaveholders (several of them at least), seemed to represent a growing opinion in a new quarter, in favor of ridding this State of slavery. They are not fanatics or agitators, but sober-minded, practical men, who perceive the state of the case—that Missouri is in a dilemma, her position repelling all valuable immigration, and that her only mode of extrication is by adopting an emancipation policy.—St. Louis Dem.

It is pretty generally believed now that Gen. Nelson's finding and recognizing the body of Sidney Johnston was a sell. I have heretofore stated the evidences on which the recognition rested. As it seems established that Johnston's body was taken South, it can hardly have been left on the field. It is now said that the body we found must have been that of Col. Preston, of South Carolina, who is said to have been here and to have remarkably resembled Gen. Johnston in feature and size. Generals Nelson and Rosseau had never seen Preston, and hence their mistaking him for Johnston was all the more natural. Cor. Cin. Gazette.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

For Farm and Garden Lands, see advertisement of Henry McKenty.

Death of a Policeman.— James Eagan, lately of the police force, died at Muller's Hotel, on Jackson street, on Sunday evening. His funeral is announced to take place this morning at ten o'clock, from the Conference Hall of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, on Wabashaw street.

Chaplain of the Fifth Minnesota Regiment.—This regiment left St. Paul for the seat of war, without a Chaplain, but while on board the boat the officers of the regiment indicated their preference for the Rev. J. R. Chaffee, of Minneapolis, and he has accordingly been commissioned for that office by Governor Ramsey.

Military Commissions Vacated.—The Adjutant General, while the Fifth Regiment was en route to the seat of war, vacated the commissions of Captain Clark and Lieutenant Leib, of Company I, and the company having been apprised of the fact, the members proceeded to an election, which resulted in the choice of Lieutenant Leib as Captain, and Dan Kelley as Second Lieutenant.

Clerk of the Court in Sherburne County.—John. E. Putnam, Esq., has been appointed by Judge Vanderburg Clerk of the District Court in Sherburne county. Mr. Putnam has been qualified and is ready for business. Heretofore papers have had to be filed in Benton county, to which Sherburne was attached for judicial purposes. Hereafter court business can be transacted with Mr. Putnam at Big Lake, the county seat of Sherburne county.

More Caribou Emigrants.—Quite a body of Canadians arrived in this city yesterday en route to the gold diggings in British Columbia. They leave in a day or two on Burbank's stages for Georgetown, on Red River, where they take steamer to Fort Garry.

The emigration in the direction of Caribou is rapidly increasing, every coach for Red River carrying a full load of gold seekers.

Steamboat Race.—Considerable speculation has been indulged in for a day or two past, by a portion of our citizens, and especially those engaged in the river trade, on account of rumors that a race was in contemplation between two of our first class steamers. Capt. Hurd, of the Itasca, we believe, has offered to run his boat from the head to the foot of Lake Pepin against any competitor for $1,000 a side.

Capt. Hatcher, of the Keokuk, announces that when the offer is formally made over a responsible signature, he will accept the challenge.

Personal.—The many friends of A. Pratt, Agent of the Illinois Central Railroad, (and we believe also of the Galena and Chicago Union,) will be pleased to learn that he has so far recovered from his late illness that he arrived on the Milwaukee Sunday evening. We congratulate the roads he represents and the business men of the Northwest in having so honorable a man restored to them again. He will remain in Saint Paul two or three days looking after the interests of the lines of road he represents, and will be pleased to meet all of his old friends once more.

The District Court was engaged all day yesterday, and until a late hour last night, in trying the case of the State vs. John Howard, on an indictment for highway robbely. It will be recollected that in September last a man who had sold a lot of cattle in St. Paul, was attacked and robbed of a considerable sum of money, near the Cave, where he had encamped with his team for the night. It was testified we believe that several men were engaged in the robbery, and that the defendant in this case was one of the parties. The case went before the jury at a late hour last night.

The Adams House, Chicago.—This hotel is the most conveniently located first class hotel in the city of Chicago, and we can fully recommend it to the public. Now that the Richmond House is closed, the Adams is the only first class house near the great central Union Depot, to and from which almost everybody who travels through Chicago passes. The Adams is just across the street from the depot. If you are going East and stop over night at the Adams you do not have to hurry in the morning to take a bus and ride several squares to get to the train in time, as is the case stopping at hotels in the distant parts of the city. You save time and omnibus fare. If you are coming from the East, you get to the Adams without delay and without the expense and annoyance of the bus ride.

In traveling we have not met more gentlemanly and obliging proprietors and clerks, or more attentive servants than at the Adams.

From the Third Regiment.—Mr. F. R. Newell, who has just arrived from the seat of war in Tennessee, places us under obligations for a late number of the Memphis Appeal. The Third was at Murfreesboro last week, but was momentarily expecting an order to march for duty either at Corinth, or elsewhere in its immediate vicinity. The regiment was in splendid condition, and in drill, and all other soldierly qualities, was regarded as among the very best, even when compared with the crack regiments of Ohio and Illinois.

Mr. Newell was on a train of cars on the way to Murfreesboro from Nashville, (as was also Sutler Daniel Rohrer,) which came near falling into the hands of Morgan's secesh Cavalry, who were on the lookout for the train. A contraband informed the conductor that Morgan's band of desperadoes had been seen in that vicinity, and the conductor consequently kept a sharp lookout ahead. As the train cautiously approached a bend in the road, obstructions on the track were discovered, and the engineer barely had time to reverse the engine for a retrograde movement, before the cavalry made a dash for the cars. Steam, however, was superior to horseflesh, and the train escaped. Wolford's United States Cavalry shortly after went in pursuit of Morgan's band, and dispersed them. Messrs. Newell and Rohrer are of course congratulated on their narrow escape.

River News.—The river has fallen four inches since Saturday night.

The Minnesota is also reported to be falling rapidly.

The Milwaukee arrived on Sunday with a cargo of 150 tons, nearly all of which was delivered here. Forty tons consisted of annuity goods for the Indians.

The Moses McLellan, Capt. Martin, arrived yesterday, and will leave at 8 o'clock this morning. John Cochran graces the clerk's desk of this fine steamer.

The Key City leaves this morning for Prairie du Chien and Dunlieth.

The Jeannette Roberts is expected to arrived on Monday and on Tuesday will start on a trip to Red Wood.

The Northern Belle and War Eagle will arrive to day.

The arrivals yesterday and Sunday were the Key City, Milwaukee, Keokuk, Moses McLellan, Northern Belle, Favorite, Clara Hine, Antelope, Eolian and Pomeroy.

The departures were the Itasca, Northern Belle, Milwaukee, Keokuk, Northerner, Favorite, Clara Hine, Eolian and Antelope.

DIED.

At his residence near this city on Monday morning, May 19th, Alexander Buchanan, aged 56 years. The funeral will be at the First Presbyterian Church this afternoon at three o'clock. The friends of the deceased are invited to attend.

—The subject of the above notice was one of our most esteemed citizens. He was for several years County Auditor, and had been during the many years of his residence here in daily intercourse with the business men of St. Paul. He was a native of Scotland, and had been in this country about fifteen years. He was the President of the St. Andrew's Society of this city. His departure from the scenes of earth will be deplored by many warmly attached friends.

WINSLOW'S LINE.

AN ENGAGEMENT NEAR RICHMOND.

Our Gunboats Attack Ft. Darling.

THE VESSELS REPULSED

Williamsburg, May 18.

The gunboats Galena, Monitor, Arostook, Naugatuck, and Port Royal were repulsed from Fort Darling, seven miles below Richmond, yesterday. A portion have returned to Jamestown Island, near this place, in the James river. Seventeen bodies have already been buried, and there are numbers of wounded on board the vessels, including Lieut Morris. The 100-pounder on the Naugatuck exploded at the first fire.

[Signed,] DAVID CAMPBELL.

Washington, May 18.

Fort Darling, where our gunboats had the recent engagement, is situated on a bluff, two hundred feet above the river—high enough to direct a fire upon attacking boats, which could not use their guns in response.

A loyal black who left Richmond Friday brought the first news of the fight, which was at that time going on. The Richmond papers were very apprehensive of the result.

GOOD NEWS FROM NORTH CAROLINA.

NO MORE REBEL TROOPS TO BE FURNISHED.

THOSE IN SERVICE TO BE RECALLED.

JEFF. DAVIS SNUBBED.

New York, May 19.

News from North Carolina states that Gov. Clarke has refused to furnish Jeff. Davis with any more troops and has recalled all the North Carolina soldiers now in the rebel army.

North Carolina has held a convention of its citizens and pronounced against giving any further aid to the rebellion, thus virtually returning to the Union.

In reply to the demand of Jeff. Davis for additional troops and means of transportation for his army to and through the cotton States, Gov. Clarke said that Davis had received all the aid from North Carolina that he could expect, and that hereafter no more troops would be permitted to leave the State, and he has ordered all the North Carolina State troops home.

Gov. Clarke also informed the rebels that they could use the railroads in retreating homewards, and that they would run their own risk of being intercepted by a Union force in any part of the State.

From Washington.

Washington, May 18.

THE HUNTER PROCLAMATION.

The Herald's dispatch says the recall of Gen. Hunter is fully determined on. His proclamation will be made the subject of a communication by the President to Congress, and in that way to the country, unmistakably condemning the course of Gen. Hunter, and clearly announcing the policy of the Administration in the conduct of the war. An effort has been made to have Gen. Benham placed in command of the Department of the South. It is stated that if he could have had the consent of Gen. Hunter, he would long ago have recaptured Sumter, and restored the Federal authority in Charleston. Probably hereafter, army officers of all grades will be required to attend exclusively to military duties, and leave the management of social and political affairs to the Government.

The Tribune has the following: We can positively assert that whatever modification may be made in his order, Gen. Hunter will not be recalled nor put in a position necessitating his resignation.

Intelligence received from the Department of the South, states that our army is impatient at the kind of duty assigned them.

GEN. SUMNER DECAPITATED.

Accounts from McClellan's army, are that Gen. Sumner has been relieved from active service in consequence of his refusal to reinforce Gen. Heintzelman at the battle of Williamsburg.

JAMES RIVER BATTERIES CAPTURED.

It is unofficially stated that Commodore Goldsboro has taken possession of batteries on James river, two of which were silenced by the Galena, while on her way to Richmond.

Expulsion from Office of a California Judge.

San Francisco, May 14.

The trial of Judge Hardy of the 16th United States District Court, ended to-day before the Senate. He was convicted by a two-thirds majority, required by the Constitution, of uttering seditious language. A resolution of expulsion from office passed 21 to 14.

The various other charges against him, such as corruption in office, drunkenness, &c., were not sustained, although in some cases the majority were against him. The charge of misconduct in the trial of Judge Terry for killing Senator Broderick, failed by a tie vote. He was judge before whom Terry was acquitted.

The New Mexican Expedition.

Leavenworth, May 17.

Gen. Blunt has issued marching orders to the New Mexican Expedition. It consists of the Kansas 1st, 2d, and 7th, and the Wisconsin 14th and 13th. It is commanded by Gen. R. B. Mitchell, and is in every respect a splendid brigade.

It is said that Col. Barstow of the 3d Wisconsin Cavalry is to be made Provost Marshal General of the State.

NEWS AND MISCELLANY.

—It is suggested that the Dismal Swamp affords an appropriate "last ditch" for the rebel army in Virginia.

—Parson Brownlow says there is only one office in the gift of the Government he would like: that of General Hangman for East Tennessee.

—South Carolina has now in the field 39,274 soldiers, 22,000 of whom are in the war. The excess at this time over the State's quota is 4,064.

—The reconstruction of the railroad bridge across the Cumberland at Nashville is progressing rapidly. A large force is engaged on it, and the timbers of the span on the Edgefield side are being put in proper place. It will be completed early in June.

—A Dr. Raub, of St. Louis, is said to have invented a locomotive of an entirely new construction. It remedies all the acknowledged defects of the engines now in use, and possesses features which it is said will revolutionize railroading.

—The Cincinnati Commercial says that the production of molasses in the West during the coming season will be equal to the wants of home consumption.

—A complimentary serenade was given to Mrs. General McClellan at New York, on Monday evening of last week: The National Guard Band, under Grafulla, performed a choice selection of the most popular airs, concluding, of course, with the National hymns Mrs. McClellan and her mother, Mrs. Geo. Marcy, appeared on a balcony after the first two pieces, and bowed their acknowledgments, and an American flag was waved from the window, while the most enthusiastic cheers were sent up by the assembled thousands. Nearly all the elegant mansions about the Square were crowded with ladies, who waved their handkerchiefs and added to the furore exhibited by the gallant members of the National Guard and their friends who surrounded the Fifth Avenue Hotel. Colonel Lefferts directed the proceedings of the Serenaders in person.

—A late letter from Port Royal says the only reason why Charleston is not captured and Savannah taken possession of, is that a force of the rebels, much larger than our own, is thus kept from joining Beauregard at Corinth.

—An eminent American, formerly a Democrat, writes from Europe: "We are crazy if we preserve the status of slavery. I should as soon think of preserving a mad dog that had bitten and killed my children."

—There has been some regret that Farragut has not a more euphonious name. A gentleman with slight German proclivities says that it is not to be complained of, that it is in truth, "ferry goot."

—An officer of Gen. Halleck's army says that, in order that there may be no going back in the hour of battle, as at Donelson, for ammunition, an order from headquarters requires each private to have one hundred rounds—forty in his cartridge-box and sixty about his person elsewhere. One hundred instruments of death to each man!

—The negroes from the near counties of Maryland steal their masters' stock and wagons to come into Baltimore, and parties in Maryland have frequently stopped them to search the wagons for "contrabands." A negro, driving a wagon to town a few days since, was thus stopped, when he said, "No use looking in this wagon, massa, I han't got any concubines dar."

—The bill prohibiting slavery in the Territories has passed the House by the emphatic vote of eighty-five to fifty. Its passage by the Senate hardly admits of a doubt. Thus another advance in the progress of the Republic towards freedom has been made. Thus another blow has been struck at the "source of all our woes"—slavery. The world moves.

—A correspondent writes from General McClellan's camp:

There is not an idle negro in the place now, no matter what may be said about other places. Our boys strike bargains with them to cook and attend to mess very quickly, and it is very doubtful whether they get anything but rations when enlisted in this old style by the men. What else they get is little enough, but both parties are satisfied.

—The New York World thinks that it is "not a subject of poignant regret that several of the vessels burned at New Orleans bore the British flag, and were freighted for a breach of the blockade with British cotton. The sufferers must look for relief to their own sagacious and beneficent Government, which, by recognizing the belligerent state, cut off all claim for indemnity against ours."

— One of our pictorials has an admirable caricature of the Rebels in their pursuit of Foreign sympathy under difficulties. Mr. Slidell is represented as pulling frantically at a couple of Doctors' door bells late at night. Two Æsculapian heads are thrust out of windows on opposite sides of the street, and snappishly demand what is wanted. SLIDELL—"Massa Davis' child very sick." "What is the matter with him?" "Got the blockade very bad:" Dr. BULL—(Gruff and surly)—"Can't come." Dr NAP—"I can't come, too; I must sit up wiz ze sick Pope."

— The Albany Evening Journal says:

In conversation with a distinguished clergyman from this city, who was at Gen. Scott's residence last week, the General said: "I think Davis will not be caught. He will probably escape through Texas into Mexico. To the more prominent traitors who may be taken I would mete out a system of judicious but liberal hanging."

— The last public utterance of the Hon. Stephen A. Douglas was in these memorable words:

"The conspiracy to break up this Union is a fact now known to all. Armies are being raised and war levied to accomplish it. There can be but two sides to the controversy. Every man must be on the side of the United States or against it. There can be no neutrals in this war. There can be none but patriots and traitors.

"The conspirators have been led to hope that in the Northern States it would be made a party question, producing civil war between Democrats and Republicans, and the South being united, could step in with their legions, and help the one to destroy the other, and then conquer the victor."

PROPOSED INTERVENTION IN AMERICAN AFFAIRS.

COTTON PRESSURE IN FRANCE.

Recent arrivals from Europe bring important news.

FOREIGN INTERVENTION.

The correspondent of the New York Times, writing from London April 29th, says:

As I expected, and warned you in my last, the speech of Mr. Gladstone, the most able and eloquent member in the British Ministry, has been made the text of a regular onslaught upon America, by the Government organs, as well as the opposition. The Times opened with two leaders. One was an effort to destroy Abolition sympathy in England, what there was of it, with the North. The other calls the attention of the nation to the great, increasing, and terrible suffering in Lancashire, where the people are beginning to die of starvation.

There is every indication either that the policy of the Government is changed, and that the people are being prepared for the change, or that a desperate effort will be made to compel such a change. The speech of Mr. Gladstone can leave no one to doubt as to the real sympathies of the Government. I have told you what were and are the feelings of the people. Up to this time, there has been but little demand for intervention, because the distress could be borne. It will not be patiently borne much longer. The Government is in a critical condition, and the nation in one of fearful distress. Some measure must be taken to relieve national distress, and, if possible, to save the Administration. There has been no time since the war began when the feeling was so angry as at this moment—no time when the danger of intervention was so great.

I see but one thing that can prevent it, and that is immediate, great, decisive victories on the part of the North, accompanied with or followed by the development of Union sentiment, or a spirit of submission in the South. Victories alone will not relieve the wants of England. There must be cotton. With all the boasts of other supplies; from India or China, it is slow to come. Hunger comes much faster. The factory girls are selling their clothing piece by piece, and their hymn-books and prayer-books, to buy bread. The papers fill up, day by day, with reports of distress and clamors for relief. The people have been patient, but this patience will not last.

The same paper, after predicting that unless the armies of the Union soon gained decisive victories, intervention and Southern recognition would follow, concludes as follows:

But it is the first step that costs. Let England and France, or either, take the first step of interference, and the rest will soon follow. If a Trent case will not present itself, another will be found. Vessels will be sent, if they are not already, to break the blockade. There will be no lack of a casus belli when one is really wanted. Had England been friendly to the North, there would have been no trouble about the Trent, and less disappointment here when it was settled.

I shall end as I begun. Expect no sympathy from England. The interests and feelings of this country point to intervention. In opinion and in feeling, the government and governing classes here are against the North. A terrible pressure of distress is coming to force the opinion and feeling into action.

A JUST TRIBUTE TO AMERICAN SPIRIT.

From the Journal de Debats.

Let those who accuse the North of ambition and severity be sincere; they would have overwhelmed the North with their contempt, (and justly so,) if the North had resigned itself to the ruin of that vast empire without a struggle. "See," would they have said, "how democracies are incapable of defending themselves, and what cowardice was concealed by the proud language of those traders of New York and Boston?" Those who were charged by a regular election with the heavy responsibility of the Federal Government during this terrible crisis, have not, thank Heaven! incurred such reproaches; they have not hesitated a moment in their duty, which was to perish, arms in their hands, rather than consent to the destruction of their country; they have not for a moment admitted the possibility of a dismemberment of the Republic. They have signified their resolution not only to the New World, but also to the Old, where their embarrassment was looked upon with pleasure, and where there was a disposition to triumph at their weakness. They therefore decided on war, and organized it over an immense territory, against enemies better prepared and more warlike, and no check diminished their courage. They have at last brought things to the point which we see them now, overcoming that difficulty of distance which had been declared to be insurmountable, and seeking at the same time at Richmond, New Orleans and Charleston, if not the immediate re establishment of concord, at least the end of the revolt and the welfare of the country. And during the darkest days of this civil war, openly encouraged abroad, when their reverses were the severest, with the enemy at the gates of the capital, and treason within their walls, they did not act against a single suspected person, nor put to death a single guilty one; they have only shed blood on the fields of battle, where volunteers, and volunteers alone, give their lives daily for this just cause. That is the spectacle which we Frenchmen, grandsons of the glorious founders of that Republic, now contemplate, not with a complete indifference, but with that relaxed attention and in that state between the sleeping and the waking, which renders us incapable of all great emotion. But posterity, which puts every thing in its right place, will compare the defence of the soil of France, in 1792, with that sanguinary redemption of the American Republic, which appeared for an instant about to perish, to the great detriment of France, and to the joy of the enemies of free institutions over the entire universe.

WHAT THEY THINK OF THE SLAVERY QUESTION.

An intelligent Englishman, who has traveled considerably in this country, and has been on terms of intimacy with politicians and statesmen of all parties, writes as follows to the London Spectator on the present aspects of the slavery question:

I am no great believer in Providence doing for one what one ought to do oneself; but still in any event, without much decided action on the part of the Government, I think there is a necessary solution to the mere Slavery question. Either (and this is the view of the most far-sighted American politicians I have talked to) the insurrection is speedily and hopeless crushed, or it holds out for some time longer with varying success. In the latter case, there is in an end to Slavery at once, a rough and a sharp one. The vindictiveness of the North will be roused, revolutionary measures will be required, and the first and chief of these will be enforced emancipation. In the former and more probable event, the decline of Slavery will be less rapid, but as certain. Hitherto, Slavery has been the badge and cry of the great ruling political faction in the country. Any man who wanted power and office and success in public life was obliged to put on Slavery colors. With the election of Lincoln the power of this party was broken, and anti-Slavery views became the political creed of the winning side, just as pro-Slavery views had been hitherto As a political party the slave faction had lost its power, and it was the consciousness of this fact which impelled them to secession. Still, if they had abided by constitutional measures, this party would always have possessed strength from the fear that it might secede, and might possibly have recovered the reins of Government. Now, supposing the insurrection to be crushed, they will have played their last card and failed lamentably. There will be no terror for the North now in the cry of secession, The South will not fight again a battle that has been fought and lost, and the slaveholders will be a small and declining faction in the States. Every politician of ambition, and every place-seeker who wants patronage, will profess anti-Slavery views. Since the question of free trade has been decided in England, nobody who wants to rise in public life professes himself a protectionist, and a similar result will happen here. With a free Government like the American, the influence of public opinion is overwhelming, and with the tide of public opinion set dead against Slavery, State after State will throw off the degradation attached to Slavery, and the slave system will fall to pieces by its own inherent weakness.

THE NEW BRITISH NAVAL PLANS.

The London Times makes a disclosure of the general design of the Admiralty with respect to the British navy. The modern theory of armor will be applied to the sailing vessels of the navy, not entirely but partially. They will be protected at all points, and will carry just so much of a shield as will save them from needless exposure, but not so much as would destroy their sailing qualities by the weight of incumbrance. As to armament, they will carry two guns on a platform which will render their broadsides equivalent to those of 17-gun sloops.

WHAT MR. RUSSELL SAYS NOW.

W. H. Russell, of the Times, is said to have stated, on his first visit to the Reform Club, after his return, that the total discomfiture of the South is as certain as fate—that the Southern soldiers reminded him of Falstaff's ragged regiment—that the Federal troops are now equal to any in the world—and that the future standing United States army cannot be less, considering that the leading rebel cities must be garrisoned, than 250,000 men.—Correspondence Philadelphia Press.

A rather sudden conversion! In his last letter to the Times, Russell not only predicted that our forces would be repulsed at New Orleans, but professed to have exclusive information that they had been repulsed!

Mr. Russell, it would seem, does not stand in the highest favor among the members of the Reform Club, he having been refused admission to its membership.

FRANCE IN WANT OF COTTON.

Thurlow Weed, in his last letter, says there is beginning to be much anxiety, in France, about cotton. Their diminished supply will be exhausted in six or eight weeks. This will deprive several hundred thousand people of employment, for whom, in such an emergency, the Government must furnish bread. Hence the Government appeals to us for cotton. Other Governments are not unlikely to unite with France in an earnest appeal on this subject.

JEFF. DAVIS' SECRET CIRCULAR—A HOAX.

Some of the papers have published a long letter purporting to be a secret circular from Jeff. Davis to the Germans of the several rebellious States, in which he recounts the recent disasters which have befallen the arms of the traitors, and calls vigorously for every rebel in the Confederacy to come to the rescue. The style reminds one of the famous bogus proclamation of Gen. Price. The Cincinnati Commercial, under the head of "A Discreditable Hoax," says:

It needed no special information, from any source, to convince any sensible man that the confidential circular, purporting to emanate from Jeff. Davis, and which the telegraph has been at particular pains to dispatch to the Associated Press is a villainous hoax—stupidly conceived, and written in villainous English. The fellow who perpetrated it should not be tolerated as a member of the press gang; he can have no respect for his profession; no qualifications for it; no sense of responsibilities, and no regard for truth or good grammar. The public are in no humor to be trifled with; people have been exasperated, incensed and disgusted with the recklessness of statement, maliciousness of intention, and disregard for feeling, which too frequently characterize the reports sent forward from points of immediate military interest from telegraphic correspondents, who are satisfied only when they can create a sensation. It is, of course, impossible always to get at the exact truth of events that have just transpired. Much must be trusted to rumor, always taking such as seem most probable and consistent with facts well known. Then again, no two men see the event from the same stand point and with the same impressions. Lawyers experienced in examining witnesses understand this. Hence, we are indulgent of the errors which creep into reports by telegraph and otherwise, only to be contradicted afterwards. But we can have no patience with a man who can coolly and with deliberation sit down to hoax the public in such a time as this. He should be disgraced by public dismissal from the service of any respectable journal.

—A Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune says the credit, mainly, of pushing the Homestead bill through Congress, belongs to Potter, Windom and Aldrich.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

GEN. HUNTER'S PROCLAMATION.

Our dispatches of Saturday evening omitted to give the New York Herald's special dispatch on the effect of Hunter's proclamation at the National Capital. It is as follows:—

The Hunter proclamation has presented an unavertible issue, which, it is believed, will result in the breaking up of the Cabinet. The President has not only expressed dissatisfaction, but indignation. It is ascertained that four members of the Cabinet sustain the course of Gen. Hunter, but one, at least, of those estimated, is known to entertain different views.

It is stated positively that Gen. Hunter will be recalled, and the characteristic firmness of the President will be exhibited in the manner in which he will meet the issue thus forced upon him, and that he will, whether with or without the support of the Cabinet, act substantially with his repeatedly expressed opinions and intentions.

The Chicago Tribune's dispatch has it thus:

The President says Gen. Hunter's proclamation was issued without his knowledge or authority. He is much exercised in mind about it, and says Gen. Hunter not only had no authority to issue such a proclamation, but he is specially enjoined not to meddle with matters political. On the other hand some of the most influential members of the Cabinet say the proclamation cannot but be endorsed.

THE HEROES OF WILLIAMSBURG.

Gen. McClellan sends the following dispatch to the Secretary of War, dated "nineteen miles from Williamsburg, May 16:"

Without waiting further for official reports which have not yet reached me, I wish to bear testimony to the splendid conduct of Hooker's and Kearney's divisions, under command of Gen. Heintzleman, in the battle at Williamsburg. Their bearing was worthy of veterans. Hooker's division for hours gallantly withstood the attack of greatly superior numbers, with heavy loss. Kearney's division arrived in time to restore the fortunes of the day, and came most gallantly into action. I shall probably have occasion to call attention to other commands, and do not wish to do injury to them by mentioning them now. Had I had the full information I now have in regard to the troops above named when I first telegraphed, they would have specially been mentioned and commended. I spoke of what I knew at the time, and shall rejoice to do full justice to all engaged.

(Signed) GEO. B. M'CLELALN.
Major General.

THANKS TO THE HERO OF NORFOLK.

The skilful and gallant movements of Maj Gen. John E. Wool and the forces under his command, which resulted in the surrender of Norfolk and the evacuation of the shore batteries erected by the rebels on Sewall's Point and Craney Island, and the destruction of the rebel iron-clad gunboat Merrimac, are recorded by the President as among the most important successes of the present war. He therefore orders that his thanks, as Commander in-Chief of the army and navy, be communicated by the War Department to Maj. Gen. John E. Wool, and the officers and soldiers of his command, for the gallantry and good conduct in the brilliant operations mentioned.

By order of the President made at the city of Norfolk on the 11th day of May 1862.

[Signed] EDWIN M. STANTON.

The Senate on the 16th confirmed the nomination of brevet Major General Wool, to be Major General for gallant conduct on the 11th of May, in the taking of the city of Norfolk and other gallant services; also of Chas. Even as Postmaster at Winchester, Va.

THE WAR IN ALABAMA.

The War Department has received the following dispatch from the astronomical General, who has been stirring up the rebels in Northern Alabama, dated from Huntsville:

At 6 o'clock P. M. on the 13th inst., General Negley's expedition from Pulaski, supported by Colonel Little's expedition from Athens, entered Rogersville, driving the enemy across the Tennessee and destroying a portion of the ferryboats, and having learned of the approach of Colonel Little's force, the enemy succeeded in removing their artillery, baggage and stores before the arrival of General Negley.

I expected an obstinate defense of the passage of Elk river, and accompanied Colonel Little in person, but without crossing. The enemy fled at our approach.

I ordered, yesterday, an expedition to move promptly from Rogersville, to seize the bridge across Shad creek and the ferry below the mouth of the same stream. This duty has been promptly executed, and the ferry and bridge are ours.

No more troops will enter from that region, and we have none on this side, except 1,200 or 1,500 cavalry, of the enemy in bands of 300 or 400, whom we will endeavor to hunt down and destroy or capture.

The gunboat which I have extemporized will be ready for service to-day, and I will soon be ready to pay my respects to the enemy in the eastern side of the region under my command.

(Signed,) O. M. MITCHELL,
Major General.

A SECESSION SYMPATHISER RECEIVES A LETTER.

Representative Kerrigan, of New York, who is known to sympathize with the rebels, to day received through one of the returned Union prisoners, a letter from Richmond which was hid in a piece of soap, urging him to use his political influence to effect the release of Captains Downey and Griffin, and Lieuts. Underhill and Fay of New York regiments. He also received two photographs of the Union hostages as they appeared in Castle Pinckney.

MINOR ITEMS.

The Niagara's mails have not yet arrived here, neither have Mercier or Lyons any knowledge of the authenticity of the intervention rumors.

Newton, the incumbent of the agricultural bureau, nominated as Commissioner of Agriculture under the new bill, will meet much opposition in the Senate.

A young man named Halmer, a private in the Brooklyn 14th regiment escaped from prison, secreted himself in a house in Richmond, and was accused of forging Confederate notes, and hung. So say released prisoners.

Gen. C. S. Hamilton's abrupt dismissal from the command of his division, by Gen. McClellan, excites great sympathy here, where he is now.

—Gen. Blunt, under the direction of the War Department, is organizing the loyal Indians into two regiments to go back and repossess their homes, from which they were driven by the Indian allies of the Secessionists.

News from the South.

EXTRACTS FROM REBEL JOURNALS.

AFFAIRS AT CORINTH.

The Columbus (Geo.) Sun of May 3d, has the following in relation to matters at Corinth:

We had an interview last evening with Col. A. W. Starke, of Alabama, who has returned from Corinth, Mississippi. He reports that our army has suffered much from sickness, but there are about 75,000 effective fighting men and reinforcements are constantly coming in. Generals Price and Van Dorn were there with the veterans of the Missouri campaign, whom he represents to be the finest looking body of men he ever saw. The enemy are supposed to have about 120,000 men, and had advanced three miles on our front from their former position. Our officers and men are confident and sanguine of whipping the enemy in the next fight, particularly if we are first attacked.

From what Col. Starke says of the reported movement of our Generals with a body of men towards Tuscumbia and Decatur, we place confidence in the truth of the dispatch published this morning, that we have retaken Tuscumbia and Decatur. The belief was general, and we trust is well founded, that the enemy will be driven from the Tennessee.

THE APPROACHING BATTLE.

A correspondent of the Savannah Republican, writing from Corinth, May 4th, says:

The two grand armies now stand front to front, separated only by a space of four or five miles. The Confederates are ready, and will probably await an attack. The battle may occur to-day, but it can hardly be postponed beyond to-morrow. The enemy will be badly taken in as to our strength. With Van Dorn we will have —— thousand men. The weather is cloudy, but without rain. The skirmishing was very heavy yesterday; the Confederate loss was about twenty in killed and wounded. We captured two Federal officers—a colonel and major.

AN ENGLISH NOBLEMAN AT RICHMOND.

From the Richmond Examiner, May 1.

The Earl of Dunmore, who ran the blockade in the steamer Nashville, on her last inward trip, arrived in this city on Tuesday, and is stopping at the Exchange Hotel. The Earl will spend a few days in Richmond, and then leave for Canada via Norfolk and Fortress Monroe. He says the Nashville brought twenty tons of powder, seven thousand Enfield rifles, and a great number of blankets and shoes.

HOW THEY ENJOY SECESSION AT MEMPHIS.

The Memphis correspondent of a Richmond paper thus despondingly speaks of the state of affairs at Memphis:

Memphis is in a state of panic. Every loyal man, who can do so consistently with his personal interests, is leaving the city and taking with him his goods and chattels. The enemy are expected within four or five days. Confederate money is useless, and being refused by scores. Many merchants have closed their stores rather than accept it in exchange for their goods. The Tennessee money commands a premium of from fifteen to twenty per cent. Sugar has advanced two and a half cents. This state of affairs is of course due solely to the fact that as soon as the Federals arrive, Southern funds will be comparatively valueless, while State bills will pass here, as at Nashville, with the same facility as United States Treasury notes.

COUNTER REVOLUTION IN NORTH CAROLINA.

There are now strong evidences of a counter revolution in North Carolina Beaufort county has offered General Burnside a fine regiment of loyal men, which has been armed and equipped and is now in the field. Another is being organized in Hyde, Tyrrell and Washington counties, and will soon be fit for duty. As an indication of the reigning spirit of loyalty, may be taken the resolutions adopted at a recent meeting of the citizens of Craven county, to organize Home Guards for protection against a lawless rebel soldiery. The resolutions have the right ring to them and are as follows:

Resolved, That it is our duty as loyal North Carolinians, to respond to the efforts of the National Government for our liberation from the tyranny of rebels and traitors; and we therefore cheerfully declare our purpose to co operate with the Union forces to complete the restoration of the Constitution and laws of the United States in Eastern North Carolina.

Resolved, That we do hereby organize ourselves into a military company for the protection of the lives, liberty and property of the Union men in this neighborhood, and for the preservation of law and order in our midst. The organization shall be known as the Craven County Home Guard, and we cordially invite all loyal residents of the county to join with us, mutually pledging our honor for the faithful observance of our compact.

OPENING OF BLOCKADED PORTS.

For the purpose of giving effect to the proclamation of President Lincoln, declaring that the ports of New Orleans, Beaufort and Port Royal shall from the first of June next be thrown open to the commerce of the world, Secretary Chase has issued regulations relating to the trade of those ports. These regulations provide:

First—To vessels clearing from foreign ports, licenses will be granted by the Consuls of the United States upon satisfactory evidence that the vessel so licensed will convey no persons, property or information contraband of war either to or from the said ports, which license shall be exhibited to the Collector of the port to which said vessel may be respectively bound immediately on arrival, and, if required, to any officer in charge of the blockade, and on leaving either of said ports, every vessel will be required to have a clearance from the Collector of the Customs according to law, showing no violation of the conditions of the license.

Second—To vessels of the United States clearing outwise, for the ports aforesaid, license can only be obtained from the Treasury Department.

Third—In all other respects the blockade remains in full force and effect as hitherto established and maintained; nor is it relaxed by the proclamation, except in regard to the ports to which the relaxation is by that instrument expressly applied.

MORE PRIZES IN PORT.—The British brig Intended was brought up to New York on Saturday morning last. She was captured on the 1st inst., off Cape Fear, by the U. S. steamer Jamestown, in attempting to run into Wilmington, N. C. Acting Master G. H. Avery and a prize crew were put on board of her and brought to New York. She was from Nassau, N. P., with an assorted cargo, which, with the vessel, is valued at $30,000.

The schooner Active was captured on the 26th ult., off Charleston, by the U. S. steamer Flambeau. Acting Master Sheldon was placed on board, with orders to take her to New York. Having sprung her foremast, and being leaky, she was taken to Philadelphia. Her cargo consists of dry goods, provisions, &c., and with the schooner it is worth about $4,000.

Schooner Wave, captured 19th ult., near Georgetown, S. C., by the United States pilot boat G. W. Blunt, was coming out with forty bales of cotton. Acting Master's Mate George B. Worth. She was also brought to Philadelphia.

MAY.—DYSPEPSIA.—This is a very distressing complaint, and gives the patient more suffering than almost any other disease. In fact, it is a combination of many complaints in one. The symptoms are numerous, and of the nature of almost all other complaints combined. From this fact arise the very many cases where this disease is mistaken for some other and so improperly treated. The first symptoms, indigestion, flatulency, loss of appetite, heartburn, headache etc., if neglected, almost always awaken some dormant disease, and send the poor sufferer to a premature grave. What you must first do is to cleanse the blood and regulate the bowels—do this with the "Mountain Herb Pills," and you can bid defiance to dyspepsia.

It has two run of Burrs, which will be kept running night and day, so that farmers coming from a distance can be accommodated without much delay.
The need of a first class Mill o this kind has long been felt by the citizens of St. Paul and vicinity. We have secured the services of James Craigie, who has made milling the business of his life, and in whom we can place entire confidence.
All kinds of grain will be weighed when brought to the Mill, and also when taken away, if desired. We feel confident in saying to the public that we can make as good Flour and as great a yield to the bushel as any Mill in Minnesota, and respectfully solicit a fair trial.

That being one of the Oldest Business Houses in the State, (the present being the eleventh year of its existence,) R. MARVIN feels confident that he need not urge its claims on the public patronage. The extent of country over which its business has spread is the best proof that its claims are not unrecognized. The unwavering determination which he has felt since the crisis, and in the hardest times, to maintain his business and place it on a par with similar establishments in the largest cities of the West, have been so fully appreciated by the merchants of the State, that he feels bound to redouble his efforts, not only for the benefit of his business, but for the pride he feels in his adopted city.

FROM GEN. HALLECK'S ARMY.

FLAG OF TRUCE FROM CORINTH.

AN ARMISTICE ASKED FOR.

EXCHANGE OF SIXTY PRISONERS.

SANITARY AND OTHER AFFAIRS AT CAIRO

CAIRO, May 16, 1862.

The steamer Gladiator arrived this afternoon from Pittsburg Landing. Her officers report that when she left, there was a rumor at the Landing that Beauregard had sent a flag of truce to Gen. Halleck, asking for an armistice of ten days. This was subsequently corroborated by deserters from the enemy's lines The matter was said to have been under consideration when the Gladiator left. It is proper to state that this report is not believed at headquarters here.

CAMP ON CORINTH ROAD, May 15.—The following is a paragraph of a special field order just issued:

"Guards will be immediately placed along the line of the Chambers Creek. No officers or soldiers will be permitted to pass to the rear, and no citizens to the front of the line without special authority of the Commander-in-Chief. Commanders of army corps and divisions will see that their camps are cleared of all unauthorized hangers on, and any one attempting to evade this will be compelled to work on the entrenchments and batteries, or in the construction of roads."

This is understood to apply to all persons, correspondents included.

Fifty-seven privates three corporals and one sergeant, captured by the rebels at Dresden, Tennessee, are coming in this morning under a flag of truce. Rebel prisoners in equal numbers will be sent to-morrow, in exchange. Colonel Jacob Thompson, of Beauregard's staff, formerly Secretary of the Interior, accompanies the flag. He admits the fall of Norfolk, New Orleans and Pensacola, and denies the fall of Richmond

Deserters are coming in by squads daily. All agree that the rebels are still there fortifying.

A picket skirmish all day resulted in a half a dozen being wounded on our side.

CAMP NEAR CORINTH, May 16th.—Some Frenchmen, members of the 13th Louisiana, have arrived within our lines. Three companies of that regiment are composed of Frenchmen, who arrived from New Orleans lately, and being unable to obtain work, food or money, were obliged to enlist for thirty days. The conscript law compelled them to re-enlist for the war. They report the whole rebel army without coffee, and at one time, nearly three days, without rations. They say Van Dorn and Price left Corinth eight days ago, and it is not known where they have gone.

The weather is clear and hot. The roads are very dusty before Corinth.

It having been satisfactorily shown that spies have visited our camps, crossed the Tennessee river and proceeded in the night by dug outs to Florence, Alabama, where they hold easy communication with the enemy, it was deemed necessary to exclude all civilians from our camps in order to keep out spies.

An intelligent Federal, of a regiment captured at Shiloh, exchanged yesterday, says he was taken from Corinth to Jackson, Mississippi, thence to Jackson, Tennessee and back to Corinth. He states that from the time he left Corinth until his return there he was guarded by unarmed men.

A contraband, intimate with Gen. Hardee, and another servant named Jack, have also arrived. One of them reports having been told that Hardee was very sick of the war, and would leave, but Beauregard wouldn't let him.

CAIRO, May 16.—The sanitary condition of the soldiers at this military post is extremely disheartening. The collection of pools of stagnant water within the levee is bringing forth its legitimate fruit in the sickness and death of the unfortunate soldiers compelled to reside in the Government barracks. Out of the 63d Illinois regiment—Col. Moro's—nearly two hundred are in the hospital already, and the rest soon will be if some measures are not devised to clear the city of the superabundant water and filth.

Gen. Halleck is daily receiving reinforcements from the East via the Ohio and Tennessee, rivers. The steamer Platte Valley arrived this evening with the 7th Missouri, from Lexington, Missouri.

The steamer Imperial arrived here last night, with 805 sick and wounded, en route for St. Louis.

Gov. Yates, with surgeons and nurses, leaves here to day for Pittsburg Landing, to look after the sick and wounded Illinois soldiers. The City of Alton, under the direction of the Governor, left here at 11 o'clock yesterday, on the same mission. A battle is imminent, unless the secesh skedaddle.

The steamer DeSoto arrived from the fleet this morning, but brought no news. Not a gun or mortar has been fired by either belligerent for two days. The Confederate and Federal boats are busily repairing damages and getting ready for the next encounter.

FROM THE MISSISSIPPI FLOTILLA.

ACTIVITY AMONG THE REBELS.

A dispatch to the Chicago Tribune from its correspondent connected with the flotilla off Fort Pillow, furnishes the following information:

The Memphis Appeal of the 11th contains a letter from a correspondent at Fort Pillow, who witnessed the battle of the 10th inst. It disagrees with the reports of Jeff. Thompson, sent you yesterday, and fixes the number of the rebels killed at eight, and the wounded as high as sixteen. Both are undoubtedly far short of the actual truth It further states that the Union steamer Pittsburgh, after being severely injured by their shot, was grappled, secured as a prize, and with her entire crew taken off as prisoners of war. The falsity of this is evident. The Pittsburgh had not a man hurt, and is still with the flotilla, in as good condition as she was previous to the fight.

There is a great activity in the rebel fleet. Yesterday afternoon considerable excitement was created in our flotilla by the arrival of another flag of truce. It was at first supposed it carried terms of negotiation for a capitulation or a surrender of the fort, but it was not so. The rebels brought up another surgeon a supply of whom, when a reconnoissance is needed, they seem always to have on hand. Not long after the departure of the tug bearing the white flag the smoke of a second steamer was observed on the secesh side of Craighead Point, and presently a craft resembling one of their rams came swiftly in view, steaming up within a mile of the Benton, then suddenly veered about and made the swiftest time back out of sight. This steamer bore no flag of truce, but instead, a very large and flaunting striped and barred flag. Why the flag boat did not fire upon the saucy craft is beyond comprehension.

Efforts which will probably prove successful are being made to raise the Cincinnati One of Latta's steam pumps was put in operation on her, last evening.

FOREIGN NEWS.

SANDY HOOK, May 17.—The Great Eastern has just come up. She is from Milford Haven, with Liverpool dates to the 6th instant. The Asia arrived out on the 4th.

The Times argues that the true test of public feeling in the North will come when the taxes are collected. In the meantime, so long as the Federals are not absolutely winners they are loosers, whereas, so long as the Confederates are not effectually subdued they may be regarded themselves as winning. These are considerations which counterbalance the superiority of the North.

Capt Wilson, who recaptured the Emily St. Pierre from the prize crew, has been formally presented, by numerous Liverpool merchants, with a valuable service of plate, and a gold chronometer, also with a sextant from his own crew and with two thousand pounds from the owners of the ship. The Mercantile Marine Association, of Liverpool, also announced its intention to present him with a gold medal, and his cook and steward with silver medals. Valuable money presents were also made to the cook and steward. Speeches eulogistic of the Captain's acts were made on several occasions by prominent merchants.

The Paris Patrie asserts that the French Minister at Washington had a long conference with Davis at Richmond, and says the step taken by Mercier is entirely political in its character, and was known to President Lincoln. The Morning Herald argues, from reports of Mercier's mission to Richmond, that the beginning of the end is not far distant. It says that France and England suffer more than neutrals ever suffered from any contest, and both are beginning to regard the war as interminable and atrocious.

REBELS PROTEST AGAINST DESTRUCTION OF PROPERTY.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 14.—A gentleman who left Augusta, Ga., on the 5th inst., says the property owners of that State are adverse to the destruction of their goods, and that none had been destroyed up to the time he left there. Nobody favors such destruction but reckless propertyless persons whose designs will be thwarted by the owners of cotton, etc.

ST. ANTHONY AND MINNEAPOLIS ITEMS.

From the News of the 17th.

During the past two weeks, Messrs. Eastman & Gibson, of the Cataract Mills, have shipped to New York 7,000 barrels of flour, which they have been storing the winter.

We hope to see the Minneapolis Water Power Company awaking from the lethargy which has characterized it for six years past. A mortgage upon the property for $25,000 with interest, increasing it to $40,000, has been the dead weight that has clogged its operations. The company were unable to sell any of their rights because thus encumbered. Buyers were unwilling to take risks of that kind

We are informed that the mortgage has been bought up by Eastman & Gibson, Robert Smith, of Alton, Ill., and Mr. Corwith, of Galena, Ill, and that it is their intention at once to foreclose upon the property and get possession. They will then be free to complete the development and improvement of this magnificent power. When this really begins, it will open up a new era in the industrial prosperity of Minnapolis, and begin to realize the expectations which its friends have long entertained. We look for more grist mills like the Cataract, more lumber mills like Hurlbut, Day & Co.'s, and Bassett & Kilpatricks, we look for woolen mills, plow factories, and machine shops. Such centres of industry will bring us fully out of the slough of despond.

An old settler, a gentleman well known in this county, informs us that he finds sheep to increase in size in Minnesota as well as in weight and quality of their wool, even without any crossing of breeds. The increase of common sheep were from one-fourth to one-third heavier than their dams brought from below. Great country this Minnesota for animal life.

Capt. Geo. W. Woods, now on the staff of Gen. Sumner, was thrown by the stumbling of his horse in the pursuit of the rebels from Yorktown, and received a number of contusions on the head and breast from the hoofs of the horses passing over him. He crawled into the woods where he lay all night. Two of the enemy's picket guard were stationed within twenty feet of him, and at his slightest movement he could hear the word "Hist" and the cocking of a musket. In the morning he made his escape back to our lines and is doing well.

—The St. Louis Republican's correspondent at Santa Fe, under date of April 28th, gives the following:

"From the latest intelligence, the rebel Texan force had continued their retreat down the Rio Grande, and had abandoned their heavy baggage and artillery, and, with pack-mules, had partially dispersed to the mountains, the main body going into the Mercia Valley in the vicinity of Fort Fillmore, where it is said they have reinforcements. They are completely demoralized, and cursing their officers, and it is supposed are reduced to some eight hundred or one thousand men.

Col. Canby, with his force, some 2,000 strong, is following in their rear, and some slight skirmishing has taken place.

Our news is that Col. Canby, with his entird force, is at or in the vicinity of Fort Craig, and the enemy are making their way south.

Albuquerque and Santa Fe are now occupied by Federal forces, and Col. B. S. Roberts, U. S. A.. is in command of the northern district; and thus ends the conclusion of this redoubtable Texan invasion."

CHICAGO MARKET.

FRIDAY EVENING, May 17.

The Wheat market to-day ruled quiet and rather easier, with sales of No 2 Red Winter at 85c; Amber Iowa at 83c; No 1 Spring at 80@81c; and 68@72c for No 2 Spring in store. There was a very light inquiry for Flour and the market was dull.

Corn was in good shipping and speculative demand and prices improved ½@¾c per bushel, with sales of Old Mixed in store at 29@29½c. New Mixed at 25½@26c in store, and Rejected at 23½@23¾c in store. Old Mixed Canal at 30c afloat; New Mixed at 26¾c afloat, and Rejected at 27c f. o. b. Oats were quiet at 24½@25½c. Rye steady at 48c. Barley continues dull and drooping. Potatoes are plenty and lower. Highwines were quiet, with limited transactions at 19½@20c ₱ gallon.

There was no movement in provisions. Mess pork is entirely nominal at $10 50@11.00. Nothing doing in bulk meats. Lard firm but quiet.

MILWAUKEE MARKET.

SATURDAY EVENING, May 17.

The wheat market was comparatively dull to-day and fully 1c lower. The sales reported amounted to only about 37,000 bushels at 75½@70c for No. 2 Spring in store, 80c for No. 1 in store, 78 @81c for the same qualities delivered, and 70c for Rejected. The advices from the East received on 'Change had an unfavorable effect and caused most of the buyers to withdraw from the market, which closed heavy with 75c offered for No 2, and no demand for No 1. The latest sales were at 75½@80c for equal qualities of the two grades.

Flour was dull and lower. A sale of 300 bbls good country Spring extra at $3.75 was the only transaction reported.

Coarse grains of all kinds were less firm, and we have to note a further decline in oats, 30c being the best price they would sell at to-day.

Persons unacquainted with the Melodeon and its history, will bear in mind that we are the pioneers and leading manufacturers, not only in the United States, but in the world. We commenced the manufacture of Melodeons in the fall of the year 1847, and since that time have finished and sold TWENTY-SEVEN THOUSAND. These instruments are now in use mostly in the United States and Canada, but also in Europe, Asia, Africa, South America and the West Indies, and from all these quarters we have the most flattering testimonials of the high estimation in which they are held.

At all Industrial Exhibitions they have invariably been awarded the Highest Premium whenever Exhibited in Competition with Others.

We shall take pleasure in forwarding by mail (at our own expense) our Illustrated Catalogue, in which every instrument we manufacture is fully described, and illustrated by elegant engravings.

All Melodeons of our manufacture, either sold by us or dealers in any part of the United States or Canada, are warranted to be perfect in every respect, and should any repairs be necessary before the expiration of five years from date of sale, we bol l ourselves ready and willing to make the same free of charge, provided the injury is not caused by accident or design

Eye & Ear.

DR. UNDERWOOD,

Of Chicago, Ill., the eminent and skilful operator on the Eye and Ear, whose name and fame is so extensively known throughout the United States, for his science, skill and success in performing formidable operations, and in removing difficult and dangerous diseases from those delicate organs, has arrived in St. Paul and may be consulted at the AMERICAN HOUSE for a short time only.

Dr. U., who is a regular Physician and Surgeon of the old school, has had an extensive experience in both hospital and private practice of twenty-eight years, and will be found competent to perform any operation necessary to restore lost sight or hearing, or by other mild and gentle means to remove any disease from those delicate organs within the reach of science and human skill.

CHRONIC DISEASES, of every grade and character, whether requiring medical or surgical treatment, POSITIVELY and PERMANENTLY CURED, when not clearly beyond the reach of science and human skill.

Dr. Underwood treats all diseases on regular and scientific principles, as recognized by the medical profession both in Europe and America, and hence does not use or deal in those pretended new and never failing remedies—specifics, inhaling vapors, and clairvoyant prescription—which are so ostentatiously paraded before the public by those impudent traveling quacks and money-fleecing empirics, nine-tenths of whom never were inside of a medical college. Patients afflicted or laboring under diseases of long standing, can consult Dr. U. with the most confident hope and expectation of being perfectly cured, or receiving with unerring certainty all the relief that the highest skill, the most judicious and scientific treatment can possibly bestow.

Among the diseases which the Doctor has lately treated with the most signal success, may be mentioned those of the Heart, Lungs, Liver, Stomach and Bowels—and Nervous Affections, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Salt Rheum and Chronic Female Affections. my7-3m

THE NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

The gunboat engagement on James river near Richmond, seems to have been no very serious affair after all. The iron clad Galena tried her strength against very strong fortifications, receiving slight damage, and losing several lives.

Hon. Edward Stanley has been appointed military Governor of North Carolina, with powers and instructions similar to those given to Andrew Johnson of Tennessee.

Gen. McClellan's army has taken another step on the march to Richmond.

THE crowded state of our news columns this morning, compels us to defer various editorial matters for the present.

MINNESOTA STATE STOCKS.

Late sales of Minnesota 8 per cent. bonds at the New York Stock Exchange, have been at 98 cents. This is very gratifying, showing as it does, that our State credit ranks with that of the wealthiest and best States in the Union.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

— A rumor was current at Baltimore on Sunday, that Weldon (N. C.) had been evacuated by the rebels.

— Major Helveti was released by Morgan at Sparta, Tenn., on Thursday, and is now at Nashville. Helveti says Morgan had sixty men with him when he left.

— The total loss to the insurance companies by the late fire at Troy, N. Y., is $1,464,262. Of the 128 insurance companies doing business in the State, 73 had losses in this fire; 50 New York State Companies and 23 Companies of other States. The London and Liverpool Company lost $157,000, and the Troy Mutual $20,000.

— Dispatches received at Cape Girardeau on Saturday from Col. Daniel's headquarters, near Bloomfield, Mo., contain accounts of the capture of Col. Phelan, of Jeff. Thompson's gang of marauders, and over one hundred of his men. Fifty of them, it is said, gave themselves up, and expressed a desire to return to a quiet and peaceful life.

—The steam ram Switzerland got aground in the canal at Louisville on the 18th, preventing the passage of boats. The steamer Glendale, with hospital stores, &c., for Pittsburg Landing, was obliged to return to Cincinnati. There is but two feet water upon the falls. The Franklin will carry forward her stores.

— Unofficial but reliable dispatches received at Baltimore from Gen. Fremont's headquarters at Franklin, Va., announce that Princeton, the capital of Mercer county, where Gen. Cox was stationed, was attacked and captured yesterday by the rebels under Humprey Marshall. This morning the place was recaptured and the rebels defeated by Cox. Scouts report that the rebels were reinforced.

— A recent arrival at Cairo from Pittsburg Landing, says our forces were busy fortifying. There are a great many rumors in camp in regard to the evacuation of Corinth, and many of our men believe them. Gen. Sherman had a skirmish with a small loss on our side. We only had twelve wounded in the engagement.

— The Navy Department received a communication from Commodore Dupont, dated Port Royal, 13th, giving an account of the capture of several rebel schooners. No other news of importance.

— The Post Office Department directs all mail matter destined for Barnside's command be hereafter sent to New York.

—Ex-Governor Hicks, of Maryland, talks too much. On a late occasion he said he hated "all anti slavery men, and all pro slavery men." As there are only these two classes of men in the country, it is fair to suppose that the Governor's love is confined to women.

—A dispatch from Evansville to the Circinnati Gazette says the car which caused the collision at Sullivan, Indiana, by which Prosessor Fletcher was killed, was placed on the track by a man who has been arrested and confessed the crime implicating several accomplices. It was generally known along the line that Gov. Morton was on the train, and there is almost conclusive evidence that the act was a premeditated attempt to assassinate the Governor. The plot was concocted among secession sympathizers at Sullivan, and it is believed the guilty parties will be arrested.

—Since Friday, May 9, a constant succession of disastrous fires has occured at the East, involving a loss of over four million dollars. On that day (the 9th) sweeping conflagration began in the woods on Long Island; loss, $750,000; also, a fire in the woods of Passaic and Morris counties, New Jersey.. The city of Troy was devasted on Saturday; loss nearly three millions. On Sunday there were three large fires at Charlestown and Stoughton, Massachusetts. On Monday the fire at Boston, loss $200,000. And so the list runs on. Such disasters as these seem to run into epidemics, like railroad accidents —or Federal victories over the rebels. Once started they multiply rapidly.

—The Cairo Gazette foots up the returns (official and unofficial) of the special election in the Ninth District for a member of Congress to succeed General John A. Logan, as follows: Isham N. Haynie, 5,026; Wm. J. Allen, 4,944; Samuel S. Marshall, 4,330. Col. Haynie thus appears to be elected by 82 plurality over Allen. He has served gallantly in the field at the head of the 48th Illinois regiment, and was wounded at the battle of Shiloh.

—Recent advices from Charleston say that General Hunter's proclamation was published in that city, and that a negro insurrection was imminent.

—Vast preparations are making to bombard Savannah. Our gunboats are up the river, and pickets are within four miles of the city. Massive batteries with Parrott guns are erected around the city. We have a portion of the Charleston and Savannah railroad in our possession.

—Captain Bailey, the second in command of the New Orleans expedition, says the action on the Mississippi has illustrated two principles: 1. That no forts could prevent such a fleet as we had at New Orleans from passing up New York harbor to the city and up the Thames to London Bridge. 2. That we must build more iron gunboats, and put one in every river in Secessia if necessary, as the sure and effective method of keeping the rebellion in check.

—The Democratic State Convention of Iowa is to meet at Des Moines, Thursday, June 17th, to nominate candidates for Secretary of State, and other officers. "Lafayette" Jones and Clay Dean, a worthy pair of rebels, are traversing the State as emissaries of Jeff. Davis, under the cloak of organizing the Democracy to respond to this call.

—A mother and three small children, alleged fugitives from Prince George county, Maryland, were seized in loyal blacks' quarters on Capitol Hill, Washington, by Marshal Lafiou, who, accompanied by lawyer Bradley, three slaveholders, and five deputies, searched vainly for others for whom he had processes. He is said to have sixty or seventy writs already. Fifty others returned to-day to their Maryland masters.

—Jeff. Davis' "conscription" message is one of the most sickening pieces of sophistry we have ever read. We could imagine the Southern people, when they read it, felt like a certain old class-leader we once heard of. A youth, in telling his experience at a Methodist love feast, interpolated a long story about disappointment in love. When he concluded, the gray haired class-leader rose, wiped his spectacles, and said, "Brethren, let us all—puke."—Louisville Democrat.

ANOTHER CONFISCATION BILL.

The select committee of the United States Senate has reported a new bill to suppress insurrection and rebellion, and to free the slaves of rebels. It embraces the main features of most of the bills heretofore introduced, as will be seen by the following brief synopsis:

The first section of this bill provides that every person who shall hereafter commit the crime of treason against the United States, and shall be convicted thereof, shall suffer death, and all his slaves, if any, shall be made free; or he shall be imprisoned for not less than five years, and fined not less than ten thousand dollars, and all his slaves shall be made free; the fine to be levied on any property, excepting slaves, which the owner may have possessed at the time of committing the crime.

The second section forfeits all the property and slaves of persons who may give aid and comfort to the rebellion. Such persons are forever disqualified for holding office by the third section. The next section provides that the act shall not be construed to prevent a prosecution for treason committed prior to its passage. The fifth section authorizes the President, in order to secure the speedy termination of the rebellion, to seize the property of certain military and civil officers in the rebel organization, and prescribes at length the mode of dealing with it, holding a lien upon their slaves during the pendency of proceedings. All property taken can be held and used until it can be prosecuted against. Another provision prevents the return of fugitive slaves, except to loyal masters. The President is empowered to issue a proclamation in suppression of the rebellion, freeing the slaves of all who will not lay down their arms within thirty days thereafter. He is also empowered to employ as many persons of African descent as he may deem proper, to be used in putting down the rebellion.

FROM GEN. McCLELLAN'S ARMY.

WITHIN FIFTEEN MILES OF RICHMOND.

GREAT PANIC IN THE REBEL CAPITAL.

WHITE HOUSE, Va., May 17.

Hon E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

The combined army and naval expedition went some 25 miles up Pamunky River today, and forced the rebels to destroy two steamers and about twenty schooners. The expedition was admirably managed. We have advanced considerably to day. The roads are improving.

(Signed,) GEO. B McCLELLAN.

From the correspondence of the Associated Press, we learn that the advance guard of our forces on the main road to Richmond, via Bottom Bridge, drove the enemy across Chickahominy River yesterday. Our troops on arriving at the bridge which is fifteen miles from Richmond, found it on fire and were opened upon by a rebel battery. No one injured. We expect considerable difficulty in crossing here, as the country is low and swampy. Our advance from this point must be necessarily slow, there being no river transportation, and every available obstruction placed in our way by the rebels.

The Richmond Dispatch of the 12th, in an article on the evacuation of Norfolk and Yorktown, and the conduct of the war, says "by abandoning detached points which it is impossible to defend, we concentrate powerful forces and are enabled to baffle the enemy in every attack of vital importance." This paper mentions a terrible panic in Richmond on Friday on the approach of our gunboats.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

HUNTER'S PROCLAMATION.

DIFFERENT OPINIONS CONCERNING IT.

The Gunboat Repulse.

THE RUMORS OF FOREIGN INTERVENTION—WHAT MR. LINCOLN SAYS.

The Chicago Tribune's special correspondent telegraphs the following from Washington (18th) concerning

GEN. HUNTER'S PROCLAMATION.

It is confidently asserted that Mr. Lincoln has said that he is determined to modify Hunter's order of freedom. Mr. Chase, however, in a long interview urged him to let it stand. Stanton and Lincoln have not yet spoken together on the subject.

It is considered very doubtful whether Hunter is but to be considered an executive, acting within the scope of his powers, in default of positive instructions to the contrary, and exercising undoubted war powers, and whether therefore the order can be annulled.

The Star says he has a positive prohibition against such a step, but this certainly cannot be in any other sense than possibly a general warning against political proclamations.

Washburne, of the House has just returned from New Kent Court House, and says the army of the Peninsula is greatly exasperated against the rebels for their barbarities, and are ready for the severest measures, and are not likely to be displeased with Hunter's proclamation.

MILITARY GOVERNOR OF SOUTH CAROLINA.

General Saxton is Military Governor of South Carolina, and not of the whole department of the South as stated. His instructions are understood to be general, and leave much to his own discretion, under the General commanding the Department, in military sense. In civil matters he is supreme.

THE NEW CONFISCATION BILL.

The Senate Confiscation Committee stood four to four, Mr. Cowan being absent. One section proposed by Mr. Wilson, requiring the President, on the passage of the act, to issue a proclamation declaring the slaves of all rebels remaining as such thirty days forever free, will be proposed and urged in the Senate, and now that Hunter has spoken, it will probably be passed

THE GUNBOAT REPULSE.

The first news of the fight with our gunboats was brought by loyal blacks, who left Richmond Friday, where was reported a great fight between the fort said to mount 100 guns, and situated upon a bluff 80 feet above the river, and the gunboats. The gunboat Galena could not have been in the fight, as she draws too much water to go up so high.

Messages received indicate on opportunity to do better in future. The river is now clear of obstructions to within eight miles of Richmond. At this point is a heavy battery on a high bluff. The river is temporarily closed to navigation by sunken vessels, among which are reported the Yorktown and Jamestown, piles, chains, etc.

The Monitor could not elevate her guns to reach the bluff, which rendered her useless. The banks of the river are filled with rifle pits, from which incessant fire was poured on our fleet, a part of which were engaged within six hundred to a thousand yards of the main battery. After an action of four hours, the fleet, finding it impracticable to silence the battery on the bluff, withdrew. Our loss is 13 killed and 11 wounded.

MINOR ITEMS.

A Norfolk Unionist says he and all others of the same principles, are in favor of a stringent confiscation law.

Millson, the former Representative, who has been living in Norfolk the life of a hermit, was found by visitors in a state of great depression.

Dr. A. J. Walker, assistant army surgeon, has been stricken from the rolls for intoxication and neglect of duty.

The authenticity of the letter to Flag Officer Farragut, signed Declout, commandant of the French war vessel Milan, asking the postponment of the blockade for sixty days, is disbelieved by those best qualified to judge.

Governor Sprague when here had an hour's talk with Mr. Sheffield, of Rhode Island, in which he advised him not to attach himself to the Conservative slavery party.

M. Wade's bill donating thirty thousand acres of public land to each Senator and Representative for every State for the purpose of establishing agricultural colleges, was reported by the Senate committe on territories without amendment.

The Pacific Railroad Bill is to be taken up during the morning hour of Tuesday, and passed, its friends say, certainly. The noes were counted on Wednesday.

It is intimated that the Pension Bill passed by the House will take $40,000,000 from the Treasury annually. It will be modified in the Senate.

Eli Thayer is going to run again in the Worcester District, Mass., for Congress.

Col. Van Wyck, after being under arrest for three days on a charge of appropriating to the use of his regiment abandoned rebel property, has been released.

A bill is to be introduced at the suggestion of the Navy Department giving to the Charleston pilot and his crew of loyal blacks, full value for the prize brought to the blockading squadron. The commander of the Emily St. Pierre, recaptured by an inferior force, has been dismissed from the service. This report does not materially differ from accounts published in English papers.

THE RUMORED FOREIGN INTERVENTION.

There have been a great many rumors of the proposed intervention of France and England in our affairs floating about this city for several days.

The greater part of these are the work of secret secessionists, who know that the rebellion is on its last legs, and who wish to bolster the falling cause. They are sending letters, I suspect, to all parts of the country.

Nevertheless there has been enough in the attitude assumed by certain foreign ministers to give plausibility to their statements.

There has been some danger of inconsiderate action on part of the French Minister, it is thought, but the recent victories at New Orleans, Norfolk, Fort Pillow and elsewhere have poured some new light into the foreign mind.

One thing the country may rest assured of, that the Government will meet all threats or tenders of intervention in the most determined spirit. Friendly offers made in a sincere desire to adjust the civil troubles will be courteously considered, but any other will be summarily dismissed.

It is reported upon pretty good authority that President Lincoln has said he would raise a fresh army of a million men, rather than submit to any forcible intervention. If he did say so he only anticipated the universal sentiment of the people.

CHICAGO MARKET.

CHICAGO, May 17.

The Great Eastern's news and the unfavorable advices from New York caused a dull and heavy wheat market here, and prices declined 1c per bushel on No 2 and No 1 Spring. Amber Iowa wheat was steady and unchanged; sales ranged from 88 @88½c for Amber Iowa, 79@79¾c for No 1, and 69@71c for No 2 spring. Rejected spring wheat was dull and unsaleable. Flour was dull and drooping—buyers insisting on lower prices.

A scarcity of vessels rendered the market for Corn dull, and we note a decline of ½@¾c per bushel, with sales of old Mixed afloat and in store at 30c and 28¾@29c. Oats opened steady but closed dull. Rye declined ¼@½c per bushel; sales being made at 42½@42¾c. Barley quiet; sales ranged from 65@66c according to quality. Timothy seed was more active. Clover seed very dull. Highwines quiet and easier, with small sales at 19c. Linseed oil cake is coming more into use and is held at $18.00@19.00 per ton. Provisions of all kinds continue dull and nominal.

There are but few vessels in port and holders are firm. Three vessels were chartered at 7c for corn, and 7½c for wheat, at Buffalo.

MILWAUKEE MARKET.

MILWAUKEE, May 19.

MORNING REPORT.

Wheat market opened dull and heavy this morning, with 75@76c as the best offers made to buy No 2 and 1 in store. One buyer took about 18,000 bus No 1 at 80c, with many sellers anxious to realize at this figure. Milling wheat sold at 82@83c.

SECOND REPORT.

At noon the wheat market ruled dull and drooping, owing to the unfavorable European and Eastern news. Early, several lots were sold at 76@80c to complete a cargo, and when this demand was supplied 75½@80c were the ruling prices. But at the close, the market was dull and heavy, with no offers above 75c for No 2, while No 1 ranged at 79@80c. Bagged wheat was inactive and nominal at the close. Flour continues dull and drooping, with no large transactions. Freights are quiet and firm. A vessel was chartered to arrive at 7½c for wheat to Buffalo.

LATEST NEWS.

BY TELEGRAPH TO ST. PAUL.

WINSLOW'S LINE.

THE GUNBOAT AFFAIR.

OPERATIONS OF THE GALENA.

NONE OF OUR VESSELS SERIOUSLY INJURED.

WHAT THE ENGAGEMENT HAS DEMONSTRATED.

BALTIMORE, May 19.

It is reported by the Old Point boat that the Galena was considerably damaged in her upper works by the plunging shot of the rebel batteries.

WASHINGTON, May 19.

To the steamer fight near Richmond, the Galena anchored half a mile off Bailey, pouring a broadside on the rebels.

They opened fire. the first shot striking our port bow and going through the armor.

About five minutes later we got another shot very near where the first one struck. As it came through it killed one man instantly and wounded four more. We fought them four hours, until we got out of ammunition, when we had to retire. We got 28 shots in our side and 17 on deck. We had twelve men killed and two dangerously wounded, who have since died, and fifteen slightly wounded We made a gallant fight, but had we taken the battery could not have held it, and the obstructions in the river prevented our going up any higher.

One thing we have demonstrated, the Galena can stand heavy shot at a short range.

We fired 238 rounds—all that we had. If we had had plenty of shells we could have silenced the rebels in two hours.

WASHINGTON, May 20.

A private letter from an officer of one of the flotilla, speaking of the recent engagement, says the Galena iron clad was admirably managed—so beautifully and saucily that she passed five or six times as close as she could get, and silenced one of their batteries. She then passed and repassed the second battery six times, but finding they were using so much ammunition for which we expect to have better use farther up, Com. Rogers ordered the wooden vessels to run up, whilst he in the Galena lay abreast of the battery and disconcerted the rebel gunners.

The Galena then followed, but the buoys had been displaced so that the pilots last evening run the Galena ashore, and she is still aground. None of our vessels are seriously injured.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

A FEDERAL GOVERNOR FOR NORTH CAROLINA.

NARROW ESCAPE OF A GUNBOAT.

The Fugitive Slave Law in the District.

WASHINGTON, May 20.

A MILITARY GOVERNOR OF NORTH CAROLINA.

Hon. Edward Stanley is on eve of departure for North Carolina. He, to-day received his commission as Military Governor of that State. He is invested with the powers, duties and functions of that station, including the power to establish all necessary offices and tribunals, and suspend the writ of habeas corpus during the pleasure of the President, or until the loyal inhabitants shall organize a State Government in accordance with the Constitution of the United States.

His powers are exactly similar to those with which Gov. Johnson, of Tennessee, is invested.

A STATEMENT CONTRADICTED.

An army officer just arrived here, from Port Royal, denies the published statement, that at the last accounts our pickets were within four miles of Savannah.

A GUNBOAT ON FIRE.

The gunboat Jacob Bell, lying at the Navy Yard wharf, was discovered on fire at an early hour this morning, but the flames were soon suppressed. She was loaded with ordnance stores. Some of the boxes of shells were considerably charred, hence the vessel barely escaped being blown up. The origin of the fire is not known.

OPERATIONS OF THE FUGITIVE SLAVE LAW IN THE DISTRICT.

The Circuit Court to-day appointed three commissioners for the adjudication of cases arising under the fugitive slave law.

There seems to be considerable testimony by military authorities regarding the fugitives under their protection. Therefore it cannot be said the law has free course.

This afternoon about fifty of the citizens of adjoining counties in Maryland, proceeded to the White House, accompanied by Messrs. Crissfield, Culvert, Webster, and Leary, representatives in Congress from that State, who had a conversation with the President regarding the interests of their constituents as involved in the fugitive slave law. They say the President promised a response on some other occasion.

THE MILITARY TELEGRAPH.

The United States military telegraph has an office open and working in a saw mill, 14 miles distant from Richmond. The line to the various camps and stations between headquarters and Fortress Monroe, are in good condition and working admirably.

From Gen. McClellan's Command.

THE ARMY MOVING.

WHITEHOUSE, Va., May 19.

The army commenced moving at an early hour this morning in the direction of Richmond, and will encamp some miles in advance of this place. The advance under Gen. Stoneman reached the Railroad bridge at the Chickahominy. It is a long tressel bridge, two spans only of which are burned. The pickets of the enemy's line are guarding the whole line of the river in front of Richmond, making it difficult to get any reliable information from there.

Gen. McClellan went on a reconnoissance to-day to Chickahominy. The programme of operations in front of Richmond will soon be decided upon.

FROM THE MOUNTAIN DEPARTMENT

HUNTING DOWN REBEL BUSHWHACKERS.

A GUERILLA BAND BROKEN UP.

NEW YORK, May 20.

The Post's special, dated Franklin, Va., May 19th says, the headquarters of the Mountain Department are now at that place.

Guerilla parties in this section are tolerably active, but our cavalry are continually on their track, and the bushwhackers lead an uneasy life.

A few days ago a train with four officers and some convalescent soldiers was attacked by guerillas between Moorefield and Petersburg, and the whole party was killed or captured with the exception of one surgeon, who got away and brought in a report of the affair.

Lieut. Colonel Downey, who was sent after the bushwhackers with a guard of men, reports to day that he got on the track of the party, overtook them, killed their Captain and three men, wounded a number, and took twelve prisoners. Lieut. Colonel Downey and his party did not receive a scratch

Thus one more band of guerillas is broken up.

Affairs at Norfolk.

NORFOLK, May 19.

A flag of truce was sent out yesterday in the direction of Suffolk, to return prisoners of state, released from Fort Warren.

The Seaboard and Roanoke railroad has been found in good condition to Suffolk—only a single bridge having been destroyed. The road will be repaired immediately, and rolling stock put in condition as soon as possible.

California Legislature and Capital.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 15.

The Legislature adjourned sine die to-day, and Sacramento becomes the State Capital again.

NEWS AND MISCELLANY.

—The Richmond Dispatch mentions two instance where the rebels in that city have buried their sick soldiers before they were dead.

—A nephew of ex-Governor Barbour of Va., is appointed Chief Clerk of the Inspection office, with a salary of $2,000, displacing T P. Trott, who has filled the place for twenty years.

—Hon. Samuel Vinton, of Ohio, for many years a representative in Congress and recently appointed one of the Commissioners under the District of Columbia Emancipation Act, died at Washington, yesterday.

—The number of postage stamps sold in the New York post office has been gradually increasing for the past two months, and it is considered a sure indication of the revival of business generally. The amount now averages about $2,300 per day.

—The London Times is very urgent to have a volunteer force of 100,000 men enrolled in Canada, because "Federal America is in a conquering mood," and says that "Canada will have to choose whether she will be a rival or a slave." The Times will have plenty of material for panic articles when it gets the present news from this side.

—A plant, called the Drosera, has just come to notice. It kills instantly all flies that settle on it, and is so exceedingly sensitive that the hairs with which it is furnished will converge on the application of one six-thousandth of a grain of ammonia, while a single hair is affected by a sixty-fourth thousandth.

—The New York Herald's Washington correspondence says the Democratic address has fallen still born in the midst of the exciting military news. Its appearance, under the particular auspices of Vallandigham, makes it an objec. of suspicion, to be generally avoided.

—The cell at the Tombs in New York, where the slaver Gordon was confined previous to his execution, has been haunted ever since so that no prisoner dared to stay there The "ghost" has just been found out to be a man in the cell above, who moaned through a crack between the two cells. There will be no more mysterious noises there.

—The gunboat Varuna, which, under Lieut. Boggs, sunk six rebel gunboats in the Mississippi, below New Orleans, and then went down, sinking her iron-clad antagonist with her, and firing her guns till they were submerged, was built by the Mallorys, at Mystic, Connecticut, last year, as a merchant vessel, and was purchased by the Government on the recommendation of Commodore Gregory. Her career has been short but glorious, and the history of her exploits will be a brilliant exemplification of American naval prowess.

—The General Assembly of the New School Presbyterian Church met in Cincinnati on Thursday last, and that of the Old School Church at Columbus.

—A ponderous writer in the Faribault Republican is engaged in criticising the style and grammar of the report of the Statistical Commissioner. He might be at better and more profitable business. It is easy to carp at the sun for having some dark spots, but it is a tolerably useful sun after all. Some of the criticisms are amusing and indicate the intelligence of the writer. Thus he objects to the word "climatic" as improper, and gives the following italicised instance of Wheelock's grammatical blundering: "Illinois and Iowa are the garden," &c. To make good grammar of this, the Faribault man would have it read, "Illinois and Iowa is, &c." Wheelock says "real estate is patent and immoveable," which the Faribault critic says "is equivalent to saying real estate is patent and patent." To such a philologist and grammarian as this, it is not wonderful that any tolerably descent English should seem absurd. We think Wheelock will survive.—State News.

PROGRESS OF EMANCIPATION IN MISSOURI.

From the St. Louis Anzeiger, May 14.

That emancipation has made great progress in the last year in Missouri is shown by the report of a meeting held in Hannibal, in which Mayor Green and other city authorities took part—all being slaveholders, and advocating emancipation in the strongest terms. This circumstance is much more important as it took place in a neighborhood rich in slaves, and in which, a year since, it would have been dangerous to speak of emancipation. But slaveholders themselves have become convinced that slavery in Missouri is an institution dangerous and unprofitable. Whatever may be advanced for the continuance of slavery in the cotton States, it must be admitted that it is a misfortune for Missouri. The climate of Missouri offers no inducements to slave traders to bring new negroes here from other States, and the few thousands already here are enough to restrain and terrify immigrants. As long, therefore, as slavery exists, Missouri remains stationary. Heavy taxes and the large State debt are calculated to make extensive land and slave owners thoughtful; they have come to the opinion that "something must turn up," in order to save the State from ruin, and, therefore, they encourage emancipation and free labor, in order to place Missouri in that position among States to which, on account of her immense unexplored wealth, she is entitled.

The meeting in Hannibal will have an incalculable good effect upon the rest of the State. It will also have a favorable influence upon the State Convention, which if it does not itself repeal some portions of the State Constitution, will no doubt allow the people to speak in reference to emancipation. By this means discussions will arise, and by its influence slavery will be killed, as other detested institutions have been. Candidates for office will be asked, "Are you for abolition in Missouri; if so, how?"

GENERAL ARMY NEWS.

EXTRACTS FROM CORRESPONDENCE.

Facts, Incidents and Speculations.

POSITION AND STRENGTH OF THE REBELS AT CORINTH.

The rebel position at Corinth is regarded by our engineers as having been well chosen and well fortified. Its natural defenses are strong and the intrenchments and rifle pits make it so much stronger. A small creek, a mile and a half or two miles in front of Corinth and running semi-circularly around exactly in front of our lines of advance, protects their rifle pits These are further defended by abattis of fallen timber, and by the swampy ground which stretches along a great part of their front. Above these are redoubts, protecting their heavy siege guns. Much, however, of their fortifications may be described as simply a rude breastwork of logs and earth, for infantry. Major-General Pope, who was in full view of the fortifications on the rebel right, the other day, during his reconnoissance in force from Farmington, says he will have no trouble in going right over them, whenever Gen. Halleck will give him permission.

The roads from Corinth to Purdy on the right, and from Corinth to Farmington on the left, form an obtuse angle, opening toward the Tennessee river. Between these our lines are stretched, the right of Thomas' (late Grant's) army resting on the Purdy road and the left of Pope's in Farmington

TELEGRAPHING AND SIGNALING.

The headquarters of each corps d'armee are connected with Gen. Halleck by telegraphic wires, and instead of waiting for the tedious transmission of orders by uncertain orderlies, over blind roads, the operator ticks them out from Halleck or Buell, or Thomas, or Pope, with so much speed and certainly as if they were all assembled in the same tent and receiving instructions by word of mouth. The detachment of the signal corps is not idle either, and from one hill-top to another, over distances of three or four miles, above dense timber and impassable ravines, the mysterious wavings of flags carry to the corps commanders news of the operations and wants of their several Divisions to the front with the rapidity of sight. Light and lightning are thus our orderlies.

ARE THE ENEMY AT CORINTH?

Many persons doubt whether the enemy will, after all, make a stand at Corinth, and some even do not hesitate to utter the opinion that the rebels have already commenced a retreat. On this subject the same correspondent says:

Where Generals disagree, who shall decide? Prisoners and deserters are strictly forbidden to hold conversations about the rebel positions with any but their official questioners; staff officers and all others are specially enjoined to keep secret anything they may hear about the rebels; and, in short, there is as much affectation of mystery about the movements at Corinth as if they were our own secrets, instead of those of the rebels we were trying to keep.

Meantime General Halleck is known to be firmly persuaded that Beauregard's whole "Shiloh" army is still at Corinth, with heavy re-enforcements from New Orleans, from Missouri and Arkansas from the conscriptions throughout Tennessee, Mississippi and Alabama, and possibly from the East. His staff all agree with the General, and scout at the idea of a rebel retreat. Major General Thomas, on the other side denies that there is a rebel soldier at Corinth, except a very heavy rear guard, left to oppose our advance as long as possible, and to cover the retreat of the main army, and the removal of the heavy artillery. Other Generals, who have been ont on reconnoissance, and who have had opportunities of conversing with deserters, prisoners, and the country people, also take a view directly opposite to that of the General Commanding. Here, in General Pope's army, there is no sort of doubt that the enemy are in heavy force and mean to fight.

For my own part, I am content to follow General Halleck, in the belief that we are on the verge of a great battle—not because I know anything on which to base such an opinion, but because he ought to know; and because I cannot believe that a General of so much reputed sterling sense can be moving in the field with the largest of the national army, without knowing where he is going or what he is about.

WHAT NEXT IN VIRGINIA.

A week has passed since our troops occupied Yorktown and Williamsburg. We now have James river. If Burnside is at Welden, cutting off retreat in that quarter, the rebel army has no chance of escape, except toward Danville. Under present circumstances, the prospect is that Johnston, Lee and Magruder's forces will escape into the Gulf States. But let us not yet despair of a better result.

A correspondent writing from the Peninsula speaks as follows of the FEELING AMONG THE REBEL WOUNDED.

As a general thing, the wounds inflicted upon the Southern troops were much more severe than those sustained by our men. This was owing, probably, to the fact that our side used Minie bullets mainly, which inflict much more terrible wounds than the round balls fired by the Southern troops. Nearly all the wounded with whom I conversed in hospital seemed to regret their connection with the war, and many did not hesitate to say they could have borne their wounds better if received in a better cause. Several from Mississippi said they had been served right for coming so far to fight their own brethren.

SOUTH CAROLINA IN BAD REPUTE.

Others of the wounded from Maryland and Western Virginia, expressed the greatest possible indignation and contempt towards the South Carolina troops, whose habit it was, they said, to do all the bragging and shirk all the fighting. In not a single instance, they said, had a South Carolina regiment ever borne the brunt of a battle; they always took care to get some other regiment in advance of them. These men said they were tired of fighting the battles of such a State. The war had ruined Virginia, and they had had quite enough of it.

BARBARITY OF REBEL SURGEONS.

Mr. Raymond writes to the New York Times from Williamsburg:

On Tuesday morning a flag of truce came in, covering Dr. Cullen, the Medical Director of Longstreet's division of Southern troops, who brought with him fifteen Southern surgeons to attend to their wounded. The surgeons, however, were totally indifferent to their wants. One of the Mississippi men, with whom I talked, spoke of the highest terms of the kindness he had experienced at the hands of the Union surgeons, and said it was very different from what they had been taught to expect. I asked him if any of their own surgeons had been to see him. He said one had walked in the day before and looked at him, but had done nothing for him; indeed, he said, they were only looking for Southern officers! Of the men they took very little notice, leaving them to the care of the Northern surgeons, who made, I was glad to see, no such distinction. Wherever I went and talked with rebel wounded, I heard only one opinion expressed on this subject. They all spoke in the most emphatic and unequivocal praise of the conduct of all our men, soldiers and surgeons, toward them, dwelling particularly upon the fact that they had been taught to expect very different treatment at our hands.

IMPENDING FAMINE.

There is one point I desire to impress upon the people of the North. The inhabitants of this part of the Peninsula are on the verge of starvation. The Southern soldiers had absolutely swept them bare of everything, and now the National troops come to gather up the gleanings. Their corn, their cattle, everything they had for themselves and for their slaves has been consumed; they have no crops for the coming season and their condition is truly deplorable. It would be a great boon to them if trade could be speedily opened between them and the North.

HOW THEY FEEL IN NORFOLK.

The New York Tribune's correspondent, writing from Norfolk, May 12, furnishes the following:

Passing up the street I found the stillness of the Sabbath unbroken, as the soldiers, in little squads, walked quietly here and there, and the sullen men and women at street corners or behind the blinds of their houses, looked curiously and malignant at the victors, but were too much cowed down to make any hostile demonstration. Suddenly the stillness was broken by the roar of cannon not far off, and then a few minutes after by an explosion whose concussion shook earth and sea. The Merrimac! was the name on every lip, and a more fearful gloom quickly settled on the brow of every rebel citizen of Norfolk. The fire which the rebels had kindled in the ship had reached first the loaded guns and exploded them, and then the magazine of the world-noted tyrant of Hampton Roads, and she was no more.

DESTRUCTION OF THE NAVY YARD.

I cannot describe the ruined Navy-Yard adequately. The scene is too sorrowful. Fifty large machine shops and houses are smoking ruins; blackened hulks of steamers or gunboats lie on every side; huge piles of coal are still burning. The houses of officers alone are saved, and these by the efforts of citizens, not by the sparing mercy of the rebels What folly, as well as sin! By that conflagration a fatal blow is dealt at Virginia, and that by the hands of her professed special friends. This rebellion is making itself infamous, even at the South, by its wanton incendiary fires. The Navy Yard dry dock yet remains but little injured, only the front stones being loosened and the gates burned. The attempt to blow it up proved a failure.

A NEGRO SALE POSTPONED.

We are just in time to prevent another crime of Slavery. The Norfolk Day Book of Saturday, now in my hands, has the following advertisement in its columns:

SALE OF FREE BLACKS FOR CITY TAXES.
CITY COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,
Norfolk, May 6, 1862.

Under the provisions of an ordinance directing the sale of all free blacks who fail to pay their city taxes, I shall, before the door of the City Hall, on Monday, May 12, at 12 o'clock m., sell the following persons for the term specified by said ordinance.

Here follow the names of one hundred and twelve males and two hundred and four females. I was at the place at the given time, but found no opportunity to buy a slave, had I desired so atrocious a crime. God be praised. Slavery is doomed! None welcome so loudly, none so gladly, our soldiers as the slaves of these two cities. Whether others be Unionists or not, they surely are.

HOW THE WAR AFFECTS THE INDIANS.

The loyal Indians are still in Kansas, and being slightly fed by the Government agent at thirty cents per diem to the head. Many of these unfortunate creatures have approached so near the starvation point that they have been driven to the resort of digging roots for subsistence. Those people on last fall, or rather the early part of the winter, were driven from well improved farms, and at the opening of the present spring they begged to be reinstated in their homes in time to raise a crop, and finally required at the hands of the Government only transportation and ammunition, and they would drive the enemy from their country without assistance.

ROVING BANDS OF REBELS TO BE OUTLAWED

In a brief extemporaneous charge of Judge Catron to the Grand Jury at Nashville, on Monday of last week, he called their attention especially to marauding armed bands. He said they were not to be regarded as civilized warriors, and were not, in any country. It was the duty of the Jury to indict all engaged in them, and those abetting them.

STATE NEWS.

The St. Cloud Union claims that Stearns county has shipped more grain the past season than any other county in the State.

The same paper says that "every tenement in St. Cloud is occupied, and there are loud calls for more."

Among those who passed on to Fort Garry and the Cariboo gold mines, were Hon. E. Page Davis and Hon. H. G. Hanscome, gentlemen well known in political circles. It is a noticable fact that those who leave for these mines from our State are many of them prominent citizens, and generally well to-do, intelligent citizens.

Of the party who left this place last week was Dr. Wm. B. Simonton, an accomplished gentleman and a skilful physician.—Union.

MAIL FACILITIES ON THE St. CROIX.—We learn that arrangements are being made to have our daily mail carried by boats. For our part we do not see how it can be carried in any other way, and have the matter satisfactory to the people of the St. Croix Valley. The line is so long that it will be impossible, especially in the spring and fall, without involving a large expenditure of money in stocking the route, to make the schedule time with horse flesh.—Taylor Falls Reporter.

Mr. Gilman Jewell, long a resident of Polk county, died at his residence, a short distance from St. Croix Falls, on Friday morning last, and was buried on Sunday. Mr. Jewell leaves his family in good circumstances.—Ib.

THE TELEGRAPH.—Mr. C. C. Shores, President of the Wisconsin Telegraph Company, has been in town for a few days for the purpose of having repairs made on the line across the river. It is his intention, when the water is at a low stage during the summer, to have a sub marine cable sunk in the river. Until that time arrives, a temporary mast will be erected in place of the one recently carried away, and the wires stretched across as before. The water is too high now for even this work to be done. The business is now done by an operator who crosses the river in a skiff, and having a temporary office fitted up on the island.—Winona Republican.

News from Richmond.

ARRIVAL AT WASHINGTON OF FEDERAL PRISONERS.

AFFAIRS AT THE REBEL CAPITAL.

On the evening of the 14th inst., the Federal prisoners so long confined at Richmond, reached Washington. The National Republican gives the following particulars:

They were 800 strong, and as they passed from the river to the depot the people generally turned out to see them, and their hearty cheers at the sight of the stars and stripes along the route announced their joy at once more being free.

Their narrative of the incidents of their journey here is very interesting. Last Sunday it was announced to them that they were to be released on parole. At 10 o'clock at night they were taken out of their place of confinement, which was once the store and commission house of Luther Libby, on Cary street, near Eighteenth, and marched down Cary and Main streets to Rocket's, where they embarked. Many a handkerchief was quietly and stealthily waved at them by fair hands, which testified of Union heart, as they passed along the streets to embark. They were put on board of the two rebel steamers Curtis Peck and Northampton.

The next (Monday) morning, at about ten o'clock came in sight of the ancient town of Jamestown, and soon after their joyful eyes caught sight of the Stars and Stripes as they waived from the Union gunboats, the Galena and Aroostook. How their hearts leaped for joy! And over the waters of the James three times three cheers reverberated along the rebel shores from nearly a thousand loyal hearts! The rebels displayed the flag of truce. They did not even dare to have a rebel flag on board. Here they stopped for about one hour and received directions from Capt. Rogers, as to how the prisoners should be disposed of. They then passed the three Union gunboats and went down the river. Met the Monitor at Harden's Bluff. The rebels opened fire on the Monitor, pouring their shot right across the bows of the flag of truce vessels.

The Monitor passed on without noticing the batteries. The Captain of the Monitor put his head up out of the turret, or "cheese box," and shouted to the Union prisoners, "Why don't you give us three cheers, boys?" And the "boys" did give them three cheers with a will. "Why don't you give 'em a pill over in those batteries?" shouted one of the prisoners. "We don't notice such small fry—got bigger fish up the river to take care of," was the reply: and the "cheese box" steamed on up the river without noticing the batteries.

Arriving off Newport News, the prisoners were transferred to the Federal steamers Hero and Wm. Kent. Here, for the first time, they learned that Norfolk was taken and heard the fate of the Merrimac. And strange to say the rebel guard which accompanied them were equally ignorant of these facts.

This, or something else, had a strange effect on the 25 men accompanying them, who were a portion of Jeff. Davis' body-guard, for only eight of the number returned in the rebel steamers. The orderly sergeant set the example by throwing his gun overboard, and swearing he would fight no longer for the Confederacy. A dozen more guns followed, and the men passed over into the Union boats, and promptly took the oath of allegiance to the Federal Government.

Eighty rebel prisoners who were waiting to go on board the rebel steamers, refused to return to the service of the Confederacy, and asked to have the oath of allegiance administered to them also; and proper officers from Newport News came on board and administered the oath, much to their satisfaction.

The Hero and Wm. Kent brought the Richmond prisoners up to this city, and they arrived here last night as stated, and are now quartered at the "Soldiers Rest" near the Baltimore depot.

Many interesting incidents are related by those prisoners. We have time to relate only a few.

A meeting was held in Richmond, by the citizens, soon after the evacuation of Yorktown, which was a very exciting one, and prolonged for three days. A tough fight was had over the question of "surrender or burn," and it was at last decided in favor of surrendering the city, if they were forced to it, though the "roughs," who own no property, tried hard to defeat the measure.

The rebels are to make a stand about a dozen miles out of the city, and say they will make a desperate fight before they will lose the city. They say they have got McClellan in a trap, as they have erected their batteries in the face of a swamp, into which the federal army will be entrapped.

Immediately after the evacuation of Yorktown the greatest panic prevailed in Richmond. Wagons, ambulances, horses, wounded soldiers, stragglers, &c., were pouring into the city day and night for several days. Large numbers of families began to pack up and leave for the South. It is said that Jeff. Davis has gone to Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

Provisions, &c., are very scarce and high. Their food was scanty and of the meanest kind, and the prison discipline very rigid.

John Minor Botts is released on parole, although he is virtually a prisoner in his own house. He is not allowed to leave his country seat near Richmond.

The Union sentiment is strong and its development on the increase.

The above facts were gleaned in quite a hasty manner from personal conversations with them.

MAY.—DYSPEPSIA.—This is a very distressing complaint, and gives the patient more suffering than almost any other disease. In fact, it is a combination of many complaints in one. The symptoms are numerous, and of the nature of almost all other complaints combined. From this fact arise the very many cases where this disease is mistaken for some other and so improperly treated. The first symptoms, indigestion, flatulency, loss of appetite, heartburn, headache etc., if neglected, almost always awaken some dormant disease, and send the poor sufferer to a premature grave. What you must first do is to cleanse the blood and regulate the bowels—do this with the "Mountain Herb Pills," and you can bid defiance to dyspepsia.

MILLS,
SITUATED ON PHALON'S CREEK, WHERE THE STILLWATER ROAD CROSSES.

This Mill is just completed, and is in good running order. Our machinery embraces all the latest improvements, and was got up in the East, without regard to expense. It has two run of Burrs, which will be kept running night and day, so that farmers coming from a distance can be accommodated without much delay.

The need of a first class Mill o this kind has long been felt by the citizens of St. Paul and vicinity. We have secured the services of James Craigie, who has made milling the business of his life, and in whom we can place entire confidence.

All kinds of grain will be weighed when brought to the Mill, and also when taken away, if desired. We feel confident in saying to the public that we can make as good Flour and as great a yield to the bushel as any Mill in Minnesota, and respectfully solicit a fair trial.

Also a new Mill for grinding corn in the ear.

THE STEAMBOAT RIVALRY.—The La Crosse Democrat, of Monday evening, has the following item on the contest between the Itasca and Keokuk:

"It will gratify the friends of the Itasca to know that this morning the Northern Belle, of the La Crosse and St. Paul Line also passed the Itasca twice. This will lessen their ill feeling toward the Keokuk. We do not think Capt. Davidson cares to race his boats, and if their regular running time proves to be better than other boats can do with extra effort, we do not see how any one can be blamed. Better save your money."

RIVER NEWS.—The river during twenty-four hours, up to six o'clock last evening had fallen three inches.

NEW GROCERY FIRM IN ST. PAUL.—The rapidly increasing number of first class wholesale business houses in this city is a gratifying indication of confidence in the present and future prosperity of St. Paul, and the immense extent of country tributary to it. Among the new firms lately established here, that of Messrs. H. W. Hayden & Co, who have for some time been accumulating a large stock of Groceries in one of the fine new stores on Jackson street, is likely to take a prominent position. Mr. Samuel McCartney, a well known St. Louis merchant, is one of the members of this firm. Mr. Hayden representing the house in St. Paul. The services of Mr. Richard Gordon have been secured as salesman and clerk, and his long familiarity with the business in this State will no doubt add materially to the success of the firm.

FROM GEN. BANKS' COMMAND.

MATTERS IN THE SHENANDOAH VALLEY.

FEDERAL OCCUPATION OF STAUNTON.

A FEDERAL ADVANCE PARTY TAKEN PRISONERS,

STRASBURG, Va., May 16.—Yesterday P. M. a band of guerillas made a dash in the railroad beyond Front Royal, and killed one and took fourteen prisoners, all belonging to the 78th Pennsylvania.

The railroad bridge, 50 feet high, and 350 feet long over the north Fork of the Shenandoah, was completed to-night. The track will be laid, and trains will pass tomorrow afternoon. The work was constructed in forty hours, under the superintendence of G. W. Nagle, Government bridge builder. All is quiet in front to-night.

It is currently reported that Milroy and Schenck are in occupation of Staunton.

The following is extracted from a dispatch to the Secretary of War:

RECTORTOWN, Va, May 16.—A company of infantry of my command was yesterday ordered to Linden, to remain stationary there. A detachment of seventeen men, guard to the company wagon, reached there a short time before the main body of the company, which was on a train. They were attacked by a body of cavalry, variously estimated at from 300 to 600, coming upon them from four directions. Our men resisted them, keeping up a sharp fire under shelter of the depot, which was riddled with bullets. My men were overpowered. One was killed, and fourteen taked prisoners, three of whom were wounded, when the enemy hastily retired under fire, and I am informed that a portion of Gen. Shields' command had a skirmish with them.

SHARP SKIRMISHING.

OUR TROOPS STEADILY ADVANCING.

THE REBELS PREPARING FOR SPEEDY FLIGHT.

Special to the Chicago Tribune.
CAIRO, May 17, 1862.

The steamer Shingess has just arrived from below with thirty refugees from Memphis. It is the same old story of impressment, outrage and flight. The Union citizens are waiting, hoping and praying for the advent of the Federal army.

A large number of refugees also just arrived here to-day by the steamer Diligent. They also report three or four hundred more on the way. A number of them are men of families who have always been strong Union men, and have left their families behind rather than bear arms against the Federal Government.

Some of them are men of means, and well known in this community. Thus they almost became intoxicated with joy when they landed here, saying they once more breathed the pure atmosphere of liberty. One of them brings Memphis papers of the 13th, which contain the evacuation of Pensacola, also the surrender of Norfolk and the burning of Memphis, which they say is a military necessity. The Memphis Appeal has moved its office to Grenada, Miss., and for the present works its edition off on a small hand press, ready to leave whenever our fleet arrives at Memphis, which is momentarily expected.

No further news from Pittsburg Landing of importance.

Gov. Blair and Adj. Gen. Robertson, of Michigan, are in town, on their way to Pittsburg.

The steamer Meteor has just arrived from Pittsburg Landing.

There are no movements of importance up the Tennessee. The army is slowly and steadily advancing.

The rumor telegraphed last night is probably without foundation. The Meteor brings no confirmation of the report.

FROM SHILOH—WHO COMMAND THE REBELS

CAIRO, MAY 18.—The news from Pittsburg Landing is unimportant. After a picket skirmish on our extreme right, lasting nearly two days, the rebels were driven back, having succeeded in destroying a bridge over a small creek four miles north of Corinth, to prevent the advance of our forces. Twelve of our men are reported wounded.

Deserters report that the rebel army is suffering greatly for water and provisions, and that many of their cattle are starving for want of forage.

Guerillas infest the country surrounding Hickman, New Madrid and other points below, and are committing great depredations.

No news from the fleet.

Passengers from Pittsburg give currency to a report brought into our camp by deserters, that Bragg commands the army at Corinth, Beauregard having gone East Price commands the right wing, Polk the centre, and Van Dorn the left.

MOVEMENTS OF GEN. CURTIS—OUR TROOPS ADVANCING.

BEFORE CORINTH, May 17th.—Latest advices from Gen. Curtis are that his forces are between Searcy and Little Rock, Ark., and rapidly marching on the capital. Gen. Rector called out the militia and the people generally to come out, and large numbers applied to Gen. Curtis for protection. They desire to come under the old flag.

A general advance has take place along our lines towards Corinth. Much skirmishing and several severe engagements have taken place. Gen. Sherman lost 44 killed and a considerable number wounded, in attacking Russell's house, which the rebels occupied some time past, worrying the pickets. We succeeded in driving the enemy from their position back. They are expecting an attack on Sunday morning.

Among the killed rebels left on the ground was one with a sword, supposed to be an officer. Our forces under Major General Sherman still occupy the Russell House.

Skirmishing took place with the 8th Missouri, only about three hundred yards from the enemy's breastworks. Several rifles were captured in the skirmish on the right, and are perfectly new, marked "Breese & Frymon, Bremen." They are much superior to the rifles used by our sharpshooters, having a range of from 800 to 1,500 yards, while ours are only effective at about 1,000.

In all cases the rebels left on the field were shot in the head, and the wounded were shot in the neck and breast. The enemy's loss on the field was about forty killed and one hundred wounded. Deserters from Corinth all report the entire absence of chloriform in the medical stores. There is probably none in the Confederacy. The weather is very warm and the roads quite dusty.

Operations at New Orleans.

OFFICIAL REPORT OF GENERAL BUTLER.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE GULF,
FORTS JACKSON AND ST. PHILIP,
April 29, 1862.

To Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

SIR:—I have the honor to report that, in obedience to my instructions, I remained on the Mississippi river with the troops named in my former dispatch, awaiting the action of the fleet in the bombardment of Forts Jackson and St. Philip.

Failing to reduce them after six days of incessant fire, Flag Officer Farragut determined to attempt their passage with their whole fleet, except that portion thereof under the immediate command of Capt. Porter, known as the mortar fleet.

On the morning of the 24th inst., the fleet got under weigh, and twelve vessels, including the four sloops-of-war, ran the gauntlet of the fire of the forts and were safely above. Of the gallantry, courage and conduct of this heroic action, unprecedented in naval warfare, considering the character of the works and the river, too much cannot be said. Of its casualties and the details of its performance the flag officer will give an account to the proper department. I witnessed this daring exploit from a point about eight hundred yards from Fort Jackson, and unwittingly under its fire, and the sublimity of the scene can never be exceeded.

The fleet pressed on up the river to New Orleans, leaving two gunboats to protect the quarantine station, five miles above.

In case the forts were not reduced and a portion of the fleet got by them, it had been arranged between the flag officer and myself, that I should make a landing from the Gulf side, in the rear of the forts at the quarantine, and from thence attempt fort St. Philip by storm and assault, while the bombardment was continued by the fleet.

I immediately went to Sable Island with my transports, twelve miles in the rear of Fort St. Philip, the nearest point at which a sufficient depth of water could be found for them. Captain Porter put at my disposal the Miami, drawing seven and one-half feet, being the lightest draught vessel in the fleet, to take the troops from the fleet as far in as the water would allow. We were delayed twenty-four hours by her running ashore at Pass al'Outre. The 26th regiment Massachusetts volunteers, Col Jones, were then put on board her and carried within six miles of the fort, where she again grounded.

Capt. Everett, of the 6th Massachusetts battery, having very fully reconnoitered the waters and bayous in that vicinity, and foreseeing the necessity, I had collected and brought with me some thirty boats, into which the troops were again transhipped and conveyed by a most fatiguing and laborious route some four and a half miles further, there being within one mile of the steamer only two and a half feet water.

A large portion of this passage was against a heavy current through a bayou. At the entrance of Mamcel's Canal, a mile and a half from the point of landing, rowing became impossible, as well from the narrowness of the canal as the strength of current, which ran like a mill race. Through this the boats could not be impelled but by dragging them singly, with the men up to their waists in water. It is due to this regiment, and to a portion of the Wisconsin volunteers and 21st Indiana, who landed under this hardship without a murmur, that their labors should be made known to the department, as well as to account for the slowness of our operations.

The enemy evidently considered this mode of attack impossible, as they had taken no measures to oppose it, which might very easily have been successfully done.

We occupied at once both sides of the river, thus effectually cutting them of from all supplies, information or succor, while we made our dispositions for the assault.

Meantime Capt. Porter sent into the bayou, in the rear of Fort Jackson, two schooners of his mortar fleet, to prevent the escape of the enemy from the fort in that direction.

In the hurry and darkness of the passage of the forts the flag officer had overlooked three of the enemy's gunboats and the iron clad battery Louisiana, which were at anchor under the walls of the fort. Supposing that all the rebel boats had been destroyed (and a dozen or more had been), he passed on to the city, leaving these in his rear. The iron steam battery being very formidable, Captain Porter deemed it prudent to withdraw his mortar fleet some miles below, where he could have room to manœuver if he was attacked by the iron monster, and the bombardment ceased.

I had got Brigadier General Phelps in the river below, with two regiments, to make demonstrations in that direction if it became possible.

In the night of the 27th, learning that the fleet had got the city under its guns, I left Brigadier General Williams in charge of the landing of troops, and went up the river to the flagship to procure light draught transportation. That night the larger portion (about two hundred and fifty) of the garrison of Fort Jackson mentioned, spiked the guns bearing up the river, came up and surrended themselves to my pickets, declaring that as we had got in their rear, resistance was useless, and they would not be sacrificed. No bomb had been thrown at them for three days, nor had they fired a shot at us from either fort. They averred that they had been impressed and would fight no longer.

On the 28th the officers of Forts Jackson and St. Phillip surrendered to Captain Porter, he having means of water transportation to them. While he was negotiating, however, with the officers of the forts under a white flag, the rebel naval officers put all their munitions of war on the Louisiana, set her on fire and adrift upon the Harriet Lane, but when opposite Fort St. Phillip, she blew up, killing one of their own by the fragments which fell into that fort.

I have taken possession of the forts and find them substantially as defensible as before the bombardment—St. Philip precisely so, it being quite uninjured. They are fully provisioned, well supplied with ammunition, and the ravages of the shells have been defensibly repaired by the labors of the rebels. I will cause Lieut. Wietzel, of the Engineers, to make a detailed report of their condition to the department.

I have left the 26th Regiment Massachusetts Volunteers in garrison, and am now going up the river to occupy the city with my troops, and make further demonstrations in the rear of the enemy now at Corinth.

The rebels have abandoned all their defensive works in and around New Orleans, including Forts Pike and Wood, on Lake Pontchartrain, and Fort Livingston from Barrataria Bay. They have retired in the direction of Corinth, beyond Mancho Pass, and abandanced everything up the river as far as Donaldsonville, some seventy miles beyond New Orleans.

I propose to so far depart from the letter of my instructions as to endeavor to persuade the flag officer to pass up the river as far as the mouth of Red river, if possible, so as to cut off their supplies, and make there a landing and a demonstration on their rear as a diversion in favor of General Buell, if a decisive battle is not fought before such movement is possible.

Mobile is ours whenever we choose, and we can better wait.

I find the city under the dominion of the mob. They have insulted our flag—torn it down with indignity. This outrage will be punished in such manner as in my judgment will caution both the perpetrators and abettors of the act, so that they shall fear the stripes if they do not reverence the stars of our banner.

I send a marked copy of a New Orleans paper containing an applauding account of the outrage.

Trusting my action may meet the approbation of the Department,

I am, most respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
BENJAMIN F. BUTLER,
Major General Commanding.

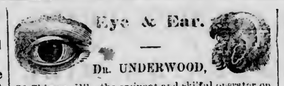
Eye & Ear.


DR. UNDERWOOD,
Of Chicago, Ill., the eminent and skilful operator on the Eye and Ear, whose name and fame is so extensively known throughout the United States, for his science, skill and success in performing formidable operations, and in removing difficult and dangerous diseases from those delicate organs, has arrived in St. Paul and may be consulted at the AMERICAN HOUSE for a short time only.
Dr. U., who is a regular Physician and Surgeon of the old school, has had an extensive experience in both hospital and private practice of twenty-eight years, and will be found competent to perform any operation necessary to restore lost sight or hearing, or by other mild and gentle means to remove any disease from those delicate organs within the reach of science and human skill.
CHRONIC DISEASES, of every grade and character, whether requiring medical or surgical treatment, POSITIVELY and PERMANENTLY CURED, when not clearly beyond the reach of science and human skill.
Dr. Underwood treats all diseases on regular and scientific principles, as recognized by the medical profession both in Europe and America, and hence does not use or deal in those pretended new and never failing remedies—pecifies, inhaling vapors, and clairvoyant prescription—which are so ostentatiously paraded before the public by those impudent traveling quacks and money-fleecing empirics, nine-tenths of whom never were inside of a medical college. Patients afflicted or laboring under diseases of long standing, can consult Dr. U. with the most confident hope and expectation of being perfectly cured, or receiving with unerring certainty all the relief that the highest skill, the most judicious and scientific treatment can possibly bestow.
Among the diseases which the Doctor has lately treated with the most signal success, may be mentioned those of the Heart, Lungs, Liver, Stomach and Bowels—and Nervous Affections, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Salt Rheum and Chronic Female Affections. my7-3m

PACKET COMPANY.
SUMMER ARRANGEMENT
During the season of 1862, till the close of navigation, the La Crosse and St. Paul Packet Company, having completely equipped their Line, and made large additions to their business facilities, will offer to shippers and passengers on the river greater inducements and conveniences, and QUICKER TIME, than was ever offered by any company on the river.
All the boats on the Chippewa, Minnesota, St. Croix and the upper Mississippi rivers, and the different lines of stages north of La Crosse will the coming season run to connect with the Davidson boats and the La Crosse and Milwaukee Railroad.
The La Crosse and St. Paul Packet Company will run a
PASSENGER AND FREIGHT LINE.
The former will number two first class boats—the nicest and fastest on the river. They will be the McCLELLAN and NORTHERN BELLE. The first will be the lightering line, making the run from La Crosse to St Paul in EIGHTEEN HOURS, and returning will leave here in the morning, and arrive at La Crosse in twelve hours time, to connect with the evening train, by which passengers will make close connection and reach Milwaukee in time for cars, or boats on the Lake in TWENTY HOURS FROM ST. PAUL, and reach Chicago next morning, by Minneota Junction or Milwaukee, in just TWENTY-FOUR HOURS FROM LEAVING ST. PAUL, and in time for close connection East! This will be twelve hours the quickest time between these three cities ever made! Nothing but passengers, the mails express matter, and express goods will be carried on these boats, which will be furnished in the best of style. Passengers will thus have daylight to view the grand beauties of the river, and good sleeping cars from La Crosse to Chicago—a great item. Arrangements have also been perfected so that all the boats of the upper rivers, and all the stage lines will run in close connection
The other line will number three regular boats; the Keokuk, G. H. Wilson and Wenona, one of which will leave La Crosse daily on the arrival of the morning train from the East, connecting at all points north, and will also make close connections. The Favorite will run as a tri-weekly packet between St. Paul and Mankato, on the Minnesota river.
A daily line will also run between St Anthony and St. Cloud on the Upper Mississippi, for passenger and freight business. All of which are to connect with the boats above named, plying between La Crosse and St. Paul, and connecting with the La Crosse and Milwaukee Railroad.
This Company have just completed at St. Paul, a mammoth wharf boat, which will hold seven hundred tons of freight; and to or from which goods of all kinds can be carried to any part of the city, without further handling or danger of breakage
Shippers of freight to St. Paul by this line or over the La Crosse and Milwaukee Railroad in connection, will, by shipping to the care of J. C. Burbank & Co., have their goods delivered FREE in the City, or forwarded to all points North FREE of WAREHOUSE OR STAGE CHARGES. Goods going the other way have the same advantages.
To avoid all delays, and to make the closest connections and quickest time, see that your tickets are for this line and no other.
